INTRODUCTION

From the descriptive catalogues, published reports, and the lists of MSS available in public libraries in India and outside India, as also from a special search instituted in private libraries in various parts of India, the existence of more than 125 MSS of the Bhīmaparvan ( text only ) has been so far established, about half of them being written in Devanāgarī characters, about 20 in Bengali characters, some 15 each in Grantha and Telugu characters, over 10 in Malayālam characters, but only one in Śāradā characters. MSS in Nevārī and Maithilī characters have not so far been traced.

There exist, besides these 125 MSS of the text alone, nearly 40 other MSS giving the text of the parvan together with a Sanskrit commentary namely, Arjunamisra's Bhāratārthadīpikā, some 10 MSS, Nilakantha's Bhāratabhāvadīpa ( or °dīpikā ), about 30 MSS, and two MSS of an anonymous commentary. Manuscripts containing commentaries alone on the Bhīmaparvan number more than 30, there being, besides the two commentators already mentioned, about ten others, including Devabodha, the oldest of them all. This makes a total of about 200 MSS of the parvan available for consultation, out of which MSS giving the commentaries alone are to be classed primarily under the "Testimonia", as not being relatively so much useful for the constitution of the critical text. Out of the remaining 160 MSS, as many as 60 MSS were actually procured and fully ( about 10, only in parts ) collated for this edition. From these, finally, 34 MSS were selected to constitute the critical apparatus.

TESTIMONIA

(1) Commentaries

The following five commentaries have been regularly collated, as far as available, the first and fourth given in MSS along with the text, the others by themselves

Ca, representing the Devanāgarī Version of Aṣṭamīmāṃsā, on the evidence of his comm called Bhāratātārthadīpikā ( or °pradīpikā ) as given in the MSS. designated Da<sub>1</sub> and Da<sub>2</sub>

Cc, representing the Version of Catuḥbhujaṃsā, on the evidence of his comm called Tātparyapīṭhāṅkārā ( ? ) as found in a solitary MS belonging to the Baroda Oriental Institute, No 13036

Cd, representing the Version of Devabodha, the oldest Mahābhārata commentator so far known, on the evidence of his comm called Jñānadīpikā as found in a solitary MS, No 12982, belonging to the Oriental Institute, Baroda, dated Śaka 1688 ( A. D 1766 ) In this MS the commentary on the Bhagavadgītā portion is absent

Cn, representing the Devanāgarī Version of Nīlakantha ( = the Vulgate ), on the evidence of his commentary called Bhāratabhāvadīpa ( or °dīpikā ) as given in the MSS designated Dn<sub>1</sub> and Dn<sub>2</sub>

Cv, representing the Version of the Southern commentator Vāḍināja, on the evidence of a transcript of his comm called Lakṣāṇamkārā as given in MS No C 1577, belonging to the Govt Oriental Library, Mysore

The following three commentaries are far too meagre, and have been drawn upon only occasionally in the Critical Notes

C Vimalabodha's Durghatārthapīṭhāṅkārā, Poona, Bombay Govt Collection ( deposited at the BORI ), No 84 of 1869-70, dated Śaka 1724 ( A. D 1802 )

C Yājña( or Sarvajña )nārāyaṇa's Bhāratatātparyasamgraha, transcribed from MSS Nos R 2169 and R 1625 belonging to Govt Or MSS Lib, Madras

C Rāmānuja's Viśamaślokaṭīkā also called the Bhāvārthadīpikā, as given in the India Office Codices, Nos 470 and 1411

There are, besides, commentaries passing under the names of Srṣṭidhara ( MS in the RASB of Calcutta ) and of Vidyāsāgara ( MS once reported as being in the Trivandrum Palace Library ), which I have not examined, but which, from their descriptions, are, presumably, equally meagre

(11) Epitomes

The Kashmirian Kṣemendīa's metrical summary called the Bhāratamañjarī ( ca A. D 1050 ) Here the contents of the Bhīṣmaparvan are summarised in 497 stanzas

The Jain poet Amaraśāstra's ( 13th cent A. D ) poetic epitome called the Bālabhāratam Here the contents of the Bhīṣmaparvan are summarised in 384 stanzas.

( 111 ) Translations and Adaptations

The Javanese abridged paraphrase or adaptation ( the critical value of which lies in its quotations from the original Sanskrit, given at variable intervals, and followed by their translation into Old-Javanese ) as published in Bibliotheca Javanica, No 7, Het Oud-javaansche Bhīmaparwa, edited by Dr J Gonda, 1936 This is not later than the tenth century of the Christian era The Sanskrit citations preserved in this Old-Javanese adaptation are gathered together in Appendix II

The Telugu adaptation, the Āndhra Bhāratamu, begun ( Ādi and half of Āiānya ) by the Telugu poet Nannaya Bhatta ( 11th cent A D ), and completed by his two successors, Tikkana ( Sabhā, Vnāta, Udyoga, etc to the end ) and Erra Piagada ( remnant of Āiānya ), at long intervals

The Persian version made by Muslim poets and scholars at the court of Akbar ( 1556-1605 A D ) This is rather a free rendering of the original, which had to be explained to the translators by Hindu pandits under the orders of the Emperor

ADDITIONAL APPARATUS FOR THE BHAGAVADGĪTĀ

Besides the above MSS and Testimonia available for the entire Bhīmaparvan, for the Bhagavadgītā section of the parvan ( = chapters 25-42 of the Vulgate = chapters 23-40 of the present edition ), owing to its great importance and popularity there were available hundreds of MSS and scores of commentators, old and new, which made it imperative to collate representative MSS of the text proper, and to consult the leading commentaries and other testimonia bearing upon it The following have been utilised for the purpose

Śāradā Version of the Bhagavadgītā [ S ]

- Ś<sub>1</sub> = London, British Museum, Oriental MS No 6763 D

Commentators' Versions of the Bhagavadgītā as gathered from the following

Cb = Bhāskara's comm called Bhagavadāśayānusaṅga, as found in a fragmentary MS, readings from which are reported by T. R. Chintamani in his edition of Ck, Madras, 1941

Cc = Catubhuja's comm called Tātparyapralāśikā ( ? ), as found in MS. No. 13036 of Baroda Or. Institute, already mentioned above. The Gītā comm. in this MS covers only the first two chapters

Cg = Abhinavagupta's comm. called Bhagavadgītārthasamgraha, as found in Ś<sub>2</sub>

Ck = Rājūnaka Rāmakantha's ( or Rāmakavi's ) comm. called Sarvatobhadra, as found in Ś<sub>4</sub> and Ś<sub>5</sub>

Cn = Nilakantha's comm, as in the MSS. Dn<sub>1</sub> and Dn<sub>2</sub>

Cr = Rāmānuja's comm called Gītābhāṣya, as in the Gujarati Press edition. The sub-comm, Tātparyapralāśikā of Venkatanātha, is occasionally cited.

Cś = Śamkara's comm called Gītābhāṣya, as given in the Ānandāśrama edition, Poona ( 1909 ), and other standard editions

Cu = Dhanapati's sub-comm, called Bhāṣyotkāsadīpikā on Cś, as in the Nirṇaya Sagar Press ed ( 1936<sup>2</sup> ) of the BG with Eight Commentaries

Cv = Vādnāja's comm, already described in the Testimonia for the parvan

APPARATUS FOR THE "GĪTĀSĀRA"

Finally, for critically constituting the text of the "Gītāsāra" ( Appendix I, No 3 ), which seems to be current in two recensions, and which has a critical value of its own out of all proportion to its intrinsic merit, in addition to MSS. K<sub>0</sub>-2 which give its longer version, the following MSS (giving its shorter version) were available for use

Ś<sub>1</sub> = Poona, Bombay Govt Collection (deposited at the BORI), No 179 of 1883-84, the first 15 folios of which give the text of the Gītāsāra with a commentary (designated Cs<sub>1</sub>)

Ś<sub>2</sub> = Poona, Bombay Govt Collection (deposited at the BORI), No 175 of 1883-84, giving the text of the Gītāsāra and accompanied by the same comm as above, which is here called Brahmasambodhinī, and is attributed to Śrīdhara-cārya. It is designated Cs<sub>2</sub>

K<sub>1</sub> = Poona, Bombay Govt Collection (deposited at the BORI), No 175 of 1883-84, giving only the text of the Gītāsāra

DETAILED ACCOUNT OF THE MANUSCRIPTS

Ś<sub>1</sub>

Calcutta, Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal, No 3312 (4065) Total number of folios 112 (giving 223 photo-plates apparently one side of a folio has not been photographed) The MS lacks the initial part covering about 4 folios, and so begins from 6 2 31st and continues right up to the end of the Bhīṣmaparvan. Some of the folios are frayed and parts broken off. About 24 lines to a page, 30 letters to a line. Size 13" x 10". Old Kashmirian paper. Śāradā characters. Dated Laukika Samvat 85 (ca. A. D. 1739)

The same MS also contains (1) the Āranyakaparvan, which was not used for the Critical Edition owing to its extremely dilapidated condition, (2) the Virāṭaparvan (= Ś<sub>1</sub> of the Critical Edition of that parvan), and (3) the Kānaparvan (= Ś<sub>2</sub> of the Critical Edition of that parvan, dated Laukika Samvat 84). The last folio of the Āranyakaparvan gives the date of copying as, शके १६६० माघमासे शुक्लपक्षे १४ शुके समाप्तम्, and also as स्वत् ८४. This enables us to arrive at an equation for the Laukika Samvat given at the end of the Bhīṣmaparvan.

The preserved portions of this MS apparently belonged to a complete Mahābhārata MS, seeing that the photo-plate numbered 71 of the Bhīṣmaparvan bears the folio number of 741. The fragile condition of the MS made it necessary to obtain photographs of it, and the University of Bombay was generous enough to acquire a complete set of photos of the MS and loan it out for the use of the B O R Institute. Several folios of the original MS had lost the portion of the margin giving the folio number, and so got misplaced. There are 4 such unnumbered folios in the Bhīṣmaparvan portion, giving 8 photo-plates which, while photographing, were numbered from 1 to 8. These have now been restored to their correct places in the parvan sequence, so that photo-plates Nos 1 and 2 come after photo-plate No 66, and have to be renumbered as 66 $\alpha$  and 66 $\beta$ , plates 4 and 3 ( in this order ) to be renumbered as 40 $\alpha$  and 40 $\beta$ , plates 7 and 8 as 172 $\alpha$  and 172 $\beta$ , and plates 5 and 6 as 172 $\gamma$  and 172 $\delta$ . This makes the text continuous to the end.

The MS is copied by one and the same scribe in a fairly correct and uniform hand, except perhaps for the two folios coming after plate 172 ( viz plates 7, 8, 5 and 6 ) which seem to be in a different hand. The concluding benedictory line of the MS is written by the scribe in Devanāgarī characters, and a similar lapse into his native script is seen in copying 6. 110 5<sup>c</sup>-6<sup>a</sup>. There are occasional marginal additions and corrections by the same hand in Śāradā characters, and also, in a place or two, secunda manu.

The MS contains a very large number of haplographical omissions, several of them shared by other Kashmirian MSS. The following are peculiar to this MS

Of additions,  $\dot{S}_1$  contains relatively very few. Ignoring the Bhagavadgītā portion (which is considered separately below), there is only one star-passage, a half stanza (151<sup>e</sup>), which is peculiar to  $\dot{S}_1$ , and even this was very probably due to scribal inadvertence. The remaining additions found in  $\dot{S}_1$  are either common to the majority of the K MSS, or else belong practically to the entire N recension, they being generally absent from the S recension. These are shown below.

As to the Bhagavadgītā—for which we possess an increased critical apparatus of  $\dot{S}_{1-c}$ ,  $K_{0-c}$  and  $\tilde{N}_1$ —the additions stand on a somewhat different footing

Ś<sub>1</sub> alone gives 92*, 95*, 98* ( these being the samgrahaslokas or recapitulatory stanzas given by Cg ), besides 102* The other additions are as under

Shared by Ś<sub>1</sub> along with Ś<sub>2-6</sub> K<sub>6</sub> 87* ( given by Cā b g k ), 91* ( given by Cā b k )

Shared with Ś<sub>3-6</sub> K<sub>6</sub> D<sub>8</sub> 104* ( also in Cā ), 105* ( also in Ck ), 106* ( also in Cā k )

Shared with Ś<sub>3</sub> K<sub>6-8</sub> s 6 Ñ<sub>1</sub> B<sub>1</sub> s 4 Da<sub>1</sub> Dn<sub>1</sub> D<sub>1-4</sub> s T G M<sub>2</sub> 108* ( also in Cg v, this being an extra stanza at the beginning of chapter 13 )

Shared with K<sub>6-8</sub> B<sub>2-4</sub> Dn D<sub>4</sub> s 112* ( being the "Gītāmāna" stanza )

Comment on these additions peculiar to the Bhagavadgītā portion of the parvan will be found below

On the other hand, there are additions given by a large number of N MSS which Ś<sub>1</sub> does not give The stock group which contains most of these extra passages includes the thirteen MSS.—K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> s 7 s—the passages in question being

11*, 39*, 294*, 457*, 490*, also, 10*, 43*, 51* ( with K<sub>2</sub> added to the group ), 318*, 447*, 482*, 503*, 507* ( with D<sub>6</sub> added ), 469* ( with both K<sub>2</sub> D<sub>6</sub> added ), 55* ( with K<sub>2</sub> D<sub>6</sub> added, D<sub>7</sub> om ), 53* ( with K<sub>1</sub> added, K<sub>4</sub> D<sub>7</sub> om ), 40* ( with K<sub>2</sub> added, Da<sub>1</sub> om ), 52* ( with B<sub>3</sub> om from the group ), 84* ( with D<sub>6</sub> om. ), 12*, 44* ( with D<sub>7</sub> om ), 228* ( with Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>3</sub> om ), 509* ( with D<sub>4</sub> om from the group, and D<sub>6</sub> added )

The following cases may also be associated with the above group

467* ( with D<sub>1</sub> s 6 added to the group ), 343* ( with K<sub>3</sub> s D<sub>1</sub> s 6 added ), 222* ( with K<sub>1-3</sub> s D<sub>1</sub> s 6 added ), 465* ( with K<sub>3</sub> s D<sub>1-3</sub> s T G added ) Also, 504* ( with K<sub>4</sub> B<sub>3</sub> om and K<sub>2</sub> added ), 510* ( with B<sub>1</sub> s om and D<sub>6</sub> added ), 187* ( with B<sub>3</sub> om. and K<sub>2</sub> D<sub>1</sub> s added ), 73* ( with K<sub>4</sub> Da<sub>2</sub> D<sub>5</sub> om and K<sub>3</sub> added ), and 142* ( with Da<sub>1</sub> Dn B<sub>3</sub> om and D<sub>1</sub> s added )

All these cases can be held to establish the relative immunity of Ś<sub>1</sub> ( and to a less extent of MSS possessing affinity with it ) from a large number of what may be considered as characteristically Northern late additions

As to the longer passages listed in App I, the Śveta episode ( No 4 ) is absent in all Ś and K MSS as well as in the entire S recension<sup>1</sup> It is given by B<sub>3</sub> Da Dn and D<sub>4</sub> s On the other hand, App I, Nos 2-3 —the Tāntiic prelude ( including the Dhyāna ) and the Gītāsāra, which both belong to the Bhagavadgītā portion— are found in the Kashmiri version alone, whereas App I, No 1, the

Kātyāyanīstara, primarily belongs to B Da Dn and a few D MSS, but is found by conflation in K<sub>2</sub> 4. It is not given by Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> 1 3 5.

As regards transpositions, as characteristic of Ś<sub>1</sub> is the tendency to transfer, to the end of the preceding chapter, the introductory stanza or stanzas of the next chapter. This we find to be the case at the end of chapter 6, chapter 8 and chapter 18, there being a carrying over of two stanzas in the last case. In the Bhagavadgītā portion, Ś<sub>1</sub> is alone in transposing 6 24 66-67 and 68-69, 6 35 33 and 34, and 6 37. 11<sup>ab</sup> and 11<sup>cd</sup>, and in reading 6 41 51 after 52<sup>ab</sup>. The curious transposition of 6 48 48<sup>c</sup>-70<sup>d</sup> (and the colophon) after 6 49 4—which is found in Ś<sub>1</sub> alone—is probably due to an accidental copying by the scribe of line 6 48, 69<sup>cd</sup> (and subsequent lines) in place line 6. 48 43<sup>ab</sup>, to the scribe discovering the mistake after copying onwards up to 6 49 4<sup>cd</sup>, and to his attempt<sup>1</sup> to copy thereafter the accidentally omitted lines, but forgetting to delete the twice-copied lines in the earlier place. Other transpositions found in Ś<sub>1</sub> alone (e.g., of 6 102 75<sup>ab</sup> after 72, and of 6 107. 23<sup>cd</sup> and 24<sup>ab</sup>) are of minor significance. Found in Ś<sub>1</sub> alone, there is, further, a transposition of 6 66 14'-15<sup>a</sup> after line 4 of 275* and a repetition of the same in its proper place, as well as an erroneous transposition of 6 90 37<sup>bc</sup> after 6 90 35 and its repetition in the proper place. These do not need any special comment.

There are a few transpositions which Ś<sub>1</sub> shares with other MSS. Thus, shared with K<sub>0-2</sub> is the transposition of 6 58 1<sup>a</sup>-16<sup>b</sup> and 6 61 7<sup>a</sup>-19<sup>a</sup> (the opening passages of the respective adhyāyas<sup>2</sup>), while shared with K<sub>0</sub> 2 is the reading of 6 61 62<sup>cd</sup> after 6 61 63, the transposition of 6 99 20<sup>ab</sup> and 20<sup>cd</sup>, and of 6 115 4<sup>cd</sup> after 5. Shared with K<sub>0-2</sub> 4, in a like manner, is the absence of transposition of 6 88 21<sup>d</sup> and 22<sup>b</sup> given by all other MSS. Far more material is the phenomenon in 6 15, where Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-3</sub> 5 D<sub>1</sub> 2 7 (the last om 22<sup>c</sup>-23<sup>d</sup>) read, after line 22<sup>ab</sup>, stanzas 39-54 first, and stanzas 24-38 afterwards. I have commented on this in a paper<sup>3</sup> contri-

<sup>3</sup> On one point, further clarification is perhaps necessary. This "transposition accident" belongs to the entire Śāradā and Kashmiri group of MSS (K<sub>4</sub> only half sharing in it), as also to a few D MSS, and (as explained in the above mentioned paper) it presupposes in the parent MS a loosened and misplaced folio with the missing folio-number, and with a total of about 60 half-stanzas written on its two sides together. The "omission accident" discussed in the same paper presupposes a similar parent MS exerting its influence over a large number of important Devanāgarī MSS. Only the Bengali group, and of course the S groups, fall outside the purview and the influence of the hypothesized parent MS. The few stragglers from the D group can of course be explained away as due to conflation with a Southern source. —I am aware that this one case alone cannot completely establish a rigid dicotomy between the Northern and the Southern recensions. But, quantum valeat, it can lend buted to the Annals of the BOR Institute, vol xxv, pp 82-87 The situation as regards the transpositions of 6 19 12-28 is fully set forth in the Tabular Statement on p 99 of this edition

Coming to the phenomenon of the joining together and separation of chapters, Ś<sub>1</sub> gives an additional colophon after 6 3 22, but since the end of C<sub>1</sub> Ed chapter 5 is also the end of chapter 5 in Ś<sub>1</sub>, it does not appear where Ś<sub>1</sub> ends the fourth chapter, because, in it, as well as in K<sub>0</sub> 1, at the right place, the colophon of chapter 4 is absent Presumably, however, Ś<sub>1</sub> transfers 6 3 23-46 to the opening of chapter 4. After 6 16 20, contrariwise, N (except Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> 1) M read an addl colophon As Ś<sub>1</sub> does not give the passage in App I containing the Kātyāyanīstava, so, in common with the MSS K<sub>0</sub> 1 3 5 D<sub>1</sub> 3 5 6 S which omit that passage, Ś<sub>1</sub> (like the Critical Edition) reads the short GK chapter 24 as a continuation of 3 22 16 The passage No 4 in Appendix I is omitted by Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> 1 3 5 B<sub>1</sub> 2 D<sub>1</sub> 3 5 6 T G M<sub>1</sub> 2 The omission of colophons in Ś<sub>1</sub> is often accidental for instance, at the end of chapters 47, 50, 57, 71, 72, 73, 74, 81, 90, 93, and this also holds good of colophon omissions shared by Ś<sub>1</sub> with MSS usually allied to it Thus there is an omission of the colophon at the end of chapter 59 in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> 2 D<sub>1</sub> 1, of chapters 87, 89, 101, 103, 106 in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> 1, of chap 110 in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> 2 We have, however, accepted as authentic and justifiable the omission of the colophon at the end 6 95 25, found in Ś<sub>1</sub> alone, which is backed by the authority of the commentator Devabodha<sup>1</sup>, who ends the eighth day of the battle at 94 20, as also the omission of the colophon at the end of 6 112 77 as found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> 1 T<sub>2</sub>, where the topic is continuous, T<sub>2</sub>, besides, omitting the introductory "uvāca" reference

K<sub>0</sub>

Poona, M<sub>1</sub>ukai Collection of the Bhārat Itihās Samshodhaka Mandal, No 207 Folios 227 (with folio 1a and 227b blank), slightly frayed at the lower and right hand margins and particularly at the right hand lower corner Generally 12 lines to a page, about 32 letters to a line Size 13½" × 7½" Old country paper Devanāgarī characters of the Kashmirian type Side margins ruled in quadruple red with a thick yellow line in the centre Half-lines, references and adhyāya colophons are marked off by double dandas, but there is no stanza-numbering Occasional blanks in the original are indicated by dotted lines Careful, generally correct, and legible handwriting In appearance the MS is about two to three hundred years old The donor of the MS belongs to Ahmednagar

This MS also contains (1) the Ādiparvan (not used for the C<sub>1</sub> Ed), greater support to the theory of two recensions, rather than of three parallel recensions with the North-eastern, including Bengali and the straggling D MSS, as coordinate to the North-western

<sup>1</sup> Unfortunately, K<sub>0</sub> 1, which were expected to support Ś<sub>1</sub>, have a lacuna at this place

(2) the Sabhāparvan (variants from which are noted in App II of the Crit Ed of that parvan), (3) the Āiānyakaparvan (not used for the Crit Ed), which gives at the end the date सवत् १५ मार्गवति द्वादश परत त्रयोदश चन्द्रे This points to the date Śaka 1592 or Śaka 1690, probably the latter (A D 1768), (4) the Udyogaparvan (not used for the Crit Ed), (5) the Dronaparvan, (6) the Karnaparvan (= K<sub>2</sub> of the Crit Ed), (7-8) the Śalya and the Sauptika parvans, (9) the Striparvan with the first 8 chapters missing, (10) the Śāntiparvan, and (11-14) the concluding four parvans from the Āśīamavāsa onwards. Thus the manuscript is lacking in three entire parvans, the Virāta, the Anuśāsana, and the Āsvamedhika, besides the first 8 chapters of the Striparvan. As each parvan has a separate paging, it is not possible to say whether the missing portions once formed part of the MS, which, in the preserved portions, shows the same uniform style of writing.

The MS became available at a somewhat late stage of the work on this edition, when all the available Kashmiri MSS of the Bhīsmaparvan were already included in the Critical Apparatus with appropriate gradation-numbers assigned to each. The present MS, however, turned out on inspection to be the best representative of the Kashmiri version, but since our K<sub>1</sub> was already fixed and utilised, we had to designate it K<sub>0</sub>, following herein a convention already followed in the earlier parvans of this edition. The MS comes nearest to Ś<sub>1</sub>, but has also its own independent characteristics.

The omissions found in K<sub>0</sub> alone are the following

The omissions, not already common to Ś<sub>1</sub>, which K<sub>0</sub> shares with other MSS of the K group—the majority of them through haplography—are the following

Shared with K<sub>1</sub> alone 6 1 32, 5 4<sup>c</sup>-5<sup>d</sup> (not hapl), 8 20<sup>b</sup>-21<sup>a</sup>, 9 4<sup>c</sup>-7<sup>d</sup>, 14<sup>ab</sup> (not hapl), 43 52<sup>a</sup>-54<sup>b</sup> (found in D<sub>1</sub> T<sub>2</sub> also), 46 50<sup>c</sup>-51<sup>b</sup>,

There is only one solitary transposition found in K<sub>0</sub> alone. After the ref of 6 36 22, K<sub>0</sub> reads 6 37 1-2, but repeats the same in their proper place This is evidently due to inattention The few other transpositions (not already found in Ś<sub>1</sub>) that it exhibits are shared by it with other K MSS Thus with K<sub>1 2</sub> it reads 6 62 23<sup>cd</sup> after 20, and transposes (erroneously with K<sub>2</sub> only) 114 22<sup>c</sup> and 23<sup>c</sup>, while with K<sub>3</sub> it reads 6 112 64<sup>cd</sup> after 66 Nor are there any stair-passages presented by K<sub>0</sub> alone. but common to  $\dot{S}_1$  :  $K_0$   $D_0$ , is 110\*, coming after 6 40 47<sup>ab</sup>, the Tāntric prelude to the Bhagavadgītā ( App I, No 2 ) common to  $K_0$  : 1, the Gītāsāra ( App I, No 3 ), following 112\* and common to  $\dot{S}_1$  :  $K_0$  : 2, 342\*, common to  $K_1$  : 2, coming after 6 86 11<sup>ab</sup> ( in  $K_1$ , after 10<sup>ab</sup> ), and 364\*, coming after 6 92 29<sup>ab</sup> and common to  $K_1$ . It is worth noting here that, with regard to 494\*,  $K_0$  gives the passage with the generality of the MSS and does not omit it like  $\dot{S}_1$   $K_1$   $G_{1-3}$ . As to colophons,  $K_0$ , like  $K_1$ , often omits the short colophon at the end of a chapter, as for instance at the end of chapters 3, 6, 8, 16, 18, 19, 88, but this is due very probably to scribal inattention, except perhaps in the case of chapter 16, which  $K_0$  :  $D_0$  probably combine with the following chapter.

The independence of  $K_0$  from  $\dot{S}_1$  is proved by its not sharing the omissions, transpositions, and additional passages peculiar to that MS, whereas its intimate and genetic relationship with the Śāradā version is established by the circumstance that, while other MSS of the K group at times give some of the characteristically Northern additions listed on p xviii above,  $K_0$  does not even once give any of those passages. As will be noted, of the thirty-two passages listed there,  $K_0$  gives none,  $K_1$  only two,  $K_2$  three,  $K_3$  eight,  $K_4$  ten, and  $K_5$  as many as thirty.

$K_1$

London, India Office Library, No 2137, new No 3226. Dated V Samvat 1839 ( A D 1783 ). Folios 122, size 16½" × 9", about 33 lines to a page. Written in the Devanāgarī characters of the Kashmirian type. Red ink for double danda and to "illuminate" the MS used in the first 60 folios only. Full of clerical blunders. Complete.

This MS also contains the Ādiparvan ( =  $K_1$  of the Crit Ed of that parvan ), the Virāṭaparvan ( =  $K_1$  of the Crit Ed ), and portions of the Dāna-dharma section from parvan XIII. The detailed description of the MS given in the Prolegomena to the Ādiparvan pp xi-xii holds good for the Bhīṣmaparvan also.

In spite of its numerous scribal errors, the MS usefully corroborates the data of  $\dot{S}_1$  and  $K_0$  as regards the Kashmirian version of the text, but it does very little else. Accordingly, as the MS is most carelessly written, no useful purpose will be served by recording its individual haplographical omissions of which we have counted nearly 50. We may note below its longer non-haplographical omissions.

After 6 10 35<sup>a</sup>,  $K_1$  repeats 33<sup>d</sup>-34<sup>a</sup>, and om 35<sup>b</sup>-36<sup>b</sup>, and after 6 15 28<sup>ab</sup>,  $K_1$  repeats 27 and om 28<sup>c</sup>. Also it om 6 19 30<sup>a</sup>-31<sup>b</sup>, 23 16<sup>a</sup>-17<sup>b</sup>, 24 1, from त्रिपुत्र in 27 20<sup>a</sup> up to सखे in 21<sup>a</sup>, from दुग्ध in 42 15<sup>b</sup> to भोज in 16<sup>c</sup>, 46 5<sup>c</sup>-6<sup>d</sup>, 49 28<sup>bc</sup>, 54 20<sup>a</sup>-21<sup>b</sup>, 55 50<sup>a</sup>-51<sup>b</sup>, 73 35, 77 31<sup>c</sup>-32<sup>b</sup>, from सख्ये in 81 29<sup>c</sup> to विव्याध in 30<sup>c</sup>, 83 28<sup>a</sup>-29<sup>b</sup>, 86 10<sup>c</sup>-11<sup>d</sup>, 90 2, 16<sup>b</sup>-17<sup>c</sup>, 91 8<sup>c</sup>-10<sup>c</sup>, 17<sup>b</sup>-19<sup>a</sup>, 56<sup>c</sup>-57<sup>d</sup>, 97. 47<sup>d</sup>-49<sup>b</sup>, 109 10<sup>a</sup>-11<sup>b</sup>, 114 100, from ततो in 115 28<sup>a</sup> up to समासाद्य in 29<sup>a</sup>.

In other respects, there are very few individual characteristics of  $K_1$  worth noting. Whereas  $K_0$  has a lacuna for 6 80 20<sup>a</sup>,  $K_1$  closes up the lacuna and ignores the loss of that pāda. In the lacuna preserved by  $\dot{S}_1$   $K_0$  for 6 98 10<sup>a</sup>-11<sup>c</sup>,  $K_1$  behaves in the same careless manner. In chapter 95,  $K_0$  om 23<sup>d</sup>-36<sup>a</sup>,  $K_1$  adds to this rather considerable omission two additional letters at the commencement. Once in a while  $K_1$  shows some independence, as when it does not share the hapl omission of 6 75 38<sup>c</sup>-39<sup>d</sup> in  $K_4$ , and of 38<sup>c</sup>-39<sup>c</sup> in  $K_0$ . As to the star-passage 53\*, which is one of the late Northern non-Kashmirian additions,  $K_1$  has fallen a prey to it.

$K_2$

Poona, B O R Institute's Mahābhārata Collection, No 15 (which has now been amalgamated with the BORI MSS Collection, and is numbered 246). Tough country paper, Devanāgarī characters. Folios 146, with fol 1a and 146b blank, with about 14 lines to a page and 48 letters to a line. Margins ruled in red and black and yellow lines. References and adhyāya colophons daubed over with red chalk. Size 13" × 6½". Dated Śaka 1693 = V Samvat 1828 (A D 1771).

This MS forms part of a complete MS of the Mahābhārata which, when it was acquired by the Institute in 1930, had the Āśvamedhikaparvan missing. From a study of the various post-colophon data found at the end of the parvans, we learn that a Kashmirian Pandit, Miśra Sadānanda by name, engaged five scribes, Jayakṛṣṇa (for Sabhā, Ādi and Vnāta), Udanāma (for Bhīma and Āianyaka), Haranāiāyana (for Drona), Khusālīnāma (for Śalya and Gadā), and Bhagavān (for Mausala, Mahāprasthānika, Svargārohana, Āśramavāsa, Stī and Kaina parvans), himself copying the Udyogaparvan. It is possible that the Āśvamedhika (which is now missing) was also written by Bhagavān either before or after the Āśramavāsa. The names of the scribes for the Śāntiparvan (in three sub-parvans) and of the Anuśāsana are not given, nor the dates of their completion, but as Sadānanda, the employer of the scribes, and the scribe Khusālīnāma had no work after April end, they must have divided the task amongst themselves. Incidentally it may be noted that there was a natural prejudice against beginning the copying work with Ādiparvan or with Āianyakaparvan; and as these two parvans took, for two different scribes, 44 and 60 days for folios 219 and 300 respectively, it gives a fair rate of copying per day namely, five folios, or about 210 ślokas. The entire copying period for the Epic (excluding the Harivamśa) was three months, from about the middle of April to about the middle of July, 1771. The copying was carried out at Bharatpur in Rajputana, except of Śalya with Gadā which was copied at a place named Mānapur.

Presumably owing to the circumstance that scribes more familiar with the Devanāgarī than with the Śāradā are apt to be misled by the similarities of the Śāradā ङ, ञ, न, र, म, य, etc, most Devanāgarī copies from Śāradā originals betray

The stai-passages given by  $K_2$  alone (or with another sporadic MS or two) are 3* (also in  $D_7$ ), 32* (also in  $D_8$ ), and 242*. It also gives 342* (shared with  $K_0$  1), 489* (shared with  $Dn_2$   $D_4$  & 3), 22* (shared with  $B_2$   $Dn$   $D_4$  & 3), and 418* (shared with  $B$   $Dn_2$   $D_4$  & 3). In the case of the last three, the MS already shows the influence of the late Northern group.

The transpositions peculiar to  $K_2$  are: after 6 6 2, it repeats 6 5 18<sup>a</sup>-19<sup>b</sup>, after the transposition of 6 58 1<sup>a</sup>-16<sup>b</sup> and 61 7<sup>a</sup>-19<sup>b</sup> (which is found in  $\dot{S}_1$   $K_0$ -2),  $K_2$  reads the stanzas 58 1<sup>a</sup>-16<sup>b</sup> immediately after the transposed stanzas from chapter 61. After 61 7<sup>ab</sup>,  $K_2$  (with  $K_0$ ) reads 9<sup>ab</sup>, after 66 16, it reads st 19<sup>cd</sup> (haplographically repeating it in its proper place), after 84 5, st 7<sup>ab</sup>, after 114 55, st 57<sup>ab</sup>, also (with  $K_0$ ) erroneously transposing 114 22<sup>c</sup> and 23<sup>d</sup>.

As to changes in chapter division,  $K_2$  gives an addl colophon after 6 16 20 and so it would seem to go against  $\dot{S}_1$   $K_0$  1 in splitting chapter 16 into two.  $K_2$  is peculiar in inserting just the lines 9-18 of App I, No 4 after 6 45 46, but not the preceding and following lines which together make up the Śveta episode.  $K_2$  (along with  $B_4$   $Dn_2$   $D_4$  & 3) ins an addl colophon after 6 74 17<sup>ab</sup>, followed by the regular reference. In other respects  $K_2$  follows its own group.

$K_3$

Poona, Bombay Government Collection (deposited at the B O R I), No 565 of 1882-83. Dated Śaka 1616 (A D 1694).

This is a complete MS of the Mahābhārata in Devanāgarī characters written in a uniform hand which is neither neat nor careful. But the writer calls himself गणेशभट्ट पुराणिक, who seems to have prepared for his own use the present transcript from several MSS of the different parvans that he procured from others. (The names of some of the owners are preserved on the fly leaf of the Āśīamavāsapaivan.) The few marginal notes that are supplied seem to be the work of the scribe, who must have used the MS for expository discourses. The scribe, at the end of the Dīonapaivan, gives Nasik as his place of residence. The Śāntiparvan was missing from the MS when it was acquired for Government. Only the Udyoga, the Śalya and the Āśvamedhika have preserved the date of writing, which is Śāka 1616 in the case of the Āśva-medhika and probably also the Udyoga, and Śāka 1619 in the case of the Śālya. The MS was used, besides for the present parvan, for the Ādiparvan (= K<sub>1</sub>) and the Udyoga (= D<sub>3</sub>). It was not collated for the Sabhā and Virāta parvans, and was collated but not included in the Cūṭi App of the Āiānyakaparvan.

Folios 204 (with fol 1a and 204b blank), 15 lines to a page, about 46 letters to a line. Size 14½" × 6". Margins carelessly ruled in red ink, the references and the colophons rubbed over with red chalk. Occasional use of yellow pigment for correction. The Bhagavadgītā portion gives Śrīdhara's well-known commentary, the Subodhinī, above and below the text, with the adhyāyas and the stanzas duly numbered. Such numbering is wanting in the other parts of the MS. As the copies of the several parvans were apparently made from different originals, it is natural that the value of the text should be differently estimated for different parvans. The consistent writing of ञ for ञ, as of ञ for ञ, would seem to be the typical characteristic of the scribe, rather than of the text that he was copying.

The MS exhibits a number of haplographical omissions, most of them shared with K<sub>1</sub> and D<sub>1</sub>, with the occasional addition of D<sub>1</sub>. Those so shared are

The following omissions are peculiar to the MS 6 10 60<sup>c</sup>-62<sup>d</sup> (hapl), 15 5<sup>a</sup>-6<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 22 3<sup>c</sup>-4<sup>d</sup>, 17<sup>c</sup>-18<sup>d</sup> (hapl), 44 17<sup>c</sup>-18<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 49 5<sup>cd</sup> (hapl), 50 72, 52 21<sup>a</sup>-22<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 53 6<sup>c</sup>-7<sup>d</sup>, 55 72<sup>cd</sup> (hapl), 58 26<sup>b</sup>-27<sup>a</sup> (hapl, with D<sub>1</sub> also), 60 56<sup>ab</sup> (hapl, with D<sub>1</sub> & B<sub>1</sub>), 65 4<sup>cd</sup>, 67 33<sup>a</sup>-34<sup>b</sup> (with D<sub>1</sub>), 70 26<sup>cd</sup> (hapl), 74 10<sup>d</sup>-11<sup>c</sup> (hapl), 75 22<sup>bc</sup> (hapl, with K<sub>1</sub>), 82 46-48 (hapl), 86 26<sup>ef</sup>, 89 24<sup>d</sup>-26<sup>c</sup> (hapl), 91 70<sup>a</sup>-71<sup>b</sup>, 93 27<sup>a</sup>-28<sup>b</sup>, 97 3<sup>c</sup>-4<sup>d</sup> (hapl), 101 5<sup>cd</sup>, 104 30<sup>d</sup>-31<sup>c</sup>, 105 22<sup>c</sup>-23<sup>d</sup>, 106 9<sup>b</sup>-10<sup>c</sup>, 12<sup>c</sup>-14<sup>d</sup> (both hapl), 107 30<sup>abc</sup> (hapl, with K<sub>1</sub>), 46<sup>ef</sup>, 110 16<sup>d</sup>-17<sup>c</sup> (hapl), 111 33<sup>d</sup>-34<sup>a</sup> (hapl), 112 46 (hapl, with D<sub>1</sub>), 54<sup>c</sup>-56<sup>b</sup>, 133<sup>d</sup>-134<sup>c</sup> (both hapl), 114 98<sup>b</sup>-100<sup>a</sup> (hapl).

The relation of the MS with the  $\dot{S}_1$  K group is indicated by the following omissions 6 41 52<sup>a</sup>-53<sup>c</sup> (hapl, with  $\dot{S}_1$  K<sub>0-1</sub>), 58 22<sup>ca</sup> (with  $\dot{S}_1$  K<sub>0-3</sub> D<sub>6</sub>), 65 10<sup>ab</sup> (with K<sub>0-2</sub>), 99 9<sup>bc</sup> (hapl, with  $\dot{S}_1$  K<sub>0-1</sub> : D<sub>2</sub>), 104 25 (hapl, with  $\dot{S}_1$  K<sub>0-1</sub>), 114 96<sup>a</sup>-97<sup>c</sup> (hapl, with  $\dot{S}_1$ )

That notwithstanding its habit of writing æ for æ the MS does not belong to the Southern tradition follows from the circumstance that of the over 130 star-passages which are (as will be seen below) characteristic of S recension as a whole, K<sub>8</sub> does not give even one. It shows its relation with the Kashmirian group by including 202<sup>4c</sup> (given by  $\dot{S}_1$  K<sub>0-3</sub> : D<sub>1-3</sub> 6) and 287\* (given by  $\dot{S}_1$  K B<sub>3</sub> D<sub>2</sub> M<sub>3</sub>), but it goes against that group by not giving the Tāntiic prelude to the Gītā, the Gītāsāra, and the other characteristic BG additions usual in that group. The MS comes nearer to the late Northern group, as evidenced by its including nearly a third of the additional passages listed before. It does not, however, contain the Kātyāyanīstava or the Śveta episode, and, as we have seen, it omits a considerable number of the additional passages.

The recorded transpositions establish the same position of K<sub>8</sub>, as not being yet quite adrift from its moorings in the Kashmirian text-tradition, and so not completely going over to the late Northern group. Thus, after 6 15 23, K<sub>8</sub> : D<sub>1</sub> : 1 read 39-54 (the others —  $\dot{S}_1$  K<sub>0-2</sub> D<sub>7</sub> — read them after 22<sup>ab</sup>). After 15 54, while  $\dot{S}_1$  K<sub>0-2</sub> : D<sub>1</sub> : 1 read 24-38, K<sub>8</sub> D<sub>2</sub> read 24-36, omitting 37-38. After 44 43<sup>ca</sup>, K<sub>8</sub> D<sub>2</sub> : 1 read 42<sup>ab</sup>. After 71 17<sup>ab</sup>, K<sub>8</sub> D<sub>6</sub> read 21<sup>ab</sup>, repeating the line in its proper place also. In the transposition of 6. 88 21<sup>a</sup> and 22<sup>b</sup>, K<sub>8</sub> leaves the company of the group  $\dot{S}_1$  K<sub>0-2</sub> 4, which constitutes the exception, and gives the transposition with the rest of the MSS. In all these transpositions, as well as in omissions and additions, the intimate relation of K<sub>8</sub> with K<sub>2</sub> D<sub>2</sub> 6 stands out quite prominently.

Poona, the "Kamat Collection" of MSS belonging to the B O R Institute, No 23 Dated V Samvat 1742 (= A D 1685)

The MS was acquired by Mr Divakar Bhalchandra Kamat in the years 1927-1934 in the course of his official tours as Inspector of Schools in the districts of Aurangabad and Parabhani in the Nizam's Dominions. Over 20 MSS of the different parvans of the Epic were thus acquired, belonging to different dates and copied in different hands. The Bhīmaparvan MS, however, stands by itself. It is written on country paper in a bold and legible hand, in Devanāgarī characters, with margins ruled, and colophons and the "uvāca" references (in the case of the Bhagavadgītā, the chapter and the stanza numbers also) rubbed over with red chalk. Size 11" × 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ ", 10 lines to a page, about 32 letters to a line. Complete in 288 folios. Dated V Samvat 1742 (A D 1685)

There are three rather considerable omissions found in this MS. It omits from 6 59 10<sup>c</sup> to 6 62 17<sup>b</sup> (a loss of about 185 stanzas), from 6 80 12<sup>cd</sup> to 6 81 14<sup>cd</sup> (i.e., 53 stanzas), and from 113 29<sup>c</sup> to 49<sup>b</sup> (covering 20 stanzas). The omission of 15 stanzas from 6 90 18<sup>b</sup> to 33<sup>c</sup> is due to haplography, but no reason for the earlier omissions is apparent, and, what is worse, the MS. shows no consciousness of these omissions, which certainly disturb the context. We are hence prone to expect also a very large number of smaller omissions in the MS. There are, in fact, over eighty of them, less than twenty only being due to haplography, which happens at times to be shared by some other sporadic MS. or two. No useful purpose is likely to be served by recording these cases.

As already pointed out, the MSS  $K_3 : D_2$  (with  $D_6$  added now and then) form a related group sharing many omissions in common. We have given the omissions in  $K_3 : D_2$ ,  $K_3$  s, and  $K_3 D_2$ . Those found in  $K_3 D_2$  are

As to additional passages, those peculiar to  $K_3$  are 62\*, 101\* (also in  $\tilde{N}_1 D_3$ ), 234\*, 268\* (also in  $D_2$ ), 340\* (also in  $D_6$ ), and 379\*. A few it shares with its usual group  $K_3 : D_2$ , namely 63\*, 264\* (also in  $T_2$ ), 268\* (not in  $K_3$ ), and 20 (with  $D_3$  instead of  $D_2$ ). A point to note is that  $K_3$  goes with the major Kashmirian group (i.e.,  $\tilde{S}_1 K_0 : 2$ ) in not giving some of the late Northern additions, such as : 211\*, 221\*, 228\*, 266\*, 294\*, 318\*, 414\*, 447\*, 457\*, 467\*, 469\*, 472\*, 482\*, 490\*, 503\*, 507\*, 509\*, 510\*. Contrariwise, it goes against the group in failing to give 182\*, 341\*, 508\* (found in the major Kashmirian group), and in giving the following additional passages not found in that group, viz 343\*, 465\* (found also in  $T G$ ), 494\* (found in all MSS except  $\tilde{S}_1 K_1 G_1 : 3$ ). Finally, in a few passages which are not Southern additions,  $K_3$  agrees with  $D_{n1}$  in failing to give an addition common to the Northern recension as a whole, namely 239\*, 241\*, 246\*, 247\*.  $K_3$  gives neither the Kātyāyanāstava and the Śveta episode on the one hand, nor the Gītāsāra, and the Tāntiic prelude to the Gītā on the other.

As to transpositions, only a few solitary cases are met with which do not easily lend themselves to any generalization. The MS betrays its relationship with  $D_2$  in reading erroneously 6 7 51-53 after 6 8 7<sup>b</sup>. With  $D_2$ ,  $K_3$  omits the colophon at the end of chapter 65, making one adhyāya out of 65 and 66. This is plausible.

K.

Dacca University Library, No 669, dated Śaka (?) 1675.

The authorities of the University of Dacca kindly sent the MS to the Visva-bharati Library at Santiniketan for being collated there under the direction of the Principal of that Institution, who supplies the following description of it "The condition of the MS is not good. Damaged in many places. There are 157 folios and 5 lines in a page. Complete. Dated 1675 (?) Śaka. The name of the copyist is Rāmanāth Śarmā." It is a palm-leaf MS written in Bengali characters.

This is the first time that a MS written in Bengali characters has been classified with K, which normally designates Devanāgarī copies made from a Śāradā original. But, à priori, there is no reason why direct copies from a Śāradā original should not be made in Bengali characters. The text would in course of transmission be contaminated with the Bengali version, just as, in the other case, it would be with the Devanāgarī version. But the MS must certainly be classified as K if it possesses sufficient and distinctive characteristics of that group.

The omissions peculiar to K<sub>4</sub> are 6 4 23<sup>cd</sup>, 30<sup>c</sup>-34', 5 1<sup>d</sup>-3<sup>d</sup>, 7 40<sup>cd</sup>, 8 26<sup>a</sup>-28<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 15 24-38, 17 22<sup>cd</sup>, 41 66, 41 69<sup>ab</sup> (also in B<sub>3</sub>), 43 6<sup>cd</sup>, 50 28-29, 75 38<sup>c</sup>-39<sup>d</sup> (hapl), 91 10<sup>cd</sup>, 99 27<sup>c</sup>-29<sup>b</sup>, 102 26-27 (2 hapl), 104 16<sup>a</sup>-17<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 30<sup>cd</sup>. The omissions which it shares with the Bengali group against the Kashmirian group are 6 3 31<sup>ac</sup> (found in K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> : s), 10 50<sup>c</sup>-51<sup>b</sup> (found in K<sub>4</sub> B), 44 25<sup>ab</sup> (found in K<sub>4</sub> B<sub>1</sub> : Da : Dn D<sub>4</sub> : s : s, hapl), 55 122<sup>b</sup> (found in K<sub>4</sub> B Dn : D<sub>4</sub> : s), 124<sup>b</sup> (found in K<sub>4</sub> B Da<sub>1</sub> Dn D<sub>4</sub> : s), 103 5<sup>d</sup>-6<sup>a</sup> (found in K<sub>4</sub> B<sub>1</sub> : Da : D : G<sub>1</sub> : s, hapl). Of these, the haplographical omissions have not enough probative value, as they may occur in any combination of MSS, as, for instance, in 6 114 60, found in K<sub>0</sub> 1 4 B<sub>2</sub>-4 D<sub>1</sub> : s :

The transpositions peculiar to K<sub>4</sub> are the following. After 6 3 25, it reads 28<sup>cd</sup>-30, after 41 77, it reads 67, after 47 20, it reads 19<sup>cd</sup> (with B<sub>2</sub>). The MS goes with the Bengali group as against the Kashmirian group in the reading, after 6 112 66, of stanza 64.

More important are the additional passages. Those found in the B group generally, and in the MSS of the D group that go with B, but not in K<sub>4</sub> and in the Ś K group generally, are 13*, 23*, 53*, 73*, 113* (the Gītāprasasti stanzas), 114* (not given by B<sub>1</sub>), 139* (not given by B<sub>3</sub>), 414*, 418* and 504* (not in B<sub>3</sub>). On the other hand, those found in K<sub>4</sub> (and the Ś K group generally), but not found in the B group and the MSS that go with it, are 140* (found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> 1 s : s D<sub>1</sub>-3 s), 182* (found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub>-4 B<sub>3</sub> D<sub>2</sub> s), 316* (found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub>-2 4 : s B<sub>3</sub> as well as in S except T<sub>1</sub>), 380* (found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K B<sub>3</sub> Da Dn D<sub>2</sub> 4-s : T<sub>1</sub> G).

More frequent is the alliance of  $K_4$  with the B group, the most usual combination being  $K_4$  B Da Dn  $D_4$  : : . This group of thirteen MSS gives the following additional passages 11*, 39*, 70* (also in S), 291*, 457*, 490*. With  $K_2$  added to the group, the following, 10*, 51*, with  $D_0$  added 318*, 447*, 182*, 503*, 507*, 509* (not in  $D_4$ ), with both  $K_2$  and  $D_0$  added 55* (not in  $D_1$ ), 469*. With  $D_1$  omitted from the group, the following 12*, 44*, with  $D_2$  omitted, 84*, with  $B_3$  omitted, 52*, with Dn:  $D_3$  omitted, 228*. Finally, with  $K_2$  added and Da<sub>1</sub> omitted, 40*, with  $D_0$  added and  $B_1$  : omitted, 510*, with  $D_1$  : added and  $B_3$  Da<sub>1</sub> omitted, 142*. The Kātyāyanīstava, the characteristic contribution of the Bengali version, is found in the above group of thirteen MSS with  $K_2$   $D_2$  added to the group and  $D_2$  removed from it.

More light could be thrown on this relationship if the individual variants are taken into consideration. But that aspect of the question cannot be dealt with in this place. Speaking generally, while  $K_4$  goes with B in a large number of variants, there are a few crucial cases where  $K_4$  sides with K in opposition to B. It is possible to explain this as a subsequent contamination, from a Kashmirian source, of an original Bengali version, but more probability belongs, in my view, to the other theory of an original Kashmirian version progressively contaminated with Bengali sources.

B<sub>1</sub>

Santiniketan, Visvabharati Library, No 780. Of this MS the following description has been supplied "The condition of the MS is not good. It is written in Bengali script on paper. There are 248 folios and 8 lines in a page." Not dated. Complete. Collated at Santiniketan.

Those shared with MSS of the K group are 6 43 16<sup>c</sup>-18<sup>b</sup> and 59 12 (both hapl and shared with  $K_{0-2}$ ), 43 74<sup>ca</sup> (hapl, with  $K_0$  : :), 44 29 (shared with  $K_1$ ), 62 15<sup>ab</sup> (hapl with  $K_3$   $D_2$ ). Mention may also be made of 6 6 6<sup>ab</sup> (shared with  $B_2$   $D_2$ ), 17 37 (shared with  $B_2$ ), 55 18 (shared with  $B_4$ ), and particularly of 6 10, 50<sup>c</sup>-51<sup>b</sup>, and 6 88 37<sup>c</sup>-38<sup>b</sup>, which belong exclusively to the B group (the first two with  $K_4$  added). The other omissions either belong to the entire N recension, like 6 94 9<sup>ca</sup>, or to the late Northern group listed on p xviii above.

There are no additional passages peculiar to  $B_1$  alone. All its additions it shares with practically the entire B group, with  $K_4$  or  $K_2$  + from the K group, and Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> & 7 & 8 from the D group. There is one case where B<sub>1</sub> deviates from the rest of the N recension. It does not give 191<sup>1</sup>. B<sub>1</sub> and B<sub>2</sub> do not give the Śveta episode. Otherwise, in the matter of the stanza-passages including the Kātyāyanīstava, the Bengali version would seem to have maintained more or less its uniform character.

The same holds true of the transpositions. Of the recorded cases of about fifteen transpositions, six belong to the late Northern group, seven are solitary cases (B<sub>1</sub> and B<sub>3</sub> giving two each and B<sub>2</sub> three, namely reading 6 67 31<sup>cd</sup> after 35 and 6 114 60<sup>cd</sup> after 54, transposing 6 50 31<sup>ab</sup> and 31<sup>c'</sup>, and reading 6 76 1 after 75 59, and reading 6 47 19<sup>cd</sup> after 20, and transposing 6 83 5<sup>ab</sup> and 5<sup>cd</sup>, as well as 97 50<sup>2</sup> and 51<sup>1</sup> respectively). The case<sup>1</sup> that remains shows the relationship of the majority of the B MSS with Kashmirian MSS.

B<sub>2</sub>

Santiniketan, Visvabharati Library, No 467. Of this MS the following description has been supplied by the authorities: "Bengali script on papers. Date Śaka 1683 (A. D. 1761). Folios 1-223. There are seven lines in a page. Complete. The copyist is one Ramamohan. He was a Brahmin by caste." The MS was collated at Santiniketan.

There are about a dozen omissions peculiar to B<sub>2</sub>, most of them through haplography. These are 6 15 26<sup>cd</sup> (not hapl), 17 39<sup>ab</sup> (not hapl), 18 8<sup>cd</sup> (not hapl), 24 62-68, 46 10<sup>c</sup>-11<sup>d</sup> (? hapl), 48 56<sup>cd</sup>, 69 8<sup>cd</sup>, 70 8<sup>c</sup>-9<sup>d</sup> (not hapl), 78 26<sup>cd</sup> (not hapl), 96 30<sup>ab</sup>, 104 21<sup>c</sup>-23<sup>b</sup>. Shared with MSS Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>2</sub> of the Kashmirian group is 6 8 4<sup>cd</sup> only. Shared with the B group as such are 6 10 50<sup>c</sup>-51<sup>b</sup> (with K<sub>4</sub> also) and 6 88 37<sup>c</sup>-38<sup>b</sup>. To these may be also added 6 6 6<sup>ab</sup> (with B<sub>1</sub> D<sub>1</sub>), 17 37 (with B<sub>1</sub>). The rest belong to the standard group and are already mentioned before.

There is only one addition peculiar to B<sub>2</sub>, namely, 487<sup>2</sup>, and even that it shares with D<sub>3</sub>. The addition is really uncalled for. The other additions belong to the normal group and do not call for special comment. Mention must, however, be made of 486<sup>2</sup> which B<sub>2</sub> shares in common with the S recension and with the MSS Da Dn<sub>1</sub> D<sub>5</sub> from the N recension. The addition is an attempt at improving the context, which is wholly unnecessary.

Of transpositions we have to record that B<sub>2</sub> is alone in transposing 6 55 19 and 20, and 83 5<sup>ab</sup> and 5<sup>cd</sup>, while, with K<sub>4</sub>, B<sub>2</sub> reads 6 47 19<sup>cd</sup> after 20.

B<sub>3</sub>

Dacca, University Library, No 2789. The MS was sent by the University

<sup>1</sup> Namely, Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>2</sub> & 3 B<sub>2</sub>-4 Da<sub>2</sub> D reading 6 44 29 after 33. The transposition of 6 88 21<sup>d</sup> and 22<sup>b</sup> is found in K<sub>3</sub> & B D S, and can lead to no particular conclusion.

to Santiniketan for collation. The following description of it has been supplied "Bengali script on papers. Dated 1671 Śaka (A.D. 1749). Folios 1-240. There are seven lines in a page. Complete. The name of the copyist is Harihara Sarma."

There are several omissions peculiar to B<sub>3</sub>, some few of them being due to haplography. These are 6 9 13<sup>ab</sup>, 13 45<sup>cd</sup>, 41 69<sup>ab</sup> (in K<sub>4</sub> also), 58 39<sup>a</sup>-40<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 62 20<sup>b</sup>-21<sup>a</sup> (hapl), 86 10<sup>c</sup>-11<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 91 37<sup>bc</sup> (? hapl), 112 108<sup>bc</sup> (hapl). The others are common to the late Northern group. In not omitting 6 103 101<sup>cd</sup>, however, B<sub>3</sub> (along with K<sub>2</sub> D<sub>1</sub> 3 4 7) deviates from the B group.

Of additions, B<sub>3</sub> gives the following 127* (with K<sub>4</sub>), 160* (with B<sub>2</sub> Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>4</sub> 7 8), 266* (with K<sub>4</sub> B<sub>2</sub> Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>4</sub> 8 T<sub>2</sub>), and 301*. B<sub>3</sub> (in contrast to the other B MSS) shows some sort of relationship with the Kashmirian group both by giving as well as not giving certain additional passages. Those given are 182* (with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-4</sub> D<sub>2</sub> 6); 287* (with Ś<sub>1</sub> K D<sub>2</sub> M<sub>5</sub>), 316* (with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> 4 5 T<sub>1</sub> G M), 380* (with Ś<sub>1</sub> K Da Dn D<sub>2</sub> 4-6 8 T<sub>1</sub> G). Those not given are 52* (found in N except Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-3</sub> 5 B<sub>3</sub> D<sub>1-3</sub> 6), 142* (found in N except Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-3</sub> 5 B<sub>3</sub> Da<sub>1</sub> D<sub>2</sub> 6), 187* (found in N except Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> 1 3 5 B<sub>3</sub> D<sub>2</sub> 6), 472* (found in M<sub>4</sub> and in N except Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-3</sub> 5 B<sub>3</sub> Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>1-4</sub> 6-8), 504* (found in N except Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> 1 3-5 B<sub>3</sub> D<sub>1-3</sub> 6), and 510* (found in N except Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-3</sub> 5 B<sub>1</sub> 3 D<sub>1-3</sub>). While B<sub>3</sub> gives both the Kātyāyanīstava and the Śveta episode, its independence of the B group at times is also proved by an additional passage like 139* (found in Dn and in B except B<sub>3</sub>), and, in a smaller measure, by 197* (found in N except B<sub>1-3</sub> D<sub>1</sub>).

Of transpositions, the only one worthy of account comes at the end of adhyāya 6 75, where B<sub>3</sub> takes over the first stanza of the next adhyāya. Between 6 76 1 and 2 the night intervenes, and it may seem logical to begin a fresh adhyāya with the next day. In another instance B<sub>3</sub> shows its independence of the group, inasmuch as in 6 11, while K<sub>4</sub> B<sub>1</sub> 2 4 Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> 5 8 have the sequence 8<sup>ab</sup>, 52*, 9<sup>cd</sup>, 8<sup>cd</sup>, our B<sub>3</sub> gives the same sequence as in this edition and does not, as we have seen already, give the additional passage 52*.

B<sub>4</sub>

Santiniketan, Visvabharati Library, No. 7. The following description of the MS has been supplied to us "Bengali script on palm leaves. No date. Looks fairly old. Worm-eaten. There are 270 folios and four lines in a page. Complete." The MS was collated at Santiniketan.

There are quite a few omissions found in B<sub>4</sub> alone. They are 6 8 30<sup>cd</sup>, 10 33<sup>cd</sup>, 13 27<sup>c</sup>-29<sup>d</sup>, 19 35-36, 55 18 (also in B<sub>1</sub>), 75 3<sup>cd</sup> (hapl), 79 13<sup>d</sup>-18<sup>c</sup> (hapl), 29<sup>ab</sup> (?hapl, also in M<sub>5</sub>), 85 22<sup>c</sup>-23<sup>d</sup>, 92 18<sup>a</sup>-20<sup>b</sup>, 117 29<sup>ab</sup> (also in T<sub>2</sub>). Others, where they are not shared by the N recension generally, are group omissions, such as, 6 6 11<sup>cd</sup> (found in B<sub>2</sub> 4 Da Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>5</sub> 8 T G M<sub>4</sub>), 47 19<sup>cd</sup> (in B<sub>1</sub> 3 4 Da Dn D<sub>5</sub> 7 8),

103 101<sup>ca</sup> ( in K<sub>2</sub> B<sub>1 2 4</sub> D<sub>1 3 4 7</sub> ), and 114 60 ( hapl , in K<sub>0 1 4</sub> B<sub>2-4</sub> D<sub>1 3 7</sub> ), that do not call for any special mention

As to additions, the MS gives both the Kātyāyanistava and the Śveta episode. Amongst the shorter additions, ignoring the usual group additions, mention may be made of 197* ( shared with Ś<sub>1</sub> K Da Dn D<sub>2-3</sub> ), and 139* ( shared with B<sub>1 2</sub> Dn ). The MS, with B<sub>1 2</sub> D<sub>1 3 7</sub>, differs from the general N group in not giving 380*

Da<sub>1</sub>

Poona, Bombay Government Collection ( deposited at the BORI ), No 482 of Viśiāmbāg I

Written in bold and legible Devanāgarī characters on country paper, of size 16" × 7". Folios 285, with folios 114, 132, 133, 135 and 136 missing, and folios 126, 130, 137 partially torn. Gives about 11 lines to a page, and about 60 letters to a line. Margins are ruled, and dandas supplied in red ink, but there is no adhyāya or stanza numbering. Most of the folios are soiled and have holes bored by insects, which are repaired by pasting paper. Several folios seem to have stuck together, and, in a hasty attempt to separate them, the text of several lines has become illegible. Not very correct, but corrections made here and there by a later hand. Gives the text in the centre and Arjunamīśra's commentary above and below the text. For the Bhagavadgītā ( which extends from fol 34a-125b ) the commentary given is the Subodhini of Śrīdhara. Not dated, but seems about three hundred years old. On the blank sides of the first and the last folios, the MS is said to have belonged to "सत्यनन्द" The MS was collated at the B O R Institute.

Da<sub>2</sub>

Baroda, Oriental Institute Library, No 10801. The portion up to the Bhagavadgītā covers folios 1-33. Thereafter, the Bhagavadgītā ( text and comm ) is altogether omitted. After the Bhagavadgītā, with a fresh pagination ( 1-160 ), the parvan is brought to an end. Devanāgarī characters. The commentary of Arjunamīśra is written above and below the text as usual. The colophons are written in red ink. Size 13" × 5½". In the same bundle, written on paper of the same size, but probably in a different hand, is the text ( without commentary ) of the Āśīamavāsa parvan, which is dated V Samvat 1753 ( ca A. D. 1697 ). This may have been the approximate date for the Bhīṣma-parvan also. Both the MSS are stated at the conclusion to have been the property of Bhatta Śrī-Govindajita. The MS was collated at the B O R Institute.

It seemed best to give the critical details of Da<sub>1</sub> and Da<sub>2</sub> together. The omissions peculiar to Da<sub>1</sub> are

77<sup>d</sup>-79<sup>a</sup>, 45 27<sup>b</sup>-28<sup>a</sup>, 46 1<sup>ab</sup>, from माधव in 16<sup>b</sup> to सम in 16<sup>a</sup>, 47 6<sup>cd</sup> (with D<sub>5</sub>), 15<sup>d</sup>, from सृष्टा in 53 13<sup>c</sup> up to 53 13<sup>t</sup>, 56 20<sup>c</sup>-21<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 61 21<sup>cd</sup>, 62 7<sup>d</sup>-8<sup>c</sup> (hapl), 68 15<sup>b</sup>-16<sup>c</sup> (hapl), 71 24<sup>b</sup>-25<sup>c</sup> (hapl), 72 21<sup>bcd</sup>, 76 6<sup>c</sup>-16<sup>b</sup>, from तु in 77 30<sup>c</sup> up to राज in 77 32<sup>a</sup>, 82 49 (hapl), 86 23<sup>ab</sup> (with D<sub>5</sub>), 89. 36<sup>a</sup>-37<sup>b</sup>, from सृष्टे in 96 20<sup>b</sup> up to सैन्यस्य in 96 21<sup>b</sup>, 103 5<sup>cd</sup> (with Dn<sub>1</sub>), 55<sup>cd</sup> (with D<sub>5</sub>), 106 30<sup>a</sup>-31<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 114 55<sup>ab</sup> (with Dn<sub>1</sub>), 116 15<sup>c</sup>-16<sup>b</sup>

The omissions peculiar to Dn<sub>2</sub> are :

Those belonging to Da as a whole are

Besides these, there are about a dozen cases of omission common to the entire Northern recension, or to the late Northern group of MSS already mentioned. In omitting 6 86 37<sup>c</sup>-39<sup>b</sup> and 6 93. 23<sup>de</sup>, Da probably shows its affinity with the early Northern (or Kashmirian) group but both are cases of haplography to which no special weight need be attached. The case of 6 12 20<sup>cd</sup> will be found discussed in the Critical Notes.

As to additional passages, not to mention those which belong to the entire Northern recension, we find the Da version sharing most of its additions—there are nearly fifty of them, besides the Kātyāyanīstava—with the late Northern group. In only a solitary instance, 141* (found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>o-3</sub> & Da<sub>2</sub> D<sub>2</sub> 4-6), it may seem to show some relation with the early Northern or the Kashmirian group. Other additions are individual characteristics of the version. These are 190*, 213*, 251*, 501* (all found in Da Dn<sub>1</sub> D<sub>5</sub>), 414*, 493* (found respectively in B Da Dn D<sub>5</sub> & s and Da Dn D<sub>5</sub>), 216*, 464* (found respectively in Da<sub>2</sub> D<sub>5</sub> & s and Da<sub>2</sub> Dn<sub>1</sub> D<sub>5</sub>), and 244* (found in Da D<sub>5</sub>). As we have seen, the Śveta episode is given by Da Dn along with B<sub>2</sub> & D<sub>4</sub>.

As to transpositions, those peculiar to Da<sub>1</sub> are the following: after 6 76 6<sup>ab</sup>, Da<sub>1</sub> (om. 6<sup>c</sup>-16<sup>b</sup>) reads 6 77 36-78. 5<sup>ab</sup>, repeating the passage in its proper place, it reads 78 37<sup>d</sup>-38<sup>d</sup> after दृष्ट in 72 44<sup>b</sup>, 82 48 after 82 54, along with Dn D<sub>4</sub> & s, it reads (maig sec m), after 15. 23, 53-54 (with v l), and with Dn<sub>1</sub>, it reads 114 60<sup>cdab</sup>

after 114 54 Da<sub>2</sub> reads 114 60<sup>ca</sup> after 114 55<sup>ca</sup>, while Da D<sub>4</sub> & s read 50 109 after 104, Da D<sub>5</sub> also repeat it in its proper place. Finally, it may be mentioned that in Da<sub>1</sub>, the portion of the text from 6 39 26 up to 6 40 2 is lost on the missing folio no 114, from 43 20 up to 74 on missing folios 132-133, and from 44 19 up to 45 22<sup>c</sup> on missing folios 135-136

Poona, Bombay Government Collection ( deposited at the BORI ), No 483 of Viśrāmbāg I

Country paper, Devanāgarī characters Size 16½" × 6¾" Folios 336, with 10-12 lines to a page, and about 48 letters to a line. Clear and legible hand, fairly correct. A few corrections are noted in the margin (sec m). Borders ruled, double dandas used and stanzas numbered both in the text and the commentary. Red chalk used to underline the colophons, and yellow pigment to mark elasures. Gives the text in the centre and the commentary above and below the text, as usual. Although the last colophon of the commentary reads इति श्रीमद्भुवनमिश्रकृतौ भारतार्थदीपिकायाः श्रीभूमपर्वविवरण समाप्तम्, the commentary from beginning to end is actually Nilakantha's Bhāratabhāvadīpa. Not dated

Dn<sub>2</sub>

Indore, from the private collection of Sardar M V Kibe Not numbered

Tough country paper Size 16" × 6" Folios 338, with about 11 lines to a page, and 50 letters to a line. Margins carefully ruled in black and red, and double dandas in red ink given throughout, as also stanza numbers. The colophon and references are indicated with red chalk, yellow pigment is occasionally used for correction. Devanāgarī characters, written in a neat and legible hand, fairly correct. Gives the text in the centre and the commentary of Nilakantha above and below the text, as usual. No date is given at the end. The MS, however, seems to have formed part of a complete MS of the epic of which eleven parvans alone are now available, those wanting being Sabhā, Droṇa, Karna, Śalya, Sauptika, Strī and Śānti. The extant parvans are in the same handwriting and on the same quality and size of paper except the Ādīparvan, which is on a larger size of paper. The Ādīparvan gives the date. ईश्वरसवत्सरे मार्गशीर्ष शु० त्रयोदशी, while the Anuśāsana gives it in a verse —

सवद्वाणगुणाष्टैकममिते सौम्यवत्सरे ।

There is blank space left for the second half of the verse. The Āranyakaparvan, however, gives the date in fuller details, even mentioning when the writing of the parvan was commenced and when it was completed. It says लेखनप्रारम्भ-कार्तिक शु० २ and समाप्ति फाल्गुन शु० ९ बुधवासरे सन् १८३९. The details are correct and give a period from 7, November 1782 up to 12, March 1783 for the writing of nearly 12,000 stanzas, which works out an average of 112 stanzas per day. The Bhīṣmaparvan might have been written some months previously, as the Ālanyakapaivan is commenced only after the completion of the Śāntipaivan. The Anusāsana bears the Samvat 1835, and, at the rate of writing estimated, one scribe could easily have been three to four years at the task of copying the whole epic.

The critical details of Dn<sub>1</sub> and Dn<sub>2</sub> are best given together, those which these MSS share with the MSS of the Da group being already given before. The omissions peculiar to Dn<sub>1</sub> are

The omissions noticed in Dn as a whole are

6 2 9<sup>c</sup>-10<sup>a</sup> (hapl), 10 (hapl, with G<sub>2</sub> s), 3 28<sup>cd</sup> (hapl, with D<sub>4</sub>), 4 31<sup>cd</sup> (hapl, shared with B<sub>1</sub> S), 20 14 (hapl, with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub>), 42 26<sup>d</sup>-27<sup>c</sup> (hapl), 43 42<sup>cd</sup> (hapl)

The cases of omission which Dn shares with the late Northern group need not be recorded here. The case of 4. 31<sup>cd</sup> mentioned above where Dn goes with the entire S recension is a case of haplography from which no valid generalization can be made.

As to additional passages, only three cases where Dn MSS show independence of Da are worth recording. 112* (here however Dn goes with the late Northern group), 152* and 168* (both shared by Dn<sub>2</sub> alone with D<sub>4</sub>). The transpositions found in Dn<sub>1</sub> are in chapter 6. 112, where it reads 92<sup>c</sup>-93<sup>d</sup> after 89, and 94 after 92<sup>ab</sup>. Dn<sub>2</sub> transp 6 62 11<sup>cd</sup> and 12<sup>ab</sup> along with the MSS D<sub>4</sub> 7 s. Dn with D<sub>4</sub> s transp 6 5 12<sup>c</sup>-15<sup>b</sup> and 15<sup>c</sup>-20<sup>d</sup>. The omission of the colophon of adhyāya 67 in Dn<sub>1</sub> alone and of adhyāya 104 in Dn<sub>1</sub> K<sub>3</sub> are both very probably accidental.

D<sub>1</sub>

Madras, Adyar Library, No XLI c 65 (original number 34L 65) Dated Śaka 1562 (A. D. 1640)

The MS was collated at the BORI. Written on country paper, size 11" x 4¾". Folios 131, with 12-18 lines to a page, and 36-50 letters to a line. Good, old-looking MS, copied by विठ्ठलसुतदशपुत्रगणेश in Śaka 1562 (A. D. 1640).<sup>1</sup>

This MS is remarkable for the number of solitary omissions that it presents. There are some ninety instances, nearly half of them due to haplography. The longest single non-haplographical omission covers 45 lines from 6 114 101<sup>b</sup> up to 115 10<sup>c</sup>, but, strange as it may seem, it occasions no break in the continuity of the narration. In some cases, the omissions result in the avoidance of a three-line stanza in immediate neighbourhood, for example, 6 45 57<sup>ab</sup>, 50 47<sup>cd</sup>, 83 28<sup>ab</sup>, 91 16<sup>cd</sup>, 105 5<sup>ef</sup>, 109 12<sup>ab</sup>, 112 97<sup>ef</sup>. In other cases, although the MS is unique in the omission, there is always something to be said in justification of it. Thus, the introductory question of Dhṛtaśāstra in 6 11 1-2 is really superfluous. The last two stanzas of chapter 98 strike one as an unnecessary appendix, as also the last stanza of chapter 103. Elsewhere the omissions effect a curtailing of enumeration as in 43 65, 83 9<sup>a</sup>-10<sup>b</sup>, 92 75<sup>ab</sup> and nowhere, in fact, can it be said that the non-haplographical omissions in D<sub>1</sub> have caused any break in the context. But the MS is unique in these omissions, and to follow it on these grounds would be an uncritical procedure. We need not comment upon the haplographical omissions, which D<sub>1</sub> shares at times with K<sub>s</sub>, or D<sub>s</sub>, or both together, or with a larger group of MSS.

More remarkable are the additions found in D<sub>1</sub> alone. There are over seventy of them, involving an augmentation of the text by fifty stanzas. In the following fifteen cases, the addition incidentally results in the avoidance of a three-line Anuṣṭubh or a six-line Triṣṭubh in immediate neighbourhood: 173*, 175*, 177*, 245*, 256*, 288*, 305*, 323*, 330*, 335*, 410*, 424*, 435*, 477*, 495*. The substitution of 257* for 61 42 avoids the intrusion of a lonely and unrhythmical Triṣṭubh. Most of the others are poetic paddings giving more detailed descriptions, as in 174* (four stanzas), 179*, 181*, 185* (two stanzas), 237*, 269*, 334* (two stanzas), 426*, 284*, wherein we notice particularly the author's partiality for the ape on the banner of Arjuna's chariot, which he (in common with popular belief) understands as living and participating in the fight. Compare the descriptions quoted in the footnote below, which have their parallels in other MSS also.<sup>2</sup> In some cases, the additions seek to improve the tone

<sup>1</sup> The post-colophon entry reads श्रीशके १५६२ विक्रमसंवत्सरे, where विक्रम is name of the year, and not of the era. On the title page we read सुदरदशपुत्रस्य विभाग भीष्मपर्व गोविंददशपुत्रस्य

159* लाङ्गुलास्फोटशब्देन स्वनयानो नभस्तलम् ।
पिङ्गाक्षैर्दृष्टिपातैश्च भीषयन्नास्मिन्निकान् ॥

After 6 51 35, D<sub>1</sub> adds

184* रोरुयमाणो दृश्येत ध्वजाग्रे वानरेश्वर ।
दृष्ट्या भीषयते शम्भुस्तन्भकर्णा महाकपि ॥

as when, in 491*, D<sub>1</sub> communicates a touch of politeness to Bhīṣma's reply to the physicians and surgeons that had come to wait upon him. Elsewhere D<sub>1</sub> is seen to expand a single line into five by giving additional information<sup>1</sup>

App I, No 5 is found in D<sub>1</sub> alone. The passage is mainly repetitious. After 6 45 52, D<sub>1</sub> reads 6 46 4<sup>ad</sup>-23<sup>ab</sup> first, and 6 45 53 to 46 4<sup>ab</sup> afterwards, which is probably to be explained as inadvertent copying of the reverse side of a folio first, and the obverse side afterwards. Its reading 6 113 1-26 after 114 4 is perhaps to be explained as due to a misplacement of the folio in the original exemplar, occasioned by the absence or loss of the folio-number. Other transpositions in D<sub>1</sub> are of minor importance.

D<sub>2</sub>

Poona, Bombay Government Collection (deposited at the BORI), No 481 of Viślāmbāg I, dated V Samvat 1729 (A D 1672)

Indian paper soiled round the edges by moisture. Devanāgarī characters with partial Piṣṭhamātīās. Size 14 $\frac{3}{4}$ " × 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ ". Folios 187, out of which fol 35 is missing, 11 lines to a page, and about 52 letters to a line. Margins ruled in black. Red chalk is used to mark colophons and stanza endings, generally with single daṇḍas placed after them. The chapters and stanzas are not numbered except in the case of the Bhagavad-gītā. Marginal additions and corrections by a different hand, which also supplies a few annotations to the Bhagavadgītā portion, mostly excerpts from the Śāmkarabhāṣya. Occasional blanks in the original are indicated by dotted lines. The post-colophon entry about the date reads सवत् १७२९ वर्षे माघशुदि १० शुके, without mentioning any details about the copyist or the provenance.

The MS has over two hundred omissions, the longer ones amongst them

After 6 108 14, D<sub>1</sub> adds

451* तथा किलकिलाशब्द श्रूयते वानरस्य च ।
यस्य लाङ्गूलशब्देन स्फुटतीव नमस्तलम् ॥

More elaborate is D<sub>2</sub> which, after 6 19 28, adds

74* ध्वजाग्रे ख्यतो भीम कपेस्तस्य पुन पुन ।
श्रूयते भीमनिन्दो नादयानो दिशो दश ।
दृष्ट्वा च भीषयामाम विरावैर्वानरेश्वर ।
भ्रक्षेपोत्क्षेपविक्षेपैर्लाङ्गूलेन पुन कपि ।
आवाशे दर्शयामास प्रतिशब्दे महास्वनम् ।

<sup>1</sup> Such elaborations of the original, in fact, are found in all MSS from Ś1 Ko to S. They are responsible for the present inflated size of the "Mahābhārata", some of these additions have been of course weeded out in the present edition, but as some others have found their way into all extant MSS they cannot be weeded out except by higher or subjective criticism, which falls outside the scope of the present edition.

being 6 15 55-70 (shared with  $K_3$  and coming immediately after the "omission accident" for which cf p xix, n 3), 27 1-26 (due to a missing folio), 57 8<sup>c</sup>-35<sup>d</sup>, which may be due to an unwitting skipping over of one side of a folio, and 113 36<sup>a</sup>-45<sup>b</sup>, for which no reason can be assigned. Some sixty of the other omissions are due to haplography. These haplographical as well as non-haplographical omissions are found (cf p xvii, xxii) sometimes shared with  $\dot{S}_1$  alone, at times with  $K_0$  or  $K_{0-2}$ , but more frequently with  $K_3$  alone (p xxvi), or  $K_5$  alone (p xxviii), or jointly with  $K_3$  & . This fully establishes the relation of the MS with the Kashmirian group, especially with  $K_3$  & .

What applies to the omissions also applies to the dozen or so additions found in  $D_1$ , six of them being peculiar to  $D_1$  and the rest shared with MSS of the Kashmirian group. The additions serve at times to get over the three-line stanzas in the neighbourhood (328*, 483*), or afford more detailed descriptions of battle (161*, 231*), or the like.

Similarly, there are four or five cases of transposition peculiar to  $D_1$ , about half a dozen shared with  $K_5$ , and one shared with  $K_3$ .  $D_1$  along with one or two other MSS. None of them calls for any remark.

$D_3$

Poona, Bombay Government Collection (deposited at the BORI), No 61 of 1882-83

Rough country paper. Devanāgarī characters with Prṣthamātrās. Size  $14\frac{1}{2}$ "  $\times$   $4\frac{1}{2}$ ". Folios 246, with 10 lines to a page, and about 40 letters to a line. Folios 130 and 241 written on one side only, as also the first and the last folio. The few concluding lines in the post-colophon entry are wanting. The scribe (? owner) of the MS writes his own name in Telugu characters on fol 42a, 43b and else-where, as also on the reverse side of fol 246, the last reading — suta-Varkunṭhatanūja-Parāṃānandanāmā dvayanmā jayatu. The MS is old and fragile, with the edges of several folios broken off or torn. There are corrections made in the margins in several places, see m, the older of them being written with Prṣthamātrās. Ruled in irregular black lines. Daṇḍas, adhyāya colophons, and the "uvāca" references are rubbed over with red chalk. The MS looks more than three hundred years old. It was collated at the B O R Institute.

The MS presents over thirty omissions peculiar to itself, the longest one being 6 15 27<sup>a</sup>-41<sup>b</sup>, which is due to haplography. The non-haplographical omissions are 6 45 46<sup>cd</sup>, 50 76<sup>ef</sup>, 64 13<sup>cd</sup>, 74 15, 78 16, 81 25<sup>cd</sup>, 26<sup>a</sup>-27<sup>a</sup>, 92 11<sup>abcd</sup>, 93 10<sup>c</sup>-11<sup>a</sup>, 95 46<sup>ef</sup>, 97 24-25, 103 46, 82<sup>ab</sup>, 104 5<sup>ab</sup>, 25<sup>cd</sup>, 112 28, 128<sup>d</sup>-132<sup>a</sup>, 114 56<sup>ab</sup>, 116 36<sup>c</sup>-37<sup>b</sup>, 40<sup>ab</sup>. There are five omissions which  $D_3$  shares with the Kashmirian MSS, namely 6 44 40<sup>def</sup> (with  $\dot{S}_1$   $K_{0-2}$ ), 92 42<sup>cd</sup> (hapl, with  $K_{0-1}$ ), 109 6<sup>ab</sup> (with  $K_2$ ), 114 60 (hapl, with  $K_{0-1}$  &  $B_{2-4}$   $D_1$  & ), and 116 8<sup>bc</sup> (hapl, with  $K_{0-2}$ ).

There is at the same time one omission ( 6 50 79<sup>ab</sup> ) which D<sub>2</sub> shares with the entire Southern recension, all other Northern MSS ( except D<sub>1</sub> which has a longer omission including line 79<sup>ab</sup> ) having that line, which is quite necessary in the context. The omission is, however, due to haplography and not much stress can be laid upon it. In 6 12 20<sup>cd</sup>, we have admitted a line in the text, hesitatingly, on the authority of D<sub>2</sub> alone. See Critical Note to the passage.

As to additions, D<sub>2</sub>, in the Bhagavadgītā portion, has ( ignoring the Gītā-prasasti, 113* ) eight passages peculiar to some of the Kashmirian MSS ( viz , 89*, 100*, 101*, 103*, 104*, 105*, 106*, 110* ) besides giving one, 99*, entirely on its own count. Amongst other addl passages, there is one, 240*, which belongs exclusively to the Southern recension. D<sub>2</sub> shares a number of its addl passages with D<sub>1</sub> ( 77*, 411*, 413*, 415*, 422* ), the longest of them, 411*, being a poetic elaboration of the Bhīṣma-Arjuna fight in chapter 102, with a penchant for word-pun in lines 8-9, which D<sub>2</sub> alone gives. We have already referred to the passage describing the ape-banner ( p xxxviii ). In 14*, some more evil omens are enumerated, in 136*, which incidently avoids a three-line stanza, there is a piling up of more epithets. The other additions do not call for a special remark. The MS of course gives most of the additional passages peculiar to the Northern recension as a whole ( except 380*, which D<sub>2</sub> alone omits ), and it also contains most of the late Northern additions, as well as the Śveta episode.

There are about half-a dozen minor transpositions in D<sub>2</sub>, the only one worth noticing is its reading 6 38 20 after 29 15, which is of the nature of a writing down from memory the analogous reference in Bhagavadgītā chapter 16, st 20, after the mention of the demon miscreants in BG chapter 7, st 15. The MS gives the Śveta episode.

With K<sub>2</sub>, D<sub>2</sub> om the colophon at the end of chapter 68, D<sub>2</sub> also omitting the reference at the beginning of the following chapter. Chapters 68 and 69 can in fact be well merged into one. The om of the colophon at the end of chapter 83, found in D<sub>2</sub> alone, seems to be due to an oversight.

D<sub>4</sub>

Tanjore, Saraswathi Mahal Library, No 1204. Dated Śaka 1622 ( A D 1700 ) Folios 277, with 10 lines to a page, and about 52 letters to a line. Devanāgarī characters. Complete, with occasional marginal collections. The MS was collated at Tanjore. The Bhagavadgītā is accompanied by the commentary of Śīdhara. Burnell's catalogue gives for it the date Samvat 1622, but actually it is Śaka 1622, Vikrama being not the name of the Samvat, but of the cyclic year corresponding to Śaka 1622.

Of some forty omissions found in the MS, 17 belong to D<sub>4</sub> alone, 9 of the latter being non-haplographical. The others ( ignoring about ten shared with the entire Northern or the late Northern groups ) are shared, one each, with Ś<sub>1</sub>, K<sub>0</sub> & K<sub>2</sub> (hapl ),

K<sub>2</sub> B<sub>2</sub> s D<sub>7</sub> s, B Dn<sub>2</sub> M<sub>1</sub> s-s, B Dn D<sub>8</sub> (hapl), D<sub>8</sub> D<sub>9</sub> (hapl), Dn (hapl), Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>7</sub> s, Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>7</sub>, D<sub>4</sub> 7 s (hapl), D<sub>4</sub>-s (hapl), M<sub>1</sub> (hapl), and M<sub>2</sub>-s. None of the omissions covers more than two stanzas.

D<sub>4</sub> gives the thirty odd addl passages<sup>1</sup> which belong to the entire N recension as well as the fifty odd addl passages belonging to the group of late Northern MSS. It gives both the Kātyāyanistava and the Śveta episode. Of the remaining additions, however, quite a few testify to a distinct lining up of the MS with the Southern group. The MS thus shares 263* (3 lines), 272* (6 lines), 282* (3 lines, M<sub>2</sub> om), 286* (2 lines, marg sec m), 295* (3 lines, marg sec m), and 296* (8 lines) exclusively with the entire S recension. These additions are mostly elaborated battle-descriptions which often serve to bring out the out-of-the-way learning of the author, as for instance in the addition given in the footnote below<sup>2</sup>. Two of these additions, it will be noticed, are written on the margin by a second hand.

D<sub>4</sub>, as we have already seen, belongs to the group referred to on p xviii above, and in the few transpositions found in it, it generally goes with that group, but in some cases the MS has undergone modifications and corrections according to the S recension, although they are subsequently negatived by a later hand. Thus, after 6 75. 16, D<sub>4</sub> (like S) wrote stanza 19, but cancelled it, writing it (marg) in the proper place.

D<sub>5</sub>

Baroda, Oriental Institute Library, No 7740

Written on country paper in Devanāgarī characters. Size 15" × 6½". Folios 241, with 12 lines to a page, and 55 letters to a line. Not dated, but modern in appearance. Not very correct. Collated at the B O R Institute.

D<sub>5</sub> shows over ninety different omissions, very few of them being of more than 3 or 4 lines. Nearly forty of them are found in D<sub>5</sub> alone, only about a dozen of these being due to haplography. Most of the others are shared by D<sub>5</sub> in common with the late Northern group of MSS, and only two or three in common with the early Northern group, they being, in the latter case, mostly due to haplography. There are only three or four omissions shared by D<sub>6</sub> in common with the Southern group, and even there haplography is in evidence in most cases. The exception is 6 6 11<sup>cd</sup> (found in B<sub>2</sub> & Da Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>5</sub> & T G M<sub>4</sub>), and 50 13<sup>cd</sup> (found in D<sub>5</sub> G<sub>1</sub> & )

Most of the additions found in D<sub>6</sub>, it shares in common with either the entire Northern group or the late Northern group. There is also a smaller group made of the five MSS Da Dn D<sub>5</sub>. Most of the MSS from this group are found to agree both in their omissions and additions, there being about two dozen instances of the former and about twelve of the latter. These last are 59*, 190*, 213*, 216* (also in D<sub>1</sub>), 244*, 251*, 408*, 464*, 493*, 501*. It gives 486*, also found in B<sub>2</sub> S. The MS gives the Śveta episode but not the Kātyāyanīstava. It may be pointed out here that D<sub>6</sub> is alone amongst MSS of the composite D group in not giving 202*

D<sub>6</sub> with K<sub>2</sub> omits the colophon at the end of chapter 113, but that is due to a longer haplographical omission.

D<sub>6</sub>

Madras, Adyar Library, old No 34 L 59 (present No 41 c 59), dated V Samvat 1835 = Śaka 1701 (A. D 1779). Written on country paper in Devanāgarī characters. Size 11½" × 6½". Folios 280 (numbered 1-279, with fol 87 duplicated). About 11 lines to a page, and 32 letters to a line. The MS was copied by a scribe who describes himself as साहा श्रीवृन्दावनसुत पुरुषोत्तम, belonging to a place named देहावली.

This MS shows a very large number of omissions peculiar to itself, there being nearly seventy of them. More than half of these are due to haplography, the longest of them covering some twenty stanzas 6 15 35<sup>a</sup>-55<sup>a</sup>. It also omits, for no apparent reason, the first 17 stanzas of chapter 17. Besides these, there are about twenty omissions shared by D<sub>6</sub> with K<sub>2</sub> D<sub>2</sub> (six cases), K<sub>2</sub> D<sub>1</sub> (two cases), and with solitary MSS of the composite D group, but none shared with MSS of the B group. With the major Kashmirian group, besides its association with K<sub>2</sub>, D<sub>6</sub> shows the following cases of omission: 6 58 22<sup>cd</sup> (with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> & D<sub>1</sub> & 7), 110 36<sup>ab</sup> (with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub>), 55 90 (with K<sub>0-2</sub> D<sub>2</sub> & ), the omitted portion being, in the first instance, replaced by an extra line (229*). Some few of the omissions incidentally result in avoiding three-line stanzas. The other omissions do not call for any remark<sup>1</sup>.

Ignoring the additions belonging to the entire N recension or to the group of the late Northern MSS, which are generally found in D<sub>6</sub>, the MS shows at least twelve additional passages (19*, 21*, 24*, 49*, 115*, 164*, 375*, 377*, 383*, 389*, 393*, 394*), three or four of which seem to be mainly aimed at avoiding three-line stanzas. Others are of the nature of an unnecessary heaping up of epithets (389*), or a lengthening out of the dialogue (375*), or an elaboration of some battle-description (394*, 411*). We also meet with an attempt to imitate the BG wording (383*), or to supply what was conceived as a lacuna in the narration (115*). Some of its additions, D<sub>6</sub> shares with the major Kashmirian group (e.g. 140*, 182*, 202*, 417*, 508*), at times attempting to improve the context by a further addition of its own, such as 509* coming immediately after 508*. D<sub>6</sub> contains neither the Kātyāyanīstava nor the Śveta episode.

The few transpositions found in D<sub>6</sub> seem to be accidental. In reading 6 22 13<sup>b</sup> after 13<sup>a</sup>, however, D<sub>6</sub> secures a better word-order. The omission in D<sub>6</sub> of the colophon at the end of chapter 16 is evidently the result of the same accident whereby the MS omits the first 17 stanzas of the next chapter.

D<sub>7</sub>

Baroda, Oriental Institute Library, No. 8858

Written on country paper in Devanāgarī characters. Size 13" × 5½". Folios 237, with 10 lines to a page, and 40 letters to a line. Some pages are worm-eaten, causing frequent lacunae. Not dated. Fairly correct. Collated at the B O R Institute.

D<sub>7</sub> has nearly forty omissions—none longer than three or four lines—only fifteen of them being peculiar to the MS, out of which only six are due to haplography. Of the omissions shared with other MSS, one belongs to the entire Northern recension, five to the late Northern group, and two to the early Kashmirian group, viz., 6 15 22<sup>a</sup>–23<sup>a</sup> (found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> D<sub>7</sub> s), 86 80<sup>ca</sup> (found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-1</sub> D<sub>2</sub> 7 s M<sub>4</sub>). Both, however, are due to haplography. With sporadic MSS of the entire D version, it has five omissions in common, all except one due to haplography. Except the omission of 6 95 21<sup>ab</sup>, which D<sub>7</sub> shares with B Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>4</sub> 7 M<sub>1</sub> s-s, there is no other omission shared by the MS with MSS of the Southern recension.

D<sub>7</sub> has only two additional passages peculiar to itself, 3* (also in K<sub>2</sub>) and 65*, of which the latter appears to be rather an anticipatory copying of a later line (6 16. 37<sup>ab</sup>). D<sub>7</sub> shows most of the additions peculiar to the Northern recension (with an occasional exception like 380*) as well as those peculiar to the late Northern group of MSS. It gives the Kātyāyanīstava, but not the Śveta episode. In giving 60* (found in B<sub>2-4</sub> Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> s-s 7 s S), and 61* (found in B Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> s 7 s S), the MS has fallen in a line with those MSS of the N recension that are conflated with the S tradition. Amongst the additions shared by D<sub>7</sub> with a relatively few N MSS, may be mentioned 20* (found in K<sub>2</sub> s D<sub>2</sub> 7), 135* (in K<sub>4</sub> D<sub>4</sub> 7 s), 216* (in Da<sub>2</sub> D<sub>5</sub> 7) and 243* (in D<sub>1</sub> s 7).

It will be noticed that, in the "transposition accident" in chapter 15, D<sub>7</sub> goes with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> in reading stanzas 39–54 after 22<sup>ab</sup> (om. 22<sup>a</sup>–23<sup>a</sup>).

D<sub>3</sub>

Poona, Bombay Government Collection ( deposited at the BORI ), No 213 of 1887-91 Dated Śaka 1606 ( A D 1684 )

Written on old country paper in Devanāgarī characters Size  $12\frac{1}{4}'' \times 6''$  Folios 240, with about 10 lines to a page, and 42 letters to a line Margins ruled in irregular lines Occasional double dandas, and blank spaces to indicate lacunae Clear and legible hand, fairly correct Corrections noted in the margin, some few sec m The first and the last few folios slightly frayed along the edges The date given at the end reads — शके १६०६ रक्ताधिनामसंवत्सरे ज्येष्ठवदि प्रतिपदा इन्दुवासरे इदं पुस्तकं लिखितम् । ग्रन्थसंख्या ६००० ॥ After this, on a separate line, but probably in the same hand, appears the owner's name भीष्मपर्वस्येदं पुस्तकं राधोजी देगमुख परदे ।

Of the nearly sixty omissions found in D<sub>3</sub>, over thirty are peculiar to the MS, more than half of these being due to haplography It shares three of its omissions with the majority of Southern MSS, viz, 6 6 11<sup>ca</sup>, 44 30<sup>ab</sup>, 48 21<sup>ab</sup> ( T G only ), and an equal number with the major Kashmirian group, viz, 6 15 22<sup>c</sup>-23<sup>d</sup>, 43 28<sup>d</sup>-29<sup>c</sup>, 86 80<sup>cd</sup> ( all these latter being due to hapl ) Some half a dozen omissions are shared with sporadic MSS of the D group, while the rest are shared in common with the late Northern group

As to additions, D<sub>3</sub> shows most of the additions common to the Northern recension as a whole, as well as those belonging to the late Northern group It gives the Kātyāyanīstava and the Gitāmāna and the Gitāprasasti stanzas ( 112*, 113*, 114* ), but not the Śveta episode or the Tāntūric prelude or the Gitāsāra Beyond these, it gives 403*, 487* ( in common with B<sub>2</sub> ), 489* ( with K<sub>2</sub> Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>4</sub> ), and 506* ( with Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>4</sub> & ), the last passage being found also in the Calcutta edition

T<sub>1</sub>

Tanjore, Saraswathi Mahal Library, No 11810 This MS is written on palm leaves Size  $20\frac{1}{2}'' \times 2\frac{1}{4}''$  Telugu characters The present MS contains parvans 6-11, and it is in continuation of the Library No 11809, which is a similar palm-leaf MS in Telugu characters giving the first five parvans This latter MS has at the end the entry "Tyāgeśāya namaḥ", which perhaps points to A D 1710 as the latest date for the writing of the MS, seeing that king Shahaji Raja of Tanjore ( A D 1684-1710 ) was a great devotee of Śrī Tyāgarāja of Tiruvaiṇṇur, and has composed hundreds of Telugu songs in praise of that deity That MS appears as T<sub>3</sub> in the Crit App of the Ādiparvan, and as T<sub>2</sub> in the Crit App of both the Ālanyakaparvan and the Vṛātaparvan The Bhīṣmaparvan in No 11810 covers 77 folios, separately paged, with about 12 lines to a page, and 120 letters to a line It is old in appearance, but is not dated The MS was collated at Tanjore

T<sub>2</sub>

Lahore, D A V College Library, No 3945

This is another palm-leaf MS in Telugu characters, which contains — besides the Bhīṣma — Drona, Karna and Gadāparvans. Size 20" × 2½". The Bhīṣmaparvan covers 210 folios with about 15–18 lines to a page. Complete. Undated. The MS was collated at the B O R Institute.

T<sub>1</sub> T<sub>2</sub> are more or less allied MSS and it is best to consider them critically together. There are about a dozen omissions peculiar to T<sub>1</sub>, out of which half are due to haplography. T<sub>2</sub>, on the other hand, has over ninety omissions peculiar to it, out of which over forty are due to haplography. The longest single omission in T<sub>1</sub> covers about ten stanzas, 6 41 27<sup>d</sup>–36<sup>c</sup>, and it may be due to haplography. The others are generally shorter, covering half a stanza to two stanzas. The longest single omission in T<sub>2</sub> covers 33 stanzas (6 90 1<sup>d</sup>–34<sup>c</sup>), which may have been occasioned by the inadvertent omission of an intervening folio, perhaps facilitated by the similar ending of the last line written on two contiguous folios. T<sub>2</sub>, however, has several shorter omissions, frequently haplographical, covering from 2 to 7 stanzas. The non-haplographical ones are 6 2 7<sup>b</sup>–18<sup>a</sup>, 41 66<sup>d</sup>–69<sup>c</sup>, 53 10<sup>c</sup>–15<sup>d</sup>, 70 14<sup>a</sup>–16<sup>b</sup>, 76 14<sup>a</sup>–16<sup>a</sup>, 112 27–29.

T<sub>1</sub> shares several of its omissions with G<sub>4</sub>, the non-haplographical ones being 6 50 88<sup>c</sup>–89<sup>d</sup>, 54 20<sup>ab</sup>, 95 41<sup>d</sup>–42<sup>a</sup>, 96 39–40, 102 20–21, 106 4–5, 10<sup>cd</sup>. These two MSS jointly share with Ś<sub>1</sub> the omission (hapl) of 6 112 22<sup>c</sup>–23<sup>d</sup>, and with K<sub>0</sub> the omission (hapl) of 100 27<sup>ab</sup>. They show frequent agreement in the matter of variant readings also. T<sub>2</sub> does not show such intimate relationship with any one single MS. Both T<sub>1</sub> and T<sub>2</sub> severally show common omissions with MSS of the Ś K group. Thus, Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> : T<sub>1</sub> om (hapl) 6 10 14<sup>ab</sup>, Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> : D<sub>2</sub> T<sub>1</sub> om (hapl) 112 30<sup>c</sup>–31<sup>b</sup>, K<sub>0</sub> : T<sub>1</sub> om (not hapl) 90 46, K<sub>0-2</sub> T<sub>1</sub> om (hapl) 112 17<sup>c</sup>–18<sup>d</sup>, K<sub>2</sub> T<sub>1</sub> om (not hapl) 102 47<sup>c</sup>–48<sup>b</sup>. Similarly, Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> T<sub>2</sub> om (hapl) 6 16 29–30, K<sub>0</sub> : D<sub>1</sub> T<sub>2</sub> om (hapl) 43 52<sup>a</sup>–54<sup>b</sup>, K<sub>0</sub> : D<sub>2</sub> T<sub>2</sub> G<sub>3</sub> om (hapl) 69 24–25.

There are omissions belonging to the T G versions together which are not found in the M version. These are 6 22 7<sup>d</sup>, 42 17<sup>ab</sup>, 48 21<sup>ab</sup> (also in D<sub>3</sub>), 50 70<sup>c</sup>–75<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 60 40<sup>cd</sup>, 61 43<sup>d</sup>–44<sup>a</sup> (hapl), 74 23<sup>a</sup>–25<sup>b</sup> (not in T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub>). The over thirty omissions which characterize the Southern recension as a whole (with a MS or two occasionally added or omitted) are of course found in the T version. Mention may, however, be made of the following exceptions: 6 60 53<sup>a</sup>–54<sup>d</sup> (hapl) and 70 2<sup>ab</sup>, both om by S (except T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub> M<sub>2</sub>), 116 19<sup>d</sup>–21<sup>a</sup>, om (hapl) by S (except T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub>), 10 15<sup>c</sup>–16<sup>d</sup>, om by S (except T<sub>2</sub> M<sub>2</sub>), 71 10<sup>ab</sup>, om by S (except T<sub>2</sub> G<sub>1</sub> :).

As to additional passages, there are, in the first place, over 130 star-passages which are peculiar to the S recension as such, besides about ten other passages found in S as well as in the late Kashmirian group of MSS<sup>1</sup>, and these are naturally found in T<sub>1</sub> (except 122*, 123*), and in T<sub>2</sub> (except 192*, 267*, 271*, 355*, 452*). In the second place, there are over a dozen star-passages belonging to T G (but not M) which are found in both T<sub>1</sub> and T<sub>2</sub> without exception. To these may also be added 308* (found in T G M<sub>4</sub>), 331* (found in D<sub>1</sub> T G M<sub>1.2</sub>), 412* (found in D<sub>2</sub> T G M<sub>1.2</sub>), and 480* (found in T G M<sub>1.4</sub>)

There are no additions exclusively peculiar to T<sub>1</sub>, while T<sub>2</sub> has 45*, 199*, 303*, 369*, 370*, 372*, peculiar to that MS alone, of which passages 199* and 303* are respectively the continuations of 198* and 302* which are found in T G. T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub> have the following additions shared in common: 4* (also in G<sub>2</sub>), 15* (also in M<sub>2</sub>), 18* (also in G<sub>2</sub>), 30*, 33*, 34*, 38* (also in M<sub>2</sub>), 54* (also in M<sub>2</sub>, which om line 2), 57*, 58* (also in M<sub>2</sub>), 75*, 134*, 169*, 224* (also in M<sub>2</sub>), 248*, 254* (with M<sub>2</sub>), 265*, 351*, 440* (also in M<sub>2</sub>), 473*. T<sub>1</sub> G have the following additional passages in common: 205*, 219*, 304*, 329*, 353* (also in M<sub>4</sub>), 388*, 448* (also in M<sub>2</sub>), 454* (also in M<sub>2</sub>), 460*, 461*, 462*, 481*, the passages being absent in T<sub>2</sub>. On the other hand, T<sub>2</sub> shares with the entire M version the following star-passages: 220*, 362*, 390*, 434*. With M<sub>4</sub>, T<sub>2</sub> shares 419*, and with M<sub>1.4</sub>, 463*.

In common with the entire N recension, T<sub>1</sub> G share the star-passage 476*, while T<sub>2</sub> similarly shares 285*. Passages 433* and 505* are found in N and T G.

As to transpositions, there is only one peculiar to T<sub>1</sub>, but nearly ten peculiar to T<sub>2</sub>, but they are not of any critical importance. T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub>, as usual, show their affinity by having some nine transpositions in common<sup>2</sup>, occasionally in conjunction with one or more M MSS. There are about a dozen transpositions (see p. XLIX below) common to T G, of which T<sub>2</sub> alone fails to give nearly half.

The versions T G om the colophon at the end of chapter 5, and the MSS. T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub> do the same at the end of chapter 45, but as the "uvāca" references at the beginning of the following chapters are not omitted, the omission of the colophons seems to be due to inadvertence only. On the other hand, the colophon at the end of 6.112.77 is omitted in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0.1</sub> T<sub>2</sub>, T<sub>2</sub> omitting also the following "uvāca" reference. Here the procedure of T<sub>2</sub> seems justifiable.

<sup>1</sup> These are: 61* (found in K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> 5 7 8 S), 64* (in K<sub>8-5</sub> B D S), 70* (in K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> 5 7 8 S), 108* (in Ś<sub>1</sub> 8 Ko-3 5 6 Ñ<sub>1</sub> B<sub>1</sub> 8 4 Da<sub>1</sub> Dn<sub>1</sub> D<sub>1-4</sub> 6 T G M<sub>2</sub>), 211* (in K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> 5 7 8 S), 316* (in Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-2 4 5 B<sub>8</sub> T<sub>1</sub> G M), 465* (in K<sub>8-5</sub> B D T G), 486* (in B<sub>2</sub> Da Dn<sub>1</sub> D<sub>2</sub> S), 494* (in Ko 2-5 B D T G<sub>4</sub> M).

<sup>2</sup> Thus, T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>1</sub>, after 6.12.8<sup>ab</sup>, read 9<sup>abcd</sup>, transp (with G<sub>2</sub>) 54.13<sup>cd</sup> and 14<sup>ab</sup>, after 54.24<sup>ab</sup>, read 19<sup>cdcf</sup>, after 63.15<sup>cd</sup>, read (with M<sub>4</sub>) 17<sup>cd</sup>, transp (with M<sub>2</sub>) 70.2<sup>ab</sup> and 2<sup>cd</sup>, after 74.22, read (with M) 25<sup>cd</sup>, repeating it in the proper place, after 82.47, read 50, after 102.78 (i.e., before the colophon), read (with M<sub>1.2.4</sub>) 103.1-11, transp 109.6<sup>ab</sup> and 6<sup>cd</sup>.

The omissions belonging to the M version by itself are the following:

6 22 2<sup>cd</sup> (without M<sub>4</sub>), 19 (with D<sub>4</sub>, without M<sub>1</sub>), 51 31<sup>ab</sup> (without M<sub>4</sub>), 65 25<sup>cd</sup> (with T<sub>2</sub> G<sub>1-3</sub>, without M<sub>4</sub>), 73 23<sup>ab</sup> (hapl, without M<sub>2</sub>); 75 5<sup>c</sup>-7<sup>b</sup> (hapl, without M<sub>2</sub> 4), 80 5<sup>ab</sup> (hapl, with T<sub>2</sub>, without M<sub>2</sub>), 95 21<sup>ab</sup> (with B Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>4</sub> 7, without M<sub>2</sub>), 97 19 (with G<sub>2</sub>, without M<sub>2</sub>), 103 47<sup>cd</sup> (with T<sub>2</sub>), 92, 106 44-45, 108 20<sup>c</sup>-24<sup>b</sup> (hapl), 109 4<sup>c</sup>-5<sup>d</sup> (hapl, with

Of these, M<sub>1</sub> fails to present 6 22 19

There are no additions peculiar to M<sub>1</sub> exclusively. M<sub>1-3</sub> have 56*, M<sub>1</sub> 4 (with T<sub>2</sub>) 463*, and M<sub>1</sub> 3 4 (as a subst passage) 468*. M<sub>1</sub> at times follows T G in the matter of addl passages, as for instance in 395*, 421*, 431*, in 331* (with D<sub>1</sub> M<sub>2</sub>), 391* (with M<sub>2</sub>), 412* (with D<sub>6</sub> M<sub>2</sub>), and in 480* (with M<sub>4</sub>). Beyond these, there are about a dozen cases where the additional passages are common to the entire M version, as well as the over a hundred and thirty cases characteristic of the S recension as such. The former are listed below

79* and 165* (both without M<sub>4</sub>), 187* (with K<sub>2</sub> 4 B<sub>1</sub> 3 4 Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> 3-5 7 8), 220* and 362* (both with T<sub>2</sub>), 366* (subst.), 390* (with T<sub>2</sub>), 407* (with K<sub>4</sub> D<sub>1</sub> 3), 434* (with T<sub>2</sub> which substitutes it for 6 103 101<sup>cd</sup>), 452* (with T<sub>1</sub> G, T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub>, and G<sub>1-3</sub> at different points of insertion), 459*, 467* (with K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> 3-3)

As to transpositions, the only one exclusively peculiar to M<sub>1</sub> is the reading of 6 8 51<sup>ab</sup> after 8 48. It, however, repeats the line in its proper place. With M<sub>2</sub>, M<sub>1</sub> reads 6 8 15<sup>c</sup>-16<sup>d</sup> after 8 25, and transposes (hapl) 66 8<sup>bc</sup> and 9<sup>bc</sup>, with M<sub>2</sub>, it reads 6 113 9<sup>cd</sup>-17<sup>cd</sup> after 112 134<sup>cd</sup>, with T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub> M<sub>3</sub>. 4, it reads 6 103 1-11 after 102 78, with M<sub>3</sub> 3, it transposes 6 82 31<sup>cd</sup> and 32<sup>ab</sup>, and with M<sub>2</sub> 3 3, it reads 6 15 34 after 15 28<sup>ab</sup>, repeating the same in its proper place. There are, besides these, a couple of transpositions found in the M version as a whole<sup>1</sup> and the over fifteen cases of transpositions presented by the entire S recension, which are naturally found in M<sub>1</sub>.

As to additions, those which  $M_3$  shares with  $M_1$  have been already mentioned under  $M_1$ .  $M_3$  gives all the additions common to the  $M$  version as a whole (see p XLIX above), but of the additions presented by the  $S$  recension,  $M_3$  does not show the following 72*, 83*, 331* (with  $M_4$ ), 480* (with  $M_2$ ). With  $M_4$ ,  $M_3$  gives the passage App I, No 4 (the Śveta episode), from which, however, these MSS omit lines 1-6 and 288-339.

The transpositions in  $M_3$  are all shared with  $M_1$  and are already detailed under that MS. With  $M_5$ ,  $M_3$  repeats 6 8 15<sup>c</sup>-16<sup>d</sup> after 8. 25, and reads (for the first time) 59 22<sup>ab</sup> after 59 20.

SUPPLEMENTARY APPARATUS

The following four MSS do not form part of the regular Critical Apparatus as such. But of the more than twentyfive MSS which could not be included in the Crit App, but of which regular collations were obtained, the following four give at times certain variae lectiones which are occasionally mentioned and commented upon in the Critical Notes

K<sub>7</sub>

Madras, Adyar Library, No X 67 Written in Devanāgarī characters on tough country paper, much worm-eaten. A composite MS consisting of two parts, separately paged, giving folios 43 + 164, with 12-14 lines to a page, and 35 letters to a line. The first part takes the text up to end of the Bhagavadgītā chapter 6, which, in the Parvan sequence, is equal to chapter 27, and not chapter 28 as in the Critical Edition, seeing that the MS omits Crit Ed chap 22 entirely. The next part does not begin with BG. chap 7, as one would expect, but goes back to chapter 22 (which includes vulgate chapters 22 and 24, om intervening chap 23) and thereafter, omitting the BG entirely, it carries on from the beginning of our chapter 41 stanza 1 up to the end of the parvan. At the end of the MS is found a folio (numbered 150) which is the concluding folio of a Bhīṣmaparvan MS, presumably the same of which the MS preserves the first 43 folios. The handwriting of both the parts appears similar, but the texts given by them differ, the first part being distinctly Kashmirian, while the second, mainly Southern. The MS is undated, and was collated at the B O R Institute. The siglum K<sub>1</sub> refers only to the first part of the MS, the second part being altogether ignored.

K<sub>2</sub>

Poona, Bombay Government Collection (deposited at the BORI), No 480 of Visrāmbāg I, dated V Samvat 1806 (A D 1750)

Written on smooth country paper in Devanāgarī characters. Size 14½" × 6". Folios 139, with 13 lines to a page, and about 62 letters to a line. Margins ruled in red. Clear and legible writing. Neither the stanzas nor the adhyāyas are numbered, except for the Bhagavadgītā portion. The MS does not give the Kātyāyanīstava and generally gives a conflated text of the K version. Modern in appearance. ## ADDITIONAL APPARATUS FOR THE BHAGAVADGĪTĀ

Ś<sub>2</sub>

London, British Museum, Oriental MS No 6763 D Written on birch-bark in fairly legible Śāradā script (observing jihvāmūliya and upadhmanīya) Old in appearance with letters here and there faded or broken off with part of the margin Gives the text of the Bhagavadgītā only up to chapter viii 18 The variants from this MS are quoted by F Otto Schiadel in his The Kashmir Recension of the Bhagavadgītā, and they are reproduced in the Crit App on that authority

Ś<sub>3</sub>

Srinagar, MS belonging to the Shri-Rāma-Trika-Āshram, Fateh Kadal, which was used by Biahmachari Lakshman Raina for his edition of the Bhagavadgītā with Abhinavagupta's commentary, Srinagar, 1933 The MS is written on very old Kashmiri paper in Śāradā characters, and forms the basis of the printed text Two other MSS were also used by L. Raina, but as only nine variant readings<sup>1</sup> are noted in the whole poem, the printed text can reasonably be taken to represent Raina's best MS

Ś<sub>4</sub>

Poona, Bombay Government Collection (deposited at the BORI), No 424 of 1875-76. Written on Kashmirian paper in Śāradā characters and bound in a book-form. Folios 581, with 14-16 lines to a page, and 11-16 letters to a line. Size 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ " x 4". Written by at least two hands. Occasional marginal additions and collections in Śāradā characters. The text and the commentary are written continuously. The MS ends.

If Laukika Samvat 85 in Ś<sub>1</sub> corresponds to A. D. 1739, the present MS may go back to A. D. 1754. The MS looks a couple of centuries old.

Ś<sub>5</sub>

Poona, Bombay Government Collection (deposited at the BORI), No 423 of 1875-76. Written on Kashmirian paper in Śāradā characters. The first six chapters (folios 1-64) written in upright book-form, and the remaining chapters, probably by the same hand, in oblong pothī form, numbered 1-96. The MS is bound in leather. Size 12" x 7". About 24-27 lines to a page, and 20 letters to a line in the first part, about 13-14 lines to a page, and 48 letters to a line in the second part. Occasional marginal corrections. The text and the commentary are written continuously, yellow pigment being used to differentiate the text. The MS ends.

<sup>1</sup> These are BG 2 6<sup>a</sup> न चैतद्विषय (for नैतद्विषय), 3 6<sup>d</sup> मिथ्याचार (for मूढाचार), 89*, line 3 इन्द्रियेषु ह (for इन्द्रियै मह), 6 33<sup>d</sup> स्थिराम् (for पराम्), 91*, line 2 सविश्रान्तो (for विभ्रान्तो), 8 25<sup>a</sup> धूम कृष्णस्तथा रात्रि (for धूमो रात्रिस्तथा कृष्ण), 10 2<sup>b</sup> प्रभावम् (for प्रभवम्), 10 10<sup>d</sup> उपयान्ति (for प्रापयन्ति), 18 44<sup>c</sup> परिचर्यात्मक (for पयुत्थानात्मक). The first four of these variants belong to a MS designated by Raina as ग, variants 5, 6, 9 belong to MS क, and 7 and 8 to MS घ.

If the Laukika year is taken to represent the cycle following the one intended in Ś<sub>1</sub>, the present MS would be ( 15 + 27 = ) 42 years younger than Ś<sub>1</sub>, i. e., it would belong to A. D. 1781, for which year the tithi and week-day details given above would seem to correspond, according to the calculations in Pillai's Indian Ephemeris

Ś<sub>0</sub>

Poona, Bombay Government Collection ( deposited at the BORI ), No 179 of 1883-84

Written on old country paper in Śāradā characters The MS consists of three separately paged parts The first part ( pp. 1-15 ) gives the commentary of Śīdhāna on the Gītāsāra ( see Ś<sub>3</sub> ), while the second ( pp. 1-8 ) gives an Upodghāta or Introduction to the teaching of the Bhagavadgītā as understood by the commentator, which, however, breaks off suddenly towards the end Then follows the third part ( pp. 1-88 ), which lacks the initial part and begins with the commentary on BG 2.6 Size 8½" × 6" About 24-26 lines to a page, and 24-28 letters to a line The commentator gives his name in the concluding stanza as Ānanda ( probably a shortened form of Ānandavaidhana ), while the commentary is called the Jñānakar masamuccayavyākhyā alias the Ānandavandhinī <sup>1</sup> The MS ends with the stanza

सख्याते द्विजराजसिद्धयुपिरोपायै (4781) कलेर्हायने
 लोके सप्तगुणर्विरूपकमिते(1737) काले शकने सति ।
 आनन्दस्य कृति श्रुतिस्मृतिमिता गीता गिरा पञ्चका-
 त्कर्मज्ञानसमुच्चयोदयधिया भूयाच्छिवप्रीतये ॥

This would give, calculating by the elapsed Kali years mentioned, A. D. 1680 as the date of the commentator, which would correspond to the year 1737 of the Samvat era, which the MS designates as " Śakaghnakāla "

Gondal, Kathiawad, MS ( without number ) belonging to the Rasaśālā Collection of MSS Dated V Samvat 1598 ( A. D. 1541 )

This is the 'rare and ancient' MS upon which Rājavaidya Jivaram Kalidas Shastri of Gondal has based his edition ( 1936-37 ) of the Bhagavadgītā The Shastri does not give any detailed description of this rare and ancient MS. which gives the date It would accordingly seem that the MS is written on paper in Devanāgarī characters with Prsthāmātrās There are 19-20 lines to a page, and about 52-56 letters to a line, i e, an average of 32 ślokaś per page The MS should accordingly extend to twelve folios, the first and the last being written on one side only The MS ends thus इति श्रीभगवद्गीताया मोक्षसंन्यासयोगो नामाष्टादशोऽध्यायः ॥ १८ ॥ तत्समाप्तौ गीता समाप्तिमगात् ॥ श्रीहरि ॐ ॥ शुभ भूयान् । नन्दन्तु यावच्चन्द्रदिवाकरौ ॥ श्री ॥ स १२३६ वर्षे मिति ज्येष्ठशुक्लपञ्चम्या *दिने<sup>१</sup> पूर्णम् । इति श्री-भगवद्गीता समाप्ता ॥ गंगाशंकरपठनार्थं गणपतव्यासेन स्तभतीर्थे लिखित ॥ प्रतिलिपी स १५९८ (?) वर्षे चैत्रे ( some letters erased ) पूज्य-विमलगणीशिष्य-मुनिसिंहविमल-आदेशात् कृती । The original copy of the MS was made at Cambay, and the second, some 350 years later, by the order of a Jaina Muni We are told that the MS was obtained from Suat

To judge by the photograph copy, the MS does not appear to be even as old as Samvat 1598, to say nothing of Samvat 1236 The Prsthāmātrā mode of writing is here and there given up, e g, in writing निर्धौत in BG 5 17<sup>a</sup>, निर्वर्त्ये in 89<sup>a</sup>, line 7 The MS reads BG 6 7<sup>b</sup> actually as परमात्मा समाहित The Gondal edition rejects this reading because the 'Kashmirian' reading is परात्मसु समा मति The same is the case as regards च्च ( found in the MS ) in 4 21<sup>b</sup>, which the Gondal edition changes into य, the Kashmirian reading K ( i e, the Gondal edition of 1936-37 ) offers 32 readings, peculiar to it, which we have not found in any of the MSS we have seen These are

Would it be believed that the only MS where all these variants occur (except 2 11<sup>b</sup>, 3 31<sup>a</sup>, 5. 23<sup>a</sup>, 14 6<sup>c</sup>—the last three being downright errors which can be easily corrected)—is the “Bhojapatra” MS<sup>1</sup> from the same Gondal Collection, which gives a Bhagavadgītā of 745 (755) stanzas<sup>2</sup> Of the remaining variants in the above list, 5 9<sup>a</sup> is tautologous, 6 44<sup>b</sup> is meaningless, 8 3<sup>d</sup> is ungrammatical (unless कर्म is taken as a separate word), in 14 15<sup>c</sup>, the plural लीना is wrong, 15 13<sup>a</sup> can give sense only if माम् = लक्ष्मीम् = मायाम्, and in 18 59<sup>c</sup>, the word व्यवसाय is deliberately changed to अध्यवसाय because the editor always prefers to understand व्यवसाय to mean trade, profession or worldly activities See his long note apud BG 2 41

Cambridge, University Library, Additional MS No 1597, dated Nepalese Samvat 596 (ca A D 1476)

This MS was presented to the Cambridge University by Daniel Wright, the Nepal Resident The B O R Institute obtained a photograph copy from the University It is a paper MS written in Newārī characters Size 18" × 5½" Folios 56, with seven lines to a page, and about 32 letters to a line Occasional marginal emendations Stanzas and adhyāyas numbered After BG 18 78, the MS inserts 111<sup>a</sup> and continues

Then follow ten lines of an independent Paurāṇik work. The particulars of the date given are correct

The above MS, which, if the date is its own, would be the oldest MS to be used for the present edition, may, possibly, be a later copy from an older MS, to judge by its handwriting On fol 66 and elsewhere, there are small marginal corrections in Devanāgarī characters, presumably by a different hand

The MS gives over thirty-five original variants, nearly 20 of which appear to be copyist's blunders The readings worth noting are the following

The large number of variants with hiatus is a feature The oldest Nepalese MS of the Ādiparvan offers numerous instances of the same see Sukthankar, Epic Studies ( vii ), Annals of the B O R Institute, Vol xix, p 211

Ñ<sub>1</sub> has only three inserted passages 100*, 101*, and 111*, the last of which is apparently a सम्प्रहस्येक not presumably from Cg Passage 100* is a regular Kashmirian extra stanza found in Ś<sub>3-6</sub> K<sub>6</sub> Ñ<sub>1</sub> ( marg ) D<sub>3</sub> Cā g k, but passage 101* is found only in K<sub>6</sub> ( all the three lines ), and in Ñ<sub>1</sub> and D<sub>3</sub> ( only the first and the third lines ) Worth noting is the fact that Ñ<sub>1</sub> gives 100* and 101* only in margin<sup>1</sup> or in parentheses, see m Except for this, the bulk of the extra stanzas in the “Kashmirian Recension” seem to be unknown to this old Nepalese MS This is also the case generally with regard to the Kashmirian variae lectiones

<sup>1</sup> The *vibhūti*s mentioned in 101* occur individually in Purāna texts like the Bhāgavata xi. 16 18, 21, 30

DETAILED EVALUATION OF THE TESTIMONIA

(1) Commentaries A — For the Parvan

For the Bhīṣmaparvan, five commentaries have been cited in the Critical Apparatus, where necessary. Of these, those of Arjunamīśa (Ca) and of Nilakantha (Cn) are given in MSS along with the text, but it is not invariably the case that the text, along with which the commentaries are written, agrees with the pratīkas cited by the commentator. Scribes often wrote first the text by itself in the centre. The commentary written above and below the text in the blank space left for the purpose, was at times written by a different scribe, and it was rarely that the scribes took the care to see that the pratīkas cited in the commentary corresponded with the text already written in the centre. We can cite the instance of our MS Dn<sub>1</sub>. When its text was written, the intention obviously was to write above and below it the commentary of Arjunamīśa. Apparently, this was not available, and we find the commentary of Nilakantha written in its stead. Somewhat disingenuously, however, the commentary ends with—इति श्रीमदर्जुनसिंहकृतौ भारतार्थदीपिकायाः श्रीमत्पर्वविवरण समाप्तम्. Secondly, not every commentary explained all the “difficult” stanzas or words, so that not full use could everywhere be made of the blank margins left above and below the text for the writing of the commentary corresponding to it. This furnished the temptation for the student-scribe to copy down from another commentary the explanation of a difficult word, phrase or point which the commentary he was supposed to copy down might not have thought necessary to explain. At least some of the identical explanations found in the different commentators may be due to this habit of the student-scribe, although, in other cases, the commentators themselves might have borrowed (generally without acknowledging) an explanation or two from their predecessors, not even taking the trouble to vary the phraseology.

The five commentaries Ca, Co, Cd, Cn, and Cv, although cited in the Crit. App. in this alphabetical sequence, will be discussed here in their chronological order. We begin with the oldest of them, Devabodha's Jñānadīpikā also called Mahābhārata-dīpikā

Cd

Of this old and venerable commentator, no MS of the commentary on the entire Mahābhārata is known to exist. The Critical Edition could use his commentary<sup>1</sup> on the Ādiparvan, the Sabhāparvan, the Udyogaparvan<sup>2</sup> and the Bhīṣmaparvan<sup>3</sup> (without the Bhagavadgītā). We still lack his commentary on the Āraṇyakaparvan<sup>4</sup>,

the Virātaparvan<sup>1</sup>, the Bhagavadgītā<sup>2</sup>, the Kaimaparvan, the first eight chapters of the Śtūparvan, and all the remaining parvans from the Śānti to the end

For the Bhīṣmaparvan we have a solitary MS of Devabodha (commentary only), being the Baroda Oriental Institute MS No 12982. It is written on paper in Devanāgarī characters. Folios 1-5 (folio 1a blank) carry the text up to the Bhagavadgītā, and folios 1-9 (written sec m, with fresh pagination, fol 3b, 4a and 9a being left blank) carry the text from 6.41.1 to the end of the parvan, there being no commentary available for the Bhagavadgītā. The MS concludes thus—इति श्रीपरमहंसपरिव्राजकाचार्य-श्रद्धेवबोधकृतमहाभारतटीपिकाया भीष्मपर्वव्याख्यान[<sup>3</sup> वव्याख्यान] समाप्तम् ॥ श्रीशके १६८८ आश्विन सुदि ५ बुधे लिखितमिदं राम-भद्रपतेन ॥ This gives 26th October 1766 as the date of completion of the MS according to Pillai's Indian Ephemeris

As was established in the case of the Ādīparvan<sup>3</sup>, and the Udyogaparvan<sup>4</sup>, the text upon which Devabodha comments is in the main of the Ś K type. The examination of the patilas quoted in the commentary on the Bhīṣmaparvan goes to confirm that conclusion. Thus, as against the text accepted in the Critical Edition, Cd, in the following fifteen cases, gives a reading vouched for by the primary Kashmirian sources

6.3.34<sup>a</sup> उपतिष्ठन्ति (fol °ष्ठिस्) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub>, 4.15<sup>a</sup> सर्वाणि (fol सप्रामे) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> : D<sub>1</sub> : c, 6.6<sup>t</sup> शब्द आकाश एव च with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> : D<sub>1</sub> : c, 7, 6.9<sup>d</sup> न चैषा (fol तत्तेषा) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> D<sub>1</sub> : 7, 22.5<sup>a</sup> महेन्द्रबाह° (fol °यान°) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> : D<sub>2</sub> : 7, 42.1<sup>a</sup> एवव्यूहेषु (fol एव व्यूहेषु) with Ś<sub>1</sub> D<sub>n</sub> : D<sub>3</sub>, 44.32<sup>b</sup> व्याघ्रचर्ममयैर् (fol °शयैर्) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> : Ca : v, 44.48<sup>a</sup> पद्मशीपेण (fol °तारेण) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> : D<sub>2</sub> : c, 55.119<sup>a</sup> विहितेन्द्रजाला (for निहितेन्द्रकीला) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>2</sub> D<sub>c</sub>, 60.79<sup>d</sup> भ्रातृव्यसनकर्षित (fol °कशित) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> B<sub>2-4</sub> D<sub>1</sub>, 62.6<sup>c</sup> भूतात्मन (fol °त्मा य) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub>, 67.11<sup>d</sup> व्यवलीयन्त (fol व्यव°) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>4</sub> B<sub>1</sub> : Da D<sub>n</sub> D<sub>2-3</sub> : 7 : Cap c, 67.34<sup>d</sup> वातम् (fol वीतम्) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> B<sub>2</sub> : Da D<sub>n</sub> D<sub>2-3</sub> : 7 : T<sub>2</sub> Ca, 92.52<sup>a</sup> तोमरावापाग् (fol °राधापि) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub>, 105.4<sup>c</sup> रथसग (fol °भग्न) with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub> : 1 : D<sub>2</sub> : 3

Equally numerous almost are the cases in which Cd follows the late Northern group of MSS referred to on p xviii above, with a few exceptions either way. The following may suffice by way of illustration.

6. 5 16<sup>a</sup> उपजीवनम् ( for अमिजीवनम् ) with B Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> 5 8 Cc, 5 19<sup>d</sup> लोके न ( for लोकान् ) with K<sub>2</sub> 4 B Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> 5 8, 6 3<sup>c</sup> जगतीस्थानि ( for जगत्स्थितानि ) with K<sub>4</sub> B Da<sub>2</sub> Dn D<sub>1</sub> 4 5 8 T<sub>2</sub> M<sub>1</sub>-3, 6. 9<sup>a</sup> आनुपूर्व्या ( for आनुपूर्व्याद् ) with K<sub>4</sub> B D ( except Da<sub>1</sub> D<sub>2</sub> 8 ), 11 3<sup>d</sup> तिष्यं ( for पुष्य ) with B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> 8-5 8 M<sub>3</sub>-5, 15 4<sup>a</sup> आर्ति ( for आर्ति ) with K<sub>4</sub> B Da<sub>2</sub> Dn D<sub>1</sub> 4-8 G<sub>2</sub> 8 M<sub>5</sub> Cc

More curious are ( i ) the three cases in which Cd shows alliance with the TG group 6 12 36<sup>b</sup> ( दृढका for दण्डिका, with T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub> ), 45 37<sup>a</sup> ( वधून् for कुद, with T G<sub>4</sub> ), and 108 32<sup>d</sup> ( नाहिनी for भारतान् with B<sub>3</sub> T<sub>1</sub> G ), ( ii ) one case each 6 6 3<sup>a</sup> ( पद्मेतानि for पद्मेमनि, with G<sub>1</sub>-8 ) and 6 72 25<sup>c</sup> ( यथागमं for °गत, with M<sub>1</sub> 8-5 ), where Cd shows relationship with the Grantha and the Malayālam versions respectively, and especially ( iii ) the two cases where Cd evinces support of the entire S recension backed by a few N MSS 6. 5 16<sup>a</sup> ( पुरुषा श्रेष्ठा for पुरुष श्रेष्ठ, with K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> 4 5 7 8 T G M<sub>1</sub>-8 8 Cc ), and 6 50 55<sup>a</sup> ( शबला for शवलै, with K<sub>4</sub> B Da<sub>1</sub> Dn D<sub>4</sub> 5 7 8 S ). The last two instances can only mean that the urge for variation which is one of the dominant factors resulting in what we now designate as the S recension, was already in operation in the North some ten centuries ago.

As regards insertions, while Cd bears testimony to the inclusion in the text of 163* and 277* ( both exclusively Northern additions ), it nowhere gives evidence of the acceptance of any exclusively Southern insertion. At the same time, it is worth noting that Cd shows no knowledge of 204*, which is an early Śāradā insertion ( found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0</sub>-3 only ). This, however, is only an argument ca silentio.

As regards stanza sequence, Cd follows the ŚK order in reading 6 15 24-38 after 15 54, and ( with the N MSS generally ) in reading 6 44 29 after 44. 33. Cd does not contain the Kātyāyanīstava ( App I, No 1 found in K<sub>2</sub> 4 B Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> 7 8 ), nor the late Śveta episode ( App I, No 4 given by B<sub>3</sub> 4 Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> 5 M<sub>3</sub>-5 ).

Cd gives in about forty places readings which have not been found in any of the available MSS. In the following cases at any rate, with better support of MSS, the readings could have been acceptable.

6 15. 10° पाप्मात् ( for कौन्तेय ), 16 46<sup>d</sup> समुद्रर्षे ( for समवाय ), 41 61° अद्वैतवचनान् ( hypermetric, for °वाक्यात् ), 44 3° अरिष्टा इव ( for आविष्टा इव ), 44 9° अविनीता ( for अभिनीता ), 67 8° भ्रान्तपत्रा ( for भ्रान्तपत्रा ), 67 37° नागवार- ( for नागराज- ), 72 16° रत्नपट्टै समन्वित ( for °पट्टेन सञ्चितम् ), 79 2<sup>cd</sup> धृत्वा नभमान् ( for हृष्टानभमान् ), 91 56° विकृत ( for विमृष्ट ), 92 68° विघाटिकाभिध्वित्राभि ( विघाटिकाभि, explained as प्रयुक्ताभि ), 110 23° वर्हिणवाहिनाम् ( for °वाजानाम् ), 114 112<sup>b</sup> ज्ञानम् ( for योगम् ), 117. 7° रहिते ( for रहित )

The most noteworthy solitary reading offered by Cd, however, is सूर्यचन्द्रौ ( for चन्द्रसूर्यौ ) in 6 3 29°. The context here is the enumeration of certain ominous phenomena preceding the great Bhārata War, and amongst these is the mention<sup>1</sup> of two eclipses, that of the Moon and of the Sun in one and the same month ( ekamāse ) And we are further told that they took place trayodasīm ( on the thirteenth tithi ) and aparvanī. Since stanza 28 speaks of the no-moon day ( amāvāsyā ) as falling on a trayodasī, it is clear that trayodasīm must refer to the solar eclipse, and aparvanī ( the other predication ) to the lunar, although in the compound candrasūryau the sequence is just the other way<sup>2</sup>. Now when the amāvāsyā falls on a trayodasī, at least one—if not both—the full-moon days preceding and following such a defective fortnight ( ksayapakṣa, technically known as Viśāghasīa ) comes after sixteen tithis. The fortnightly bisection of the month ( ardhamāsaparan, as Yāska names it, Nirvṛta 1 20 ) is in this case uneven ( 13 16 ), and that is what is meant by the predication aparvanī used about the full-moon eclipse. Now, with a ksayapakṣa of thirteen tithis in which a solar eclipse is to take place, there is no possibility of a lunar eclipse happening at the end of the preceding sixteen-tithi fortnight, owing to the very short duration of the Pūṇimā, but a lunar eclipse at the end of the following sixteen-tithi fortnight is within the limits of possibility. If therefore the earlier solar eclipse and the later lunar eclipse are to fall within one month ( ekamāse ), the month must end with the full-moon, as in the reckoning current in Northern India ( as opposed to the amānta reckoning familiar in the South ) Devabodha, the Northerner, would see no difficulty in the reading sūryacandrau, which he found in the MSS<sup>3</sup>. In all our MSS, Northern as well as Southern, the reading is candrasūryau, which, on purely objective considerations, the present editor did not feel himself at liberty to change. But South-Indian readers and copyists<sup>4</sup> would naturally stumble at the sequence sūryacandrau, and make it candrasūryau agreeably to the amānta

<sup>4</sup> It will be remembered that even the copyist of Ś1 was not a Kashmirian—see ante, p. xvi.

reckoning But that would make matters worse, because, as we saw, with a Viśva-ghasīa kṛsnapaḥsa in which a solar eclipse is to take place, a lunar eclipse on the preceding full-moon cannot possibly take place Others have attempted to cut the Gordian knot by altering the reading elamāse, which was believed to be the heart of the trouble. This has been done in several different ways There are the two changes ekapaḥse (K<sub>4</sub> B Da D<sub>5</sub>) and ekatrāhni (T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub> M<sub>3</sub>), which are astronomical monstrosities, as we cannot have the two eclipses in one paḥsa, nor on one and the same day, in spite of Nīlakantha's explanation (on GK stanza 32), which is a counsel of despair The variant devamāse, favoured by the Madras edition, I do not know how to understand exactly. It can mean, according to the lexicographers, eighth month, which will be Kārttika (with Caitra as the first month), it can also denote the Mārgaśīrṣa with which the year once commenced, and which is hence known as the Keśava month (cf BG 10 35) The variant elāhnā hi (Dn D<sub>4</sub> s) has been interpreted by some to signify 'the same tithi', i e, the [śukla]-trayodaśī (the last tithi of the bright fortnight) when the lunar eclipse occurred, and the [kr̥ṣṇa]-trayodaśī (of the same or the next month's dark fortnight) when the solar eclipse also occurred But it is quite impossible that two such Viśva-ghasīa or thirteen-tithi fortnights can occur at such a short interval To understand elāhnā hi to mean the same day of the week is also not very happy, because, in the first place, it is not quite established that the week-days, in the Mahābhārata, had any current names, but supposing that the lunar eclipse of a certain month and the solar eclipse of the paḥsa or month preceding or following it fell on the same week-day (which would be possible on the fifteenth but not on the sixteenth day, which is the case before us), where is the authority to suppose that this circumstance gives it its ominous character? Whatever may have been the actual history of the present reading and its successive variations, the instance should at any rate establish the fact that deliberate changes in the astronomical statements found in the current text of the Epic have been made—whether before Devabodha or after him is immaterial to us—and it would really be futile to attempt by ingenious interpretations to harmonize all the conflicting astronomical statements found in the different parts of the Mahābhārata, pending, as a primary requirement, the fixation of the text of the concerned passages

Complete MSS of Catubhujā's commentary on the entire Mahābhārata are no longer extant MSS of his commentary on the Āraṇyaka, Vṛāta (published by the Gujarati Printing Press, Bombay, 1915), and Dīpa pavans have been reported Catubhujā's commentary on the Bhīṣmaparvan used for the present edition is a solitary MS, bearing No 13036 of the Baroda Oriental Institute's Library It is written on old country paper, size 11 $\frac{3}{4}$ " × 4", slightly frayed at the lower right-hand corner. Folios 42, with 10 lines to a page, and 48 letters to a line Written in Devanāgarī characters, not very correct. It gives the commentary on the Bhagavadgītā only up to stanza 57 of chapter 2, and remarks — अतः परं ग्रन्थमावाप्तं लिखितानि । The commentary is again resumed at 6.41.3, and goes on to the end of the parvan (fol 40a, line 1). After this point, there are, in the same handwriting, five pages of what purports to be देव(को)नोषस्य गीताटीका, but its authenticity is uncertain<sup>1</sup>. The commentary begins

श्रीगणेशाय नमः ।

यो मृन्दावनगोचरो दनुभुवा मृन्दानि नीत्वा क्षय

The commentary on the Bhagavadgītā begins (fol 16a)

The colophon at the end of the commentary on the parvan runs — इति चतुर्भुजमिश्रविरचितायां सीम्पपर्वटीका समाप्ता । The MS is undated, and looks not more than 150 or 200 years old. The date of Caturbhuja lies between A. D. 1275-1350<sup>2</sup>.

Amongst the insertions noticeable in Cc, the following belong to the Northern recension in general 163*, 227*, 229* (not in D<sub>2</sub>), 275*, 277*, 279*, 476*. It shows no insertion that can be said to be peculiar to the Kashmirian version as such, while most of its insertions are common to the late Northern group of MSS, for example, 10* (with K<sub>2</sub> & B Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> s 7 s Ca), 11* (with K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> s 7 s Ca), 12* (with K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> s s), 84* (with K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>4</sub> 7 s), 142* (with K<sub>4</sub> B<sub>1</sub> 2 & Da<sub>2</sub> Dn D<sub>1</sub> s-s 7 s). With the Southern group of MSS, Cc shows 26* (found in T G M<sub>2</sub> 4), 60* (found in B<sub>2</sub>-4 Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> s-s 7 s S) and 64* (found in K<sub>3</sub>-s B D S). Of these instances, however, the last two have not much probative value. Cc does not give the Kātyāyanīstava, nor the Śveta episode. It does not follow the S tradition in reading chapter 41 before the Bhagavadgītā. It also does not align itself with the 14 out of

As to readings peculiar to Cc, at least a couple of hundred instances are citable, of which the following may serve as samples

6 1 4° अनुगसतो ( fo1 आगं° ) and 12° नियोजयामास ( fo1 योज° ), both hypermetric, 3 13<sup>a</sup> श्रवणेन ( for श्रवणे च ), 33<sup>b</sup> मारुताहत ( fo1 भानुराहत ); 4 7<sup>a</sup> [अ]विनाशाय ( for विनाशाय ), 31<sup>a</sup> सस्कृत्य ( fo1 समृत्य ), 7 46<sup>a</sup> दिव्यसकागा ( fo1 °सकल्या ), 13 13<sup>a</sup> वर्षेलवका ( for °पुञ्जका ), 36<sup>b</sup> विवर्षद्विर् ( fo1 वर्षेवद्विर् ), 15 2° देवतुल्येन ( for °कल्पेन ), 30<sup>a</sup> यतव्रतात् ( °व्रता ), 16 4<sup>a</sup> निकृतिप्रज्ञै ( fo1 निकृति° ), 28° सर्वतो ( fo1 व्यतिष्ठन ), 21 6° विपन्नम् ( fo1 विपण्णम् ), 24 17<sup>a</sup> अविनाश ( fo1 अविनाशि ), 45° निर्वद्ध ( for निर्द्धो ), 51° जन्मबन्धननिर्मुक्ता, 55<sup>b</sup> मनोहरान् ( for °गतान् ), 41 102<sup>b</sup> स्तुतिसम्भा ( fo1 °सहिता ), 44 4<sup>a</sup> युगेषु ( fo1 युगानि ), 46 16<sup>a</sup> कृत्वा अल ( with hiatus, fo1 कृत्वा हित ), 48 49<sup>a</sup> गुणातरे ( fo1 स्तनान्तरे ), 50 78<sup>a</sup> सुश्रु[न्]तु ( fo1 सर्वश ), 16<sup>b</sup> दातापीडप्रकर्षण, 116° सनयम् ( for सनतिम् ), 61 50<sup>a</sup> सत्त्वविभावन ( fo1 भूत° ), 67 25<sup>a</sup> ताड्यताम् ( fo1 तुद्यताम् ), 70 1<sup>b</sup> वार्ष्णेयो ( fo1 साल्यकिर् ), 72 6° क्षेपणेषु ( fo1 °णीषु ), 14° पक्षिसदृशै ( fo1 पक्षसंकाशै ), 14<sup>a</sup> रत्नपट्टै सुसंचितम्, 73 27<sup>cd</sup> मयि चैकाग्र्यगते तुल्यार्थमिनिवेशिनि, 79 38<sup>a</sup> सा अकीर्यत ( with hiatus, fo1 सा व्य° ), 80 43<sup>a</sup> साधयाश्चान् ( fo1 चोदया° ), 92 11° स्त्रीत्वायितु ( fo1 स्त्रीवयितु ), 45<sup>b</sup> सुसंस्थितै ( for सुसंशितै ), 63<sup>a</sup> सत्तावद्धै ( fo1 सस्तजिह्वै ), 65<sup>a</sup> कृतहस्तैश् ( for सस्त° ), 93 2<sup>b</sup> विवर्धितम् ( for विवक्षितम् ), 21<sup>a</sup> मल्लीपुष्पनिकाजेन ( Ccp तंही° ), 112 3<sup>b</sup> Ccp सुताम् ( fo1 स्वसाम् ), 79<sup>b</sup> कालोद्दीप्तेन ( for क्रोध-दी° ), 110° [अ]पार्थ ( fo1 पार्थ )<sup>2</sup>, 114. 2<sup>b</sup> तक्षुभि ( fo1 पट्टिभै )

Where, as against the accepted reading, Cc gives a variant, in the large majority of cases, it sides with the late Northern group of MSS with sporadic exceptions either way. These, it is unnecessary to quote here. Cc follows the older Kashmirian group of MSS in the following cases worth enumerating

6 6 16 शेष ( fo1 एष, with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> B Da<sub>2</sub> Dn D<sub>1</sub> 4 5 8 ), 24 26<sup>a</sup> अथ चैन ( fo1 अथ चैन, with Ś<sub>1-2</sub> 4 m 5 6 K<sub>6</sub> M<sub>1</sub> 3 Cā b k ), 54<sup>a</sup> व्रजेत् ( for व्रजेत, with Ś<sub>1-4</sub> 6 K<sub>6</sub> Cā ), 49 23° वसन्ते पुष्पस[श]वलौ ( with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-5</sub> BD ), 59 14<sup>a</sup> पदातय ( for पदातिन, with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-4</sub> Da D<sub>6</sub> 6 ), 65. 14<sup>a</sup> व्यूह ( fo1 व्यूढ, with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-2</sub> Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>1</sub> 4 7 8 T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub> M<sub>1</sub> ), 67 11<sup>a</sup> व्यालीयन्त ( for व्यव°, with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>4</sub> B<sub>1</sub> 2 Da Dn D<sub>3-5</sub> 7 8 Cap d ), 72 7<sup>b</sup> व्यायामे च ( for व्यायामेषु, with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-5</sub> B Da<sub>2</sub> D<sub>1</sub> 2 5 7 ), 112 20° वासिता- ( for वागिता-, with Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>2</sub> 4 B D [D<sub>2</sub> om ] )

In the following quotable cases, it shows relationship with some Southern MSS

6 2 33<sup>b</sup> स्तनित ( for °त, with B Dn D<sub>2</sub> 8 G<sub>1</sub> 2 M<sub>5</sub> ), 4 33° अपि पञ्चशत ( for पञ्चाशदपि, with D<sub>1</sub> 7 T<sub>1</sub> GM ), 6 16<sup>a</sup> परिवारित ( for °वृहित, with B Da Dn D<sub>3-5</sub> 7 8 )

Finally it is worth noting that in the few cases where Cc mentions variant readings, the variants are not found in any one particular group of MSS. A few cases in point are

Cv

An almost complete MS of Vādirāja's commentary on the Mahābhārata is available in the Mysore Oriental Library, besides parts of the commentary on stray parvans in several libraries of South India. For this edition, we were able to use a Devanāgarī copy of the Mysore MS, bearing Library No c 1577 and dated Śaka 1597 (A. D. 1675). The original MS is written on paper in Devanāgarī characters. Its total extent is folios 2-104, 151-445. The Bhīṣmaparvan covers folios 151-188, with 8 lines to a page, and 44 letters to a line. The post-colophon data at the end of the last Book, which gives the date, runs as follows

आके सप्तनवेपुभूपरिमिते क्वम्भिते सूर्यगे
 राक्षान्दे च तथा च मासि श्रवणगे तिथ्या जया एव च ।
 तद्दिनेषु च येन च ग्रन्थलिखित सपूर्णमेव यथा
 यशोराशिगुणो हि मुदलमुतो गोविन्दरायाभिध ॥

Vādirāja alias Kavīndratīrtha was eighth in the succession-list of the High-priests of the Mādhva sect, and died Śaka 1261 (A. D. 1339)

Cv gives the following insertions 115* (found in D<sub>6</sub>), and 498* (common to S). Both are characteristic additions. In the Bhagavadgītā, it gives 108*, along with various MSS of all groups

There are very few readings found in Cv which can be regarded as peculiar to it, and in many cases they are due to corruption or scribal error

6 1 32<sup>a</sup> ससूक्तेषु न धूर्येषु ( for न सूक्तेषु न धूर्येषु ), 2 19<sup>a</sup> खेटा हाहेति ( fo1 खटाखटेति ), 21<sup>a</sup> शिखात्रिवर्णा परिषा ( fo1 त्रिवर्णा परिषा संघौ ), 3 14<sup>a</sup> समाहृत्य ( for समारुह्य ), 14<sup>a</sup> समानम्य ( for परि° ), 16<sup>a</sup> चित्रास्वात्युत्तरे ( for °त्यन्तरे ), 36<sup>a</sup> वेलाभूर्धमयति स्म ( sic ), 4 12<sup>a</sup> अतिग्रह ( fo1 न कल्मष ), 6 16<sup>a</sup> द्विरंश ( for °शे ), 8 21<sup>ab</sup> सहस्राशशतानि ( for सहस्र च श° ), 27<sup>b</sup> °गण्डका ( fo1 °गण्डिका, fo1 gloss, see C11t App ), 15 10<sup>a</sup> अत्यन्य पुरुषव्याघ्र, 48<sup>b</sup> शशु-

17<sup>a</sup> सैषा वाह ( fo1 यासौ प्राह ), 106 31<sup>a</sup> ततो दुर्योधनो राजन् ( fo1 ततोऽर्जुनो जातमन्युर, given

परिपच्छाम्यता ( fo1 परिखा सन्यताम् )

Where Cv differs from the accepted text, it gives variants which, in the following cases, agree with the primary Kashmirian group of MSS

6 13. 41<sup>a</sup> सहस्राणि ( fo1 शतान्यस्य, with Ś1 K0 1 3 5 D1-3 7 ), 44 32<sup>b</sup> व्याघ्रचर्ममयैरपि

Ś1 K4 M2 )

In the following cases, the agreement is with the secondary Kashmirian group

6 1 7<sup>b</sup> वृद्धवालावशेषिता ( fo1 बालवृद्धाव°, with K0 2 D1 3 7 ); 2 29<sup>a</sup> गृहीतशस्त्रावरणाः
( fo1 °भरणा, with K0 1 3. 5 D1-3 7 ), 3 14<sup>a</sup> पूर्वं ( for पूर्वे, with K1 D4 3 ), 4 2<sup>b</sup>
रूपवादी ( fo1 काल°, with K3 5 D1-3 7 ), and महायशा ( fo1 °तपा, with K3 5 D2 ), 5 18<sup>a</sup>
येषां ( fo1 एषां, with K3 D3 T2 ), 14 4<sup>a</sup> सर्वसैन्यानां ( fo1 °योधाना, with K3 5 D2 6 ), 17 21<sup>a</sup> तस्मिन् ( for यत्, with K3 5 D2 ), 55 119<sup>a</sup> निहतेन्द्रजाला ( fo1 °कीला, with K0 1 Dn2 D4 7 S ), 70 12<sup>a</sup> धूमकेतु ( fo1 धूप°, with Ś1 K0 ), 83 10<sup>b</sup> त्रैगर्त ( fo1 त्रि°, with K0-3 Dn2 D4 7. 3 ), 114 36<sup>a</sup> अस्य ( for तस्य, with K3-5 B D [ except D1 ] S ), 115 26<sup>a</sup> समन्तात्पर्यवारयन् ( fo1 अवहारमकारयन्, with K3-5 B Dn2 D2 4 7 8 S ), 54<sup>a</sup> एतैरेव
( fo1 एतैरेव, with K3-5 B Da Dn D2-3 S ).

In the remaining about ten or twelve cases, the agreement is with the late Northern group of MSS, or with sporadic N MSS

In hardly ten cases does Cv exhibit definite relationship with exclusively Southern MSS. The cases are

6 1 7<sup>a</sup> अन्येव (for अन्येव, with M<sub>2</sub>), 7<sup>c</sup> निरस्तपुरुषा (for निरस्त<sup>o</sup>, with T<sub>2</sub>), 3 28<sup>b</sup> भूतपूर्वां तु (for भूतपूर्वां च, with T<sub>2</sub>), 19 30<sup>c</sup> कूरा (for कूरा, with M<sub>1</sub> s s), 41 61<sup>c</sup> पुरुषात् (for पुरुषात्, with M<sub>2</sub>), 114 88<sup>c</sup> कालकर्ता (for काल कर्ता, with TG), 102<sup>b</sup> अमद्यमे (for अमद्यमे, with M<sub>4</sub> s), 117 34<sup>b</sup> प्रणम्य (for प्रसाद्य, with T<sub>1</sub> G)

When it is remembered that Vādnāja was intimately connected with the Mādhva sect which largely prevails in the South, the relative immunity of his text from Southern variations becomes noteworthy. This holds good also of the insertions found in Cv with the solitary exception of 498<sup>a</sup>.

Ca

Complete MSS of Ajunamisra's commentary on the entire Mahābhārata are no longer met with, although Rājendralāla Mittra, in his Notices, vol V, App p viii, records having come across one such at the village of Gudāp (District Burdwan). MSS of the commentary for parvans 14, 16-18, as also for occasional passages of the Rājadharmā and the Āpaddharma sections of the Śāntiparvan, have not yet been found in any of the collections of MSS of which lists are available. For the Bhīmaparvan, we were able to use two MSS, Da<sub>1</sub> and Da<sub>2</sub>, already described in the Critical Apparatus (above, pp xxxiii-xxxv)<sup>1</sup>

Cn

As this commentary is readily available in print, and is the latest of them, it was not thought necessary to go into any critical details about the commentary proper beyond the data supplied in connection with MSS Dn<sub>1</sub> and Dn<sub>2</sub> already described on pp xxxv-xxxvi above. Incidentally, it is worth noting, however, that Ganapati Krishnaji's edition of 1863 cannot be said faithfully to present the text underlying Nilakantha's commentary in every detail, and not all the Cn MSS agree amongst themselves. This holds true also in the case of the added passages. For instance, GK inserts 36<sup>a</sup> (found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>o-s</sub> M<sub>5</sub>), 141<sup>a</sup> (found in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>o-s</sub> s Da<sub>2</sub> D<sub>2</sub> 4-6), and 244<sup>a</sup> (six lines, found in Da D<sub>2</sub>). None of them are found in Dn.

(1) Commentaries B—On the Bhagavadgītā

Of the five commentaries used for the entire parvan, two, Ca and Cd, do not contain the commentary on the Bhagavadgītā portion of the parvan (chapters 22-40), while one, Cc, gives it for its first two chapters only. The remaining commentaries used for the BG fall into three groups (1) Cś (with its sub-commentary Cu), which <sup>1</sup> It has, however, happened that insertions etc., found in the text of Da<sub>1</sub> and Da<sub>2</sub>, are often ignored in the commentary proper.

preserves, in the main, the current Śāṃkara version of the BG, and which ( with the exceptions indicated below ) has been adopted in the Critical Edition, also Cn more or less allied to Cs ( 2 ) C1, Cm and Cv, which present a text differing only slightly from Cs, and ( 3 ) Cā, Cb, Cg, and Ck, which give what is known as the Kashmirian version of the Poem

Cś

Śāṃkara's Bhāṣya on the Bhagavadgītā has been several times printed. The Ānandāśrama edition of 1909 ( which is followed in the Crit App ) and the Mysore edition of 1895 are based upon an actual comparison of MSS. The others are mostly reprints.

Cś tells us, in so many words, that the Bhagavadgītā consists of just 700 stanzas<sup>1</sup>, and by stanzas Śāṃkara means just stanzas, and not a collection of 32 syllables. Of the 700 stanzas, Śāṃkara leaves the 47 stanzas of chapter 1 and the first 10 of chapter 2 without any comment, but for all the others he offers a word-for-word exposition, which enables us to determine exactly what the text before him was. As Śāṃkara's date generally accepted is A. D. 788-820, his testimony for the text of the BG is earlier than that of the any other MS. or commentator. In the case of the Bhāṣya on the Sanatsyātāparvan ( Udyoga 42-45 ), commonly attributed to Śāṃkara, Dr. S. K. De, the editor of the Udyoga, found<sup>2</sup> that Śāṃkara's text of the Sanatsyāta generally follows the TG version, and that that text very often differed from the one given by the agreement of ŚK with M, supported by B, which the Critical Edition uniformly adopts. Now, in the first place, the attribution of the Sanatsyātābhāṣya to the authorship of Ācārya Śāṃkara is not beyond cavil, and, what is more to the point, T, G, M, B, and practically all versions except ŚK and a few composite MSS. of the D group have, in the main, accepted ( what was not the case in the Sanatsyāta ) the Śāṃkara text of the BG.

As far as the text of the Bhagavadgītā is concerned, we have, therefore, in the evaluation of the Śāradā and Kashmirian text-tradition, to reverse our judgment and procedure ( which were found to hold true not only in the parvas of the Mahābhārata so far critically dealt with, but also in the case of the Bhīṣmaparvan itself outside the Bhagavadgītā chapters ), and treat the textual variants in the ŚK sources as late and secondary. As this involves an apparent departure from the principles of text-constitution hitherto adopted in the Critical Edition, a detailed discussion of the problem is called for, and it will be given in connection with our treatment of the Kashmirian testimonia.

The Bhagavadgītā text adopted in the Critical Edition differs from that of Śāṃkara in the following places

The Bhāṣyothaṇṣadīpikā of Dhanapati is printed in the Nirṇaya Sagar ed. (Bombay, 1936<sup>2</sup>) of the BG with Eight Commentaries, also in the Gujarati Press ed. (Bombay, 1912) with Eight Commentaries, and elsewhere. It is a sub-commentary on Śamkara's Bhāṣya, and the raison d'être for it is seen from the following

It is not necessary to add much here about Nilakantha's comment on the BG. I have mentioned what is stated under Dn<sub>1</sub> and Dn<sub>2</sub>, as well as on p LXXI above. In his explanations, Nilakantha differs from Śamkara in a number of passages in the Bhagavadgītā

Where he reads the text itself differently from Śamkara can be seen from the following variants which he shows as against the Crit. Ed

Next we have (2) the group of Theist commentators Rāmānuja, the most authoritative exponent of the Viśiṣṭādvaita School of the Vedānta philosophy who flourished in the 11th century A. D., keenly disputes Śamkara's interpretation of the Bhagavadgītā in quite a number of places. We have accepted as reliable the text of Rāmānuja's commentary as given in the Gujarati Printing Press ed ( Bombay, 1938<sup>2</sup> ), where is also to be found Vedāntadeśika Venkatanātha's sub-commentary on the same called the Tātparyacandrikā, which materially supplements Rāmānuja's Bhāṣya. Madhva, the founder of the Dvaita School of Vedānta who is generally assigned to the 13th century A. D., gives a brief commentary on the Bhagavadgītā, which is elaborated by Jayatīrtha in his sub-commentary called the Prameyadīpikā. Both these are to be found in the Gujarati Printing Press ed mentioned above. Madhva also has written a more elaborate dissertation named the Gītātātparyanirṇaya (Kumbhakonam, 1910), somewhat on the lines of his Mahābhārata-tātparyanirṇaya. On crucial passages, Madhva offers an interpretation differing from that given by most of his predecessors. As to the text commented upon by Madhva, it differs from that of the Crit Ed in the following places

Vallabha who belongs to the 15th and the early part of the 16th century is the great exponent of the Śuddhādvaita School. He has summarized the BG teaching in about a hundred stanzas known as the Śāstrārthapraśaṅga. The present Tattvadīpikā commentary comes from a 17th century descendant and a namesake of the great Ācārya. The Tattvadīpikā quotes, at the beginning of each adhyāya, stanzas which may belong to the Ācārya himself. Puruṣottama's sub-commentary is a valuable aid to the understanding of the Bhagavadgītā, both being included in the Gujarati Printing Press ed mentioned above. Vallabha's text of the Bhagavadgītā differs from that of the Crit Ed in the following places

Ānanda[vardhana]'s comm called the Jñānakarmasamuccaya as found in a solitary manuscript belonging to the Bombay Govt Collection (deposited at the BORI), No 179 of 1883-84 For details see Ś<sub>3</sub> above

Cb

Bhāskara's comm called Bhagavadāśayānusarana, as found in a fragmentary MS in the possession of Dr T R Chintamani of Madras, who has given some details and extracts on pp xxviii-xxxii of the Introduction to his edition ( Madras 1941 ) of the Bhagavadgītā with the Sarvatobhadra comm of Rājānaka Rāmakantha The first folio of the Cb MS is wanting, and the MS breaks off abruptly in the middle of the seventh adhyāya Even in the preserved portion, the MS is apparently full of lacunæ For instance, we should have liked to have Bhāskara's comm on BG 6 7<sup>b</sup> to verify Jayatīrtha's remark about Bhāskara's deliberate alteration of the original BG reading परमात्मा समाहित into परात्मसु समा मति But the comm is tantalizingly wanting on BG 6 2 to 6 27 Bhāskara's variants are reported in our Critical Apparatus on the authority of T R Chintamani

Abhinavagupta's comm called the Bhagavadgītārthasamgraha was included amongst the eight commentaries published in the Nirṇaya Saṁgraha ed of 1912 ( second edition, 1936 ), and it has also been published in Kashmir by Pandit Lakshman Raina ( 1933 ) on the basis of a Śāradā MS For details see under Ś<sub>3</sub> above

Rājānaka Rāmakantha's comm called the Sarvatobhadra has been made available in three printed editions published within short distance of one another the Ānandāshrama edition by S N Tadpatīkar of the Mahābhārata Department of the BORI (1939), T R Chintamani's edition for the Madras University (1941) already mentioned above, and Pandit Madhusūdan Kaul's edition (1943) in the Kashmir Series, No LXIV For our Critical Apparatus, we could also utilise MSS Ś<sub>4</sub> and Ś<sub>5</sub> described above

THE KASHMIR RECENSION OF THE BG

These Kashmirian commentators generally agree with the Śāradā and the Kashmirian group of MSS, with occasional support from mixed codices like D, in giving—so far as the Bhagavadgītā portion of the Bhīṣmaparvan is concerned—variant readings and extra stanzas which, not having, as a rule, the support of non-Kashmirian sources, are not included in our constituted text, but are relegated to the Critical Notes below. F. Otto Schrader, however, in The Kashmir Recension of the Bhagavadgītā (Stuttgart, 1930), puts forth the view that these Kashmirian sources, with their “fourteen additional stanzas and four half-stanzas unknown to the Vulgate, as well as the 282 exclusively Kashmirian varietas lectionis” preserve a more authentic, and even intrinsically superior text of the BG, which, he claims, was pre-Śāṅkara. I have dealt with this view in detail elsewhere<sup>1</sup>, so that here, only a short statement, enough to prove the secondary character of the large majority of the Kashmirian readings should suffice. In this connection the following points merit consideration.

(1) The Kashmirian variants (with a sporadic exception or two<sup>2</sup>) seek to remedy and regularize the grammatical defects of the current (or Śāṅkara) text

- 2 50<sup>a</sup> — जहातीमे उमे for जहातीह उमे (to avoid irregular hiatus)
- 2 60<sup>a</sup> — यत् तस्यापि हि for यततो ह्यपि, also † 7 29<sup>b</sup> — भजन्ति for यतन्ति, † 9 14<sup>b</sup> — यतमाना or यजन्तश्च for यतन्तश्च (to avoid the use of √ यत् in Parasmaipada)
- 3 23<sup>a</sup> — वर्तेय for वर्तेयम्, also 15 4<sup>b</sup> — गतो न निवर्तेत for गता न निवर्तन्ति (to avoid Parasm. use of √ घृत्).
- 5 1<sup>ca</sup> — यः श्रेयानेतयोरेकस्त for यच्छ्रेय एतयोरेक तन् — The predicate श्रेय can influence the gender of the pronominal subject which immediately precedes it. The masc. यः as referring to सन्यास and योग (both masc.) would be more regular
- † 6 39<sup>a</sup> — एत मे सशयम् for एतन्मे सशयम् — The masc. एत to agree with the masc. सशयम् would be more regular. The neuter एतत् is used adverbially as in 18 75<sup>b</sup>. The word इदम् is similarly used in the Kashmir reading in † 9 8<sup>c</sup>, and in the current reading in 16 13<sup>b</sup>.
- 7, 18<sup>b</sup> — मत for मतम् — The masc. मतः would directly agree with हानी, the neuter मतम् would require the supplying, after एव, of the finite verb अस्ति followed by इति. The emendation was suggested by Schlegel, but several non-Kashmirian MSS already give it.
- † 9 31<sup>c</sup> — प्रतिजानेद् for प्रतिजानीहि (to give the more usual sense of ‘promise’ to √ ज्ञा with प्रति)

<sup>2</sup> The few exceptions are 6 16<sup>a,d</sup> अत्यश्रत and नातिजागरत, the first of which is discountenanced by the regular अनश्रत in 16<sup>b</sup>, and the second by जाग्रति in 2 69<sup>c</sup>, as also 18 61<sup>b</sup>, where वसतेर्जुन (for अर्जुन-तिष्ठति) uses √ वृश् in the unusual Ātmanepada.

† The v l has not the unanimous support of Kashmirian sources

- † 10 9<sup>2</sup> — रमयन्ति च for च रमन्ति च ( to avoid the unusual Parasm use of √ रम् )
- † 11 41<sup>b</sup> — हे सखे च for हे सखेति ( to avoid the use of the wrong voc. form सख for सखे, or, alternatively, to avoid the double samdhā सखे+इति = सख + इति = सखेति )
- † 14 23<sup>1</sup> — यो ऋत्तिष्ठति for योऽवतिष्ठति ( to avoid the Parasm use of √ ऋ with अव )
- 16 2<sup>c</sup> — अलौक्य च for अलोलुप्य ( to avoid the irregular अलोलुप्य in place of the regular अलोलुप्य )
- 16 13<sup>b</sup> — इमं प्राप्स्ये मनोरथम् for इदं प्राप्स्ये मनोरथम् — The masc pronoun इमं can go better with the masc noun मनोरथम्, इदं can only be understood adverbially The reading मनोगतम्, which is quite good, is unfortunately very weakly supported
- ( 11 ) The Kashmirian variants seek to simplify and normalize the syntax
- 1 7<sup>c</sup> — नायकान् for नायका — Placed between two accusatives, नायकान् would be a smooth construction The nom नायका will have to be understood as constituting a parenthetical clause
- 5 21<sup>b</sup> — यं सुखम् for यत् सुखम् — The masc. यं to agree with the following स would be an easy change, which is made by several non-Kashmirian MSS also With the current reading the fully-expanded sentence would read [ यं ] असक्तात्मा यत् आत्मनि सुखं [ अस्ति तत् ] विन्दति, स सुखमश्नुते This roundabout construction has the advantage of focussing attention on the particular kind of sukha that the BG wants to emphasize.
- 6 13<sup>c</sup> — मपश्यन् for मप्रेक्ष्य — The Kash. reading is evidently due to the desire to give a pres part to match with the other two pres part, धारयन् and अनवलोकयन्
- 6 19<sup>1</sup> — योगमात्मनि for योगमात्मन — The locative case would be more suited to denote the object of Yogic concentration than the current genitive
- 6 21<sup>a</sup> — सुखमात्यन्तिकं यत्र for सुखमात्यन्तिकं यत्तद् — The arguments in 5 21<sup>b</sup> also apply to this case
- 8 17<sup>b</sup> — अहर्षे ब्रह्मणो विदुः for अहर्षद्विषणो विदुः — Attention is sought to be directed to the special length of the day of Brahṃā, and for that purpose the roundabout construction would be better suited. Cf. the preceding two cases ( 5 21<sup>b</sup>, 6 21<sup>a</sup> )
- † 9 11<sup>2</sup> — ममाव्ययमनुत्तमम् for मम भूतमहेश्वरम् — The acc. भूतमहेश्वरम् in the current version agrees with मम in 11<sup>a</sup>, and so involves a दूरान्वय, which the Kashmirian reading seeks to avoid With the Kash. reading as the orig, nobody would think of changing it into भूतमहेश्वरम्
- † 10 16<sup>b</sup> and 10 19<sup>1</sup> — विभूतीरात्मन शुभा for दिव्या आत्मविभूतयः — The acc. in the Kash version is what one naturally expects after वक्तु and कथयिष्यामि The current reading can be justified either by taking विभूतयः as an archaic acc. form, or, better still, by taking the pāda as a parenthetical clause The word आत्मविभूतयः need not necessarily have been तव विभूतयः, because आत्म- can be understood to mean आत्मभूतः, and the expression आत्मविभूतयः has an evident allusion to the word आत्मन् in the preceding stanza A syntactically questionable clause may be later changed into one syntactically correct, and not vice versa
- † 10 28<sup>c</sup> — प्रजनन्यासि for प्रजनन्यासि — The Kash. reading evidently wants to supply a genitive case to go with the Vibhūti, just as a Malayālam MS supplies the locative प्रजनेष्वपि

† The v l has not the unanimous support of Kashmirian sources

11 44<sup>2</sup> — प्रिय प्रियस्यार्हसि for प्रिय प्रियायार्हसि — The current reading can be explained as a double sandhi ( प्रियायै = प्रियाया + अर्हसि, or प्रियाया = प्रियाया + अर्हनि ), or as due to the use of the dative प्रियाय for the genitive प्रियस्य. The use of the dative for the genitive, as also the double sandhi, are both common Epic features. The Kash reading is evidently a lectio facilior.

18 8<sup>a</sup> — य कर्म for यत् कर्म — It is not that the orig य was changed into यत् by case-attraction for the neut. noun कर्म, but rather, that the orig यत् was changed into य to agree with the following म् in pāda 8<sup>c</sup>. Compare the analogous case of यत् in 18 9<sup>a</sup>.

† 18 50<sup>a</sup> — सिद्धिं प्राप्नो यथा ब्रह्म प्राप्नोति तन्निबोध मे for सिद्धिं प्राप्नो यथा ब्रह्म तयाप्नोति निबोध मे — As to the current reading, Schrader observes “The position of tathā (belonging to nbodha me) in the Śloka is simply impossible. The author of the Gītā was not so bad a poet as to be credited with such a monstrosity”. The syntax in the current reading is no doubt difficult, but that is just the reason why we should not be too eager to simplify it. The Kash sources are themselves divided, some proposing नदाप्नोति निबोध मे, others प्राप्नोति तन्निबोध मे. It is, however, possible to construe the current reading thus यथा (= यत् ) [ अय ], या [ सिद्धि ] समासेन धानस्य परा निष्ठा, [ तादृशी ] सिद्धिं प्राप्न, तथा (= तस्मादवश्यमेव ) [ स ] ब्रह्म आप्नोति । निबोध मे

(iii) The Kashmirian variants generally tend to smoothen (not always successfully) the difficulties in interpretation that have proved troublesome. A few examples follow

1 33<sup>b</sup> — प्राणास्त्यक्त्वा सुदुस्त्यजान् for प्राणास्त्यक्त्वा धनानि च — The motive underlying the Kash reading is evidently to avoid the bathos involved in mentioning ‘riches’ after ‘life’. But the orig sense of धन (cf धनजय) is ‘anything at stake’, and there can be things at stake more prized than life itself. Probably, however, the Kashmirian variant is reminiscent of pādas like 5 162 33<sup>1</sup>, 182 3<sup>d</sup>, etc

2 43<sup>b</sup> — जन्मकर्मफलैस्त्व for जन्मकर्मफलप्रदान् — The construction in the traditional text is somewhat peculiar. The accusative bhogasvar yagatim (with the two qualifying adjectives preceding it), being governed by the preposition prati (= referring to), serves to specify the contents of the ‘flowery speech’, which expatiates upon (prati) the attainment of enjoyments and potences (bhogasvar yagatim) that is capable of amplification by specific rituals (krīyāvisāsabakulām), and that leads on towards different births and [ other ] ensuants of karman (janmakarmaphalapradaṁ)

2 61<sup>1</sup> — तत्पर for मत्पर — The change seems to have been designed to avoid the sudden introduction of the equation Kṛṣṇa = The Highest God, which can be in place only after Arjuna’s question in 4 4 has been put and answered. If तत्पर is to imply an object of meditation, it has been already mentioned in 2 17, and can be referred to here. This seems to be the line of thought underlying the Kash reading, which, however, ignores the fact that Kṛṣṇa intends the exposition in chap. two as his final word, and, as such, it ought to have found room in it, however succinctly, for the principle of personal Godward devotion, which plays such an important role in the Bhagavadgītā teaching

6 7<sup>b</sup> — परमात्मसु समा ( v l परमात्मसमा ) मति for परमात्मा समाहित — In this connection the remarks of Jayatīrtha are worth citing. He observes (Guj Press ed., I, p 539) अत्र भास्करोऽन्वयमपश्यन्

† The v l has not the unanimous support of Kashmirian sources

‘परमात्मा समाहित’ इति संप्रदायागत पाठ विचित्र्य ‘परात्मसु समा मति’ इति पाठान्तर प्रकल्प्य, ‘समा मति’ इति तु आवर्त्य [ शीतोष्णसुखदुःखेति ] सप्तम्या अन्ययमुक्त्वा, पूर्वपाठेऽन्वयाभाव इत्यवादीत् It is unknown what authority Jayatīrtha had for making the above statement. Bhāskara, we know, is an early Gītā commentator quoted by Abhinavagupta with respect. The recently discovered fragmentary MS of Bhāskara’s commentary, unfortunately, breaks off just at this stage. It is unquestioned that Bhāskara’s emendation considerably improves the sense. In the current text, परम् is to be separated from आत्मा, and taken to qualify समाहित<sup>1</sup>

† 6 28<sup>d</sup> — ब्रह्मयोगमत्यन्तमधिगच्छति for ब्रह्ममस्पर्शमत्यन्त सुखमश्नुते — In its attempt to avoid the archaic and technical wording of the current text, the Kash. reading ends by making an awkward and almost unphilosophical statement.

13 4<sup>d</sup> — विनिश्चितम् for विनिश्चितै — Apparently, like Böhlingk in modern times, the Kashmirian redactors did not see how the prose Brahmasūtras could sing (गीतम्), and so they have given an independent predicate (विनिश्चितम्) to them. It is clear that ऋषिभिः and गीत (= declared) are common to both the statements, and the remaining words form contrasted pairs विविधैः छन्दोभिः versus ब्रह्मसूत्रपदैः, बहुधा versus हेतुमाद्भिः, and पृथक् versus विनिश्चितैः. As to the plural ऋषिभिः, it can well apply to the Brahmasūtras when we take into consideration their pre-Bādarāyana forms<sup>2</sup>

13 16<sup>a</sup> — अविमक्त विमक्तेषु for अविमक्त च भूतेषु — The Kashmirian reading serves to make the contrast apparent, but, to be effective, are we going to expand the next pāda as विमक्तमिव च [ अविमक्तेषु ] स्थितम्? It is doubtful if that can be the real intention. Sense demands that भूतेषु be actually stated as the noun qualified by विमक्तेषु. That the noun is भूतेषु is indicated by the following भूतमर्तुं

† 17 13<sup>a</sup> — अमृष्टान्न for अमृष्टान्न — The word अमृष्ट (✓ मृज्) is explained as पाकादिसत्कारहीन. A Tāmasa sacrifice is, however, marked by no विधि, no मन्त्र, no दक्षिणा, and no ब्रह्म, and not by imperfect विधि, improperly uttered मन्त्र, inadequate दक्षिणा, and halting ब्रह्म. Parity would demand that the अन्न in such a sacrifice be also totally absent, as the current text says. In the Śāradā script मृ and मृ are easily confused.

17 23<sup>c</sup> — ब्रह्मणा तेन for ब्रह्मणास्तेन — Schrader pronounces the current reading ब्रह्मणास् as ‘obviously wrong’. But, surely, the Vedas and the yajñas require, respectively, agents to recite and perform them. In the absence of agents, the texts cannot by themselves complete the round of creation. The agents are actually mentioned in st. 24<sup>d</sup>, and there is no reason why they should not be mentioned here. The demonstrative pronoun तेन can easily be taken to refer to “Brahman” mentioned in the preceding pāda. The word ब्रह्मणा need not have been repeated, and is practically redundant.

<sup>2</sup> Cf. Belvalkar “Multiple authorship of the Vedāntasūtras,” The Indian Philosophical Review, Vol. II pt 2, pp. 141–154.

† The v l has not the unanimous support of Kashmirian sources

(iv) Schiader claims to have made a particularly strong case in favour of the authenticity of the following Kashmirian readings

- 2 5° — न त्वर्थकामस्तु गुरुनिहत्य for हत्वर्थकामास्तु गुरुनिहैव — The current reading अर्थकामान्, we are told, requires us to supply अवि after it, and Arjuna would be more likely to accuse himself of being अर्थकाम than the elders, although, later, they themselves admit (6 41 36, 51, etc.) that they are so. Now, the first is not a very serious objection, seeing that we have to supply such particles quite often for instance, अवि has to be supplied after आततायिन in BG 1 36<sup>cd</sup>. The word artha as predicated of the gurus in the above context (and in the Bhīṣmaparvan passages above mentioned) should more properly denote not wealth or sordid self-interest (which may hold good in the case of Arjuna), but a deliberately chosen life purpose, such as Bhīṣma's guardianship of the Kaurava royalty.
- † 2 11<sup>ab</sup> — अशोच्याननुशोचस्त्व प्राश्वन्नाभिभाषणे for अशोच्यानन्वशोचस्त्व प्राशवादाश्च भाषसे — Schiader argues that Arjuna's words so far have shown no प्राश and do not deserve to be called words of profound wisdom. True but Kṛṣṇa designates them that way ironically, considering irony the most effective method of meeting Arjuna's arrogation of superior wisdom to his own side cf BG 1 38 f. — यद्यप्येते न पश्यन्ति कथं न ज्ञेयमस्माभिः Speyer's objection (ZDMG, 1902, LVI, pp 123–25) to the compound प्राशवाद, also endorsed by Schiader in spite of Bühlingk's rejoinder to Speyer (ibid, p 209), need not be fatal. The commentators explain it as प्राशत्मका वादा or प्राशानिमित्ता वादा, and such explanations are not objectionable. Speyer's and Schrader's prejudice against a Madhyamapadalopī compound is not shared by Indian grammarians <sup>1</sup>
- 2 21<sup>1</sup> — हन्यते हन्ति वा कथम् for क वातयति हन्ति कम् — The Kashmirian reading would seem to have been modelled upon BG. 2 19<sup>1</sup>. The BG endorses the view that the self is अकर्ता or incapable of being an agent except in so far as he is the साक्षिन् or witness. This साक्षित्व is the sine qua non of the Prakṛti's activity, and, in that mediate sense, the self can be possibly called a "causal" or prayojaka agent. Even this "causal" agency is denied by the verb वातयति. For a similar use, cf BG 5 13<sup>2</sup>

The cases above considered are enough to indicate, so far as the Bhagavadgītā portion of the Bhīṣmaparvan is concerned, the secondary nature of the large majority of the Kashmirian variants where they are not endorsed by non-Kashmirian sources. The commentator Jayatītha, apud 6 7<sup>b</sup>, records the ingenious manner in which the scholiast Bhāskara (whom, it seems, even Abhinavagupta has mentioned with reverence<sup>3</sup>) changed the traditional text of a stanza from the BG with a view to get from it a more suitable sense. Where such a "pious" tampering with the original is actually recorded in the case of one noteworthy Kashmirian writer, one would be justified

<sup>1</sup> Barnett's attempt (BSOS, 1931, p. 288) to take prayñāvāda to denote "short-sighted conventional moralists like the Jains and the Buddhists who preach on the text 'thou shalt not slay', without understanding the higher law" does not seem to be particularly convincing

† The v. l. has not the unanimous support of Kashmirian sources

in viewing with suspicion most of the other "Kashmirian" variants in the Bhagavad-gītā portion of the Bhīsmaparvan, which seem to be obviously due to some partisan's over-zeal at simplification

Another characteristic of the "Kashmir version" of the Bhagavadgītā is its extra stanzas according to Schrader, it embodies "fourteen additional stanzas and four half-stanzas unknown to the Vulgate" A few more extra stanzas are also recorded in some non-Kashmirian sources Most of these additions are admittedly repetitions and doctrinally insignificant Schrader's arguments in favour of the authenticity of the five stanzas (= 89*) after 3 37, which, he thinks, re-echo the famous Māra-Buddha conflict, need not be taken very seriously to me at least the echo was hardly audible As to his contention that the extra Tristubh stanza preceding BG 2 11 deserves to be treated as authentic, as it looks like a Tristubh rejoinder to Arjuna's Tristubh queries, the facts unfortunately do not bear him out inasmuch as Arjuna's queries begin with an Anustubh (2 4) and later break into Tristubh, as Kṛṣṇa's rejoinder (without the extra stanza) may be actually seen doing, assuming that the argument on the ground of an involuntary metrical "capping" has to be given any weight at all The fact is that extra verses alleged to belong to BG appeal to the average reader, because there is a relatively late and very widely advertised, but not adequately authenticated, tradition (cf 112*) about the enhanced extent (māna) of the Bhagavadgītā (745 stanzas in place of the 700 mentioned by Śamkara), and fourteen full stanzas and four half-stanzas, it can be conceivably argued, may perchance prove a first step towards the recovery of that ideal and supposedly authentic<sup>1</sup> extent This "Gītāmāna" insertion (112*) is given mostly by Kashmirian sources, the Bengali and the Southern versions show little knowledge of it Secondly, it is somewhat curious that, almost always, the inserted six-pāda stanza relating to the Gītāmāna occurs in association with another stanza (= 114*), rather difficult to interpret, but which presupposes a Sāra or Synopsis of the BG teaching (and Bhārata teaching) being inserted into the Gītā, and, along with the Gītā itself, "poured into the mouth of Arjuna" This is clearly stated in the v l to 114* recorded in an old undated Baroda Or Lib MS (No 11458), where the first line reads —

भारतानृतमर्व्वखगीताया[या] भारतस्य च ।

Other variants of the line, not recorded in the Crit App, are those of the BORI manuscript No 164 of 1883-84

भारतोदधिर्मन्यस्य गीतानिर्मथनस्य च ।,

<sup>1</sup> How the pursuit of this Will-o'-the-Wisp has landed Pandit Kalidas Sastri of Gondal into a veritable morass, I have proved in a paper entitled "A Fake (?) Bhagavadgītā MS" contributed to the Journal of the Ganganath Jha Research Institute, Vol I, pt, I, pp 21-31 and Ekanātha's Text and Transl of the Gītāsāra, Poona (1930)

Curiously enough there are two such "Gītāsāras" The one given in Appendix I (No 3) is found in some of our Mbh MSS The one translated into Marathi by the Mahānāstika saint Ekanātha, and into Persian by the translators of the Mahābhārata under the orders of Emperor Akbar, is different from it, and is more usually named अकार (or प्रणव) माहात्म्य, found by itself in the BORI manuscripts No 563 of 1886-92 and No 164 of 1883-84, the latter of which is written in Śāradā characters and is accompanied by a learned Sanskrit commentary The two Gītāsāras, though different works, contain several stanzas in common, especially the traditional "Gītāprasaṣti" verses (113*) The Gītāsāra underlying the Persian translation appears to have been a much shorter work than the अकारमाहात्म्य of our MSS On the ground that the Gītā commentators like Keśava Kāśmīn, while expressly mentioning 745 stanzas as the extent of the Bhagavadgītā, do yet give a text of the Gītā proper containing only 700 stanzas, it is possible to argue that the enhanced extent is the extent of the "Bhagavadgītā plus the Gītāsāra" The detailed distribution of the combined extent amongst the individual speakers that figure in the BG (Kisna 620 + Arjuna 57 + Samjaya 67 + Dhrtarāṣṭra 1 = 745) can also be made to agree very approximately with the actual extent of the Gītā + Gītāsāra On no other theory thus far advanced has this been possible There remains at the end of our operation a small inevitable error of just two extra stanzas for Arjuna, which, in view of the uncertainty that appertains at present to the text and the actual extent of the Gītāsāra, cannot be eliminated In any case, it is clear that the enhanced extent of the BG. as recorded in 112* cannot be made the ground for admitting as authentic the few extra stanzas given by the "Kashmir recension", when the manuscript evidence is overwhelmingly against them<sup>2</sup>

We next come to the second group of Testimonia

(11) Epitomes

First under this group we have Kṣemendra's Bhāratamañjarī ( Kāvya-mālā

<sup>1</sup> Ekanātha thus renders the line into Marathi

तेचि हें माहाभारत । पक दधि सुनीत । तयातेंही बुसळित । मथीत काढावया ॥

भारत सकळांचें मथित । तयाचें वचन विभ्रात । करुनी गीतेचे अर्थ । पूर्वी निवडिले ॥

तया गीतेचें मथन केलें । सारातहि सार नीवडिलें । जें गीतासार काडिलें । ज्ञान प्रणवाचें ॥

<sup>2</sup> It is sometimes argued that Alberuni in his India quotes passages from the Bhagavadgītā which are not to be found in the current BG text The situation would remain the same even after the admission of the extra stanzas given by the Kashmir version On the question of Alberuni's Gītā quotations, cf V P Limaye's Marathi booklet, Tilak Maharashtra Vidyāpīṭha publications, No 5, Poona (1929)

No 64 ), which summarizes the contents of the Bhīmaparvan in just 497 stanzas Kṣemendra is a Kashmirian ( A D 1050 ) and is expected to follow the Kashmirian text, but the extreme compression of the narration does not permit any definite inference as to textual variation. He gives the incidents of Crit Ed chapter 41 after the BG , and not before as in the Southern recension. He records the story of Kṛṣṇa's advance towards Bhīṣma twice st 274-283 and 430-433. From Kṣemendra's epitome, definite variants can safely be assumed in the following cases

6 80 2<sup>b</sup> श्रुतायुधम् ( for श्रुतायुधम् ) not found elsewhere , 84 14 आदित्यकेतु and अपराजित as epithets, and सुदुर्जय as a proper name , पण्डितक written मण्डितक , 92 26 अनाष्टि कुण्डलिन कुण्डमेदि सुलोचनम् । विगट दीर्घबाहु च सुबाहु वनकध्वजम् ॥

There is also the curious circumstance that Kṣemendra omits the current 17th chapter of the BG and regards 18 1-9 as the 17th chapter of the poem. This is unaccountable

There is still less to be said about the epitome in Amaracandra Sūri's Bālabhārata ( Kāvya-mālā No 45 ) Amaracandra is a Jain poet of the 13th century A D who summarizes the contents of the Bhīmaparvan in 384 stanzas. In the summary the Kātyāyanīstava and the Śveta episode are absent, the matter of Crit Ed chapter 41 is placed after the Gītā. Since Amaracandra does not always use the epic śloka and is fond of introducing poetic descriptions of his own, as for example, the conversation between the warrior issuing for the fight and his beloved ( sarga 1 8-19 ), this summary has not much critical value. The author does not give the geographical parvans, and is content to summarize the teaching of the BG in just four stanzas! He nevertheless gives the Kṛṣṇa-Bhīṣma episode twice ( sarga 2 49-59 , 218-223 ), finds room for the Viśvopākhyāna in 8 stanzas ( 2 94-101 ), and for the incident of the heavenly voice calling upon Bhīṣma to await the Uttarāyana

Much more critical importance attaches to the next group of testimonia

( 111 ) Translations and Adaptations

THE OLD-JAVANESE VERSION OF THE BHĪMAPARVAN

The most important of these by far is the Javanese Version of the Mahābhārata, which consists, in the main, of an abridged paraphrase of the Sanskrit original in the Old-Javanese, interspersed now and then, in order to secure an air of authoritativeness, with Sanskrit citations which are invariably followed by their more or less exact rendering into the Kawi. Parvans 1, 4-6, 14-17 have alone become so far available in this version. Of these, Het Oudjavaansche Bhīmaparwa was published by Dr J Gonda ( Bibliotheca Javanica No 7, 1936 ), who also, as No 7a in the same series, published in 1937 annotations in Dutch to the Old-Javanese Bhīmaparvan, particularly to the parts preceding and following the Bhagavadgītā. We also owe to the same scholar a complete translation into English of the Old-Javanese version of the Bhagavadgītā, published in the Tydschrift voor Ind. Taal-, Land- en Volkenkunde, vol LXXV (1935) pp 36ff

The Old-Javanese Bhīṣmaparvan begins

Here is therefore the mention of the king of Java by name Śīi-Dharmavamsa-degu-Ananta-vikramadeva who was ruling in Eastern Java towards the end of the 11th century A. D. and under whose regime the Old-Javanese adaptation seems to have been made. What was the exact form of the Epic at this early and definitely datable historical period, and to which one of the existing versions of the Mahābhārata does the Old-Javanese adaptation exhibit kinship, become, accordingly, questions of much critical importance. For reasons which will appear in due course, we propose to discuss the problem of the Old-Javanese Version of the Bhagavadgītā separately by itself. Here room is found for a few critical observations relating to the O-J Version of the Bhīṣmaparvan as a whole exclusive of the Bhagavadgītā.

The O-J Version omits† the following entire chapters

|------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3          | List of evil omens abridged and not spread over two chapters. All astronomical allusions are conspicuous by their absence, except the solitary one in 2.31-32.                           |
| 12         | The Dvīpas other than Jambū, and the surrounding oceans are passed over. Instead, two stanzas merely enumerating the Dvīpas and the oceans are inserted, probably from some Purāṇa text. |

† Those chapters the substance of which is reproduced, howsoever briefly, in the Kāvī paraphrase are enclosed within square brackets. The omissions would appear still more formidable if we take into account the over 3500 stanzas omitted in the body of the chapters represented by Sanskrit quotations.

| Chapters Om | Remarks                                                                                                                                                          |

With these rather extensive omissions from a parvan which is noted for its tiresome and repetitious battle descriptions, it is no wonder if the Old-Javanese version of the Bhīṣmaparvan were to make upon the reader, on a first view, "a more original impression," as Dr Gonda observes<sup>1</sup>, but it would not be correct to conclude that this version represents the Bhīṣmaparvan in a form more original than, say, the Vulgate. Like the Vulgate, the O-J. version gives, in an abridged form of course, the cosmographical chapters (6-13), the Viśvopākhyāna chapters (61-64), and the repetition<sup>2</sup> of the Kṛṣṇa-Bhīṣma encounter (55 34-66 and 102 30-70). The miraculous elements attending the fall of Bhīṣma (such as the conversation with the Vasus, 114 34 ff, or Arjuna producing subterranean water by an arrow-shot, 116 22-24) are all there, not omitting even the earlier banal reference to the Udyogaparvan (95 11) which is preserved in the Kawi paraphrase, Gonda's ed., p 122, line 2. More remarkable still, the O-J version finds room for the Śveta episode (Appendix I, No 4), which is a Bengali-Devanāgarī addendum unknown to the Kashmirian and the majority of the Southern manuscripts. From the evidence of the O-J version, we must now conclude that the addition of the Śveta episode was already an accomplished fact by about the tenth century.

The most noteworthy feature of the Javanese version of the Bhīṣmaparvan is the way in which it concludes the parvan. Adhyāya 116 with the admonition to Duryodhana — सधृस्ते तात (°स्तत प्र-)युज्यताम् — is present in the Javanese, but not the next chapter (117) of reconciliation with Karna. Instead we have what Gonda calls a parallel with a portion (although a small portion) of the Twelfth Book of the Mahābhārata wherein sage Nārada is introduced. Gonda thinks that Nārada comes in while Bhīṣma is speaking with Duryodhana. I do not think so. "Etasminn eva kāle tu" of the O-J rather marks a new chapter-opening, and should belong to what follows.

It would accordingly seem that, following upon the chapter of admonition to Duryodhana (116), there was available to the Javanese redactor an additional chapter of the Bhīṣmaparvan wherein, presumably upon the suggestion of Nārada, Bhīṣma delivers to Yudhishthira some elementary advice as to the duties of the king, in the same way as, in the current version, there is chapter 117 wherein Bhīṣma gives words of advice to Karna. This is conceivable, and it would be permissible to look upon that chapter as the nucleus of the enlarged Śāntiparvan, which ultimately got incorporated into it as GK chapter 12 71. The retention of this relic from one of the stages in the evolution of the Mahābhārata is on a par with another relic that I discovered while critically comparing the two versions of the Kṛṣṇa-Bhīṣma encounter<sup>3</sup> interesting in itself, but not of much practical value in arriving at even the penultimate form of our Epic. This new chapter — it is necessary to note — does not in any way render the rest of the Javanese Bhīṣmaparvan primitive or authentic in either its form or content.<sup>1</sup>

The O-J version (outside the BG) shows — besides several lines from the Śveta-episode (App I, No 4), and lines 7-8 from 155*, and 271* — the following additional passages not found in any of our MSS

For 6 7 3<sup>a</sup>, निषधो वैहृयमय, after 7 3<sup>a</sup>, संख्या दक्षिणतो भवेत्, after 7 35<sup>a</sup>, श्वेता- दुत्तरतो वर्षं शृङ्गवदक्षिण तथा, after 10 40<sup>a</sup>, कुन्तय काशिशोवला, for chapter 6. 12, the following four lines

जम्बूशाककुशाकौश्या शाल्मलिश्च तथापर ।
गोमेद पुष्कराख्यश्च सप्त द्वीपा प्रकीर्तिता । क्षीरक्षीरं दधिसर्पिरिक्षुमद्य परोदधि ।

for 41 41<sup>a</sup>, स्त्रीपूर्वं त्वनुपश्यामि<sup>2</sup>, for 61 42 (Tristubh), the following (Anuṣṭubh)

विश्ववसुर्विश्वमूर्तिर्विश्वेशो विश्व कारण ।
विष्वक्सेनो विश्वकर्मा वशी विश्वशिरो विभो । [ of 257* ], for 86 57<sup>b</sup>, अन्तरिक्षगतस्तदा, after 86 61 (?)

स सद्यो राक्षसो भूय क्षत कृत प्रतापवान् ।
सद्य प्रसुप्तुवे चापि शरावापाश्च साधनम् ।, and for chapters 87-89 (?), the following two lines

धनजयो गजानीकाभिहते चात्मन सुते ।
विनिघ्नन्समरे शूरास्ताडयन्राक्षसात्रणे ॥

The only transposition of consequence found in the O-J version is that of chapters six and five placed (in this order) between chapters 11 and 13, chapter 12 being omitted. The reason for this is not apparent

Turning to variant readings, of those peculiar to the O-J version (outside the BG), the following deserve to be mentioned

6 1 1<sup>a</sup> धीरा (for वीरा), 8<sup>a</sup> भारतसत्तम (for पार्थिव<sup>o</sup>), 4 9<sup>b</sup> सुखम् (for स्वर्गम्),
7 39<sup>a</sup> हेमकूटो हेमवति (for °टस्तु सुमहान्), 40<sup>a</sup> अभ्यतरेण (for अस्त्युत्तरेण), 48<sup>a</sup> सर्वे नराश्च (for सर्पा नागाश्च), 49<sup>a</sup> ऋषय (for निषधे), 8 13<sup>a</sup> पूर्वामिषङ्गस्तु (for °वेकस्तु), 8 15<sup>b</sup> मनस्विन
(for महाबला), 22<sup>a</sup> पतमानफलानि (for °मानानि तानि), 28<sup>a</sup> ब्रह्मचारिण (for °वादिन), 9 6<sup>a</sup>

<sup>1</sup> It may be pointed out that the O-J version is aware of Bhīṣma's awaiting the Uttarāyana on the bed of arrows, and that the O-J Ādiparvan knows the 18 parvans of the Mbh including the Śānti.

<sup>2</sup> This reference to a man who was once a woman comes much too soon, and gives up the game altogether!

From a careful study of the details given hitherto, the following generalizations about the Old Javanese version would seem to follow (a) That the source of the O-J. is not the Kashmirian version (b) That although in some places a partial agreement with some of the Southern sources seems to be in evidence, the O-J shows none of the peculiarly Southern insertions (see pp LII-LIV) on the contrary, it gives the Śveta episode, and does not place chapter 41 before the Bhagavadgītā (c) The presence of variants like अवध्य (70 16, 101 8, 118 31, 134 4), अव्यक्त (55 14), °किल्बिषै (47 26), क्लीववत् (68 8), कैलाशो (18 4), कैव्य (42 8), जम्बूसङ्ग (17 28), तीव्रम् (85 13), वज्राशनि° (135 7), वज्रभमा (103 11), वपु (86 2), वरुणो (58 8), वायुश् (100 5), वायुदेव (55 8, 58 26, 98 27, 99 31), वायुकि (58 6), व्रज (65 5), °व्रता (50 6), व्यूहं (82 7, 107 21), बृहस्पति (130 1), स्वर्तक (117 10), सुव्रत (95 15), and हैरिम्बेन (94 7) would also establish its non-Southern (possibly, Bengali) origin (d) The introduction of a passage from the Śāntiparvan at the end of the Bhīṣmaparvan is no ground for regarding the present Javanese version as such as belonging to an earlier pre-Vulgate stage in the evolution of the Epic

THE O-J VERSION OF THE BHAGAVADGĪTĀ

Out of the traditional 700 stanzas of the Bhagavadgītā the Old-Javanese version actually cites in Sanskrit a total of 80½ stanzas, while an equivalent of 56 stanzas is preserved only in the Old-Javanese paraphrase, so that a total of as many as 563½ stanzas is altogether wanting. At the same time, the Old-Javanese cites in Sanskrit, as belonging to the Bhagavadgītā, one entire Anuṣṭubh stanza ( 46 8-9 ), one Triṣṭubh half stanza ( 61 4, 5 ) and two Anuṣṭubh quarters ( 53 27, 59 1 ) which are not found in the current text, while, paraphrased in the Old-Javanese, we find here and there a lot of extraneous matter which has nothing corresponding to it in the original as we know it. The question to determine is whether the Bhagavadgītā as known to the Old-Javanese was as brief as the extensive omissions in that version seem to indicate, and, secondly, whether it contained, at the same time, certain extra passages which are unaccountably omitted from our current text. Let us investigate the matter in detail.

First, however, let us take up the Sanskrit citations in the Old-Javanese. These are printed ( App II ) as 194 passages, one on each line. Of these, 99 passages show no variation in reading, while 71 give readings which differ, not only from our constituted text, but from the Calcutta and the Bombay editions, as well as from the Kashmir version as represented by the Srinagar ed. of 1933. There are altogether six new passages. In 11 out of the remaining 18 cases, the Old-Javanese text agrees with all other versions except the Kashmirian, while it agrees with the Kashmirian alone as against all other versions in just four passages only, in one of which our constituted text also agrees with the Kashmirian and the Old-Javanese. In the remaining three cases, the Old-Javanese text once agrees with all except the Calcutta edition only, once with the Cal. ed. and the Kashmirian version, and once with both the Cal. ed. and the Bom. ed., but not with either the constituted text or the Kash. version. The above facts prima facie discountenance the notion that the Old-Javanese version of the BG shows any pronounced affinity with the Kashmirian version.

Analysing the 71 cases where the Old-Javanese version differs from all the other versions, we find that nine of them are merely due to the changes such as that of ia to ba or of ba to ia, which may possibly point to some Bengali influence at some point in the pedigree of the Old-Javanese version. Another six passages are totally corrupt, while fifteen other passages betray only common scribal errors. These are

42 9 — लक्ष्मि निष्ठ for लक्ष्मिोत्तिष्ठ, 43 13 — नित्यप्रोक्ता for नित्यसोक्ता, 43 14 — यसाद्युध्यस्व for तस्माद्युध्यस्व, 44 26 — 'हेतुभूद् for 'हेतुभूद् and सद्गोस्त्वकर्मणि for सद्गोऽस्त्वकर्मणि, 48 28 — तथात्मान for तदात्मान, 51 1 — तयोमत्कर्म* for तयोस्तु कर्म*, 51 32 — वन्ध( ) for वन्धुर्, 52 13 — आत्मान रहसि स्थितम् (case-attraction) for जात्मान रासि स्थित*, 54 7 — प्रमास for प्रमासि, 56 12 — ज्ञानविज्ञानरहित for ज्ञान विज्ञानमहित, 57 2 — यद्य पश्यमि for यत्पश्यमि (defective hearing), 59 3 — विद्यानां for दिव्यानां, 62 1 — नमस्ते तु for नमस्तेऽस्तु, 62 17 — वेद्वर् for वेद्वर् (metathesis), 63 28 — सत्त्व सक्ते सञ्जयति for सत्त्व सुप्ते सञ्जयति, 65 6 — अह त्वा for अह त्वा

Amongst the 11 cases of probably deliberate and more radical changes, the following deserve attention

43 22 - नाभिजानीता for न विजानीतो, 44 4 - स्वधर्ममेव चावेक्ष्य न विकल्पितुमर्हति (a real improvement in sense), 45 6 - यमादावचला for समाधावचला, 45 16 - यदा सहरते कामान् for प्रजहाति यदा कामान् (influence of 2 58<sup>a</sup>), 47 26 - यक्षशेषाशिन for यक्षशिष्टा, 47 27 - क्षमन्ते for भुञ्जते and चरन्त्यात्मकारणात् for पचन्त्यात्म, 48 20 - न तानि वेदि for तान्यह वेद and वेत्ति for वेत्थ, 49 19 - मनुष्याणा for मनुष्येषु and कृत्स्नकर्मवित् for *कर्मकृत् ('विद् may correctly paraphrase पश्यति or पश्येद् in the first pāda, but it goes against the real intention), 50 19 - मेधया for सेवया, 51 26 - न स लिप्यति दोषेण for, लिप्यते न स पापेन, 52 20 - धारयेदचल मन for धारयन्नचल स्थिर, 52 29 - यो जन for योऽर्जुन, 54 21 - जीविका for जीवन (the change does not improve the sense), 55 19 - साहमाव (? सोहमाव) for स मद्माव, 56 2 - आस्थितो योगे धारयेत् for आस्थितो योगधारणाम्, 56 21 - वेदपवित्रमोकारम् for वेद्य पवित्रमोकार[ ], 57 32 - ऐरावतो for ऐरावत and नराधिप for नराधिपम्, 58 4 - वज्र for वज्र (the masculine form is given in Ś1), 59 5 - किमुक्तेन for किं शक्तेन, 60 31 - तथामी नरनाथ लोकवीरा for तथा तवामी नरलोकवीरा ('नाथ', probably by oversight, not deleted by yellow pigment), 60 32 - [अ]भितो द्रवन्ति for [अ]भिविज्वलन्ति, 62 22 - मद्भावात् for मद्भक्त, 63 12, 13 - नोपलभ्यते for नोपलिप्यते (the point of the simile not correctly understood), 63 18 - एषो (sic) लोक कृत्स्नम् for एक कृत्स्न लोकम्, 63 29 - सञ्जयस्य for सञ्जयस्युत, 64 6, 7 - the plurals changed into singulars, 65 5 - कारण for शरण

On a review of the above cases it will be seen that, excepting the Old-Javanese variant for BG 2 31<sup>ab</sup>, no other variant is of any consequence

Proceeding next to consider the Old-Javanese additions, the stanza added in the Old Javanese after BG 2 59 probably owes its existence to the understanding of the word निराहारस्य in 2 59<sup>b</sup> to imply abstinence from food only. The craving for food is the most desperate of all cravings. Commentators like Śrīdhara and Madhva interpret the statement in this limited sense, the latter quoting in support Bhāgavata 11 8 20—

इन्द्रियाणि जयन्त्याशु निराहारा मनीषिण ।

वर्जयित्वा तु रसनं, तन्निरञ्जस्य वर्धते ॥

The other commentators take the statement as applying to all sense-enjoyments generally compare Rāmānuja इन्द्रियाणामाहारा विषया. On this the Tātparyacandrikā observes— सर्वेन्द्रियविषयाणामाहारशब्देन ग्रहणम् । न च प्रसिद्धाहारनिषेधमात्रादशेषविषयानिवृत्तिः । Nevertheless, even the oldest Mahārāṣṭra commentator on the Gītā, saint Jñāneśvara (1290 A. D.), seems to have understood the stanza in this limited sense of श्रोत्रादि इन्द्रिये आवरिती । परि रसने नियमु न करिती । ते सहस्रधा कवळिजती । विषयीं इही ॥ ४ ॥ येरा इन्द्रिया विषय तुटे । तैसा नियमू न ये रस हटें । जें जीवन हें न घटे । येणेंविण ॥ ७ ॥ In course of time, a similar exception seems to have been made in favour of the sex-impulse, so that in the traditional pictographic representation of Kali, these two are shown as the most vulnerable points of that Zeitgeist. The extra stanza (46 8, 9) found in the Javanese version has in fact all the appearance of being added at this place from some Purāṇa text, which cannot for the present be traced to its source

In BG chapter 7, after quoting and translating stanza 4 describing the first "Prakṛti" of the Lord, the second "Prakṛti" is described in the Old-Javanese paraphrase with the words

But there is another (form of My nature), prepared by Me, which is called the principle of Life, which has been established to serve for the life of the whole world

This is followed by—

And this, being of such a kind, you ought to consider as being together at the same time in (My) own self, having corporeal, oral and mental expedients This being so,—यथा ज्ञानं लभिष्यति — he will accordingly attain to knowledge

Dr J Gonda thinks that, corresponding to this second paraphrase, there ought to have been, in the Gītā as known to the Old-Javanese narrator, a stanza describing the nature of the Jīva, of which यथा ज्ञानं लभिष्यति formed the fourth pāda This is not quite certain Can it be some old gloss explaining and expanding the purport of the stanza in question, which the Javanese author has incorporated with his paraphrase?

The extra quarter-stanza (with the defective reading) added by the Javanese version after 10 37 is really a part of a whole stanza found inserted in at least four Gītā MSS (including the Denis Crofton MS), generally sec m, at the end of stanza 10 34, 10 35, or 10 38 One Kashmir MS. turns it into a stanza of six pādas of 101* The Vibhūti chapter of the Bhagavadgītā had, as is well known, its imitations and elaborations in the Purāna texts like the Kūrma, Bhāgavata, Viṣṇudharmottara, etc., and it is from such amplified versions that an extra stanza could have been added here and there to the current Gītā Thus the Viṣṇudharmottara has the pāda ओषधीना तथा यव (1 56 33<sup>a</sup>), and रत्नानां कनकं तथा (1 56 35<sup>b</sup>), The Bhāgavata has घातूनामस्मि काश्चनम् (11.16 18<sup>b</sup>), ओषधीनामहं यव (11 16 21<sup>a</sup>), and कुण्डोऽस्मि दर्भजातीनां गव्यमाज्यं हविष्वहम् (11 16 30<sup>cd</sup>) That this particular stanza actually belonged to the original Gītā cannot therefore be definitely asserted If it ever was a genuine part, its omission from so many other MSS and its not being noticed by any of the commentators would be inexplicable

Lastly, as to the two pādas added after 11 29<sup>a</sup>, it would be more correct to regard these two quarters as variant readings for 10 29<sup>b</sup>, rather than downright addition The word यमाभिभूता is translated by the Old-Javanese author as “overthrown by Yama” and paraphrased as “overthrown by the might of error”, as if the reading was तमोभिभूता Do the Old-Javanese translation of Sanskrit quotations and the paraphrase proceed from one and the same author?

Besides the textual additions found in the quoted portions of the Gītā, we have to account for the presumed additions represented by passages in the Old-Javanese paraphrase to which nothing corresponding is to be found in the current text of the Poem These passages, in view of the great age that belongs to them, are expected to give an indication of the way in which the Bhagavadgītā teaching was understood in those days, because they were the free expressions of the Javanese author's own thoughts untrammelled by exigencies of text Unfortunately, however, the Old-Javanese narrator does not appear to have been a great scholar, and has frequently made lamentable blunders A few samples may be here presented

- 2 34<sup>a</sup> — समावितस्य चाकीर्ति is paraphrased by "behaviour that is blamed by valiant men "
- 2 47<sup>ab</sup> — The original Sanskrit is translated wrongly thus "Your concern with deeds of all kinds, why shall that bear no fruit?" Perhaps the translation should read "Your concern [ is ] with deeds of all kinds, [ and not with ] 'why shall that bear no fruit?'"
- 2 53<sup>a</sup> — श्रुतिविप्रतिपन्ना ते is translated by "when your ears hear the voice no more(!) "
- 3 12<sup>ab</sup> — This is rendered thus "But if the Gods, although they are worshipped ( by men ), do not feel themselves under obligation ( towards them ) if they only enjoy without bestowing favours on those who worship them, those gods must obviously be called thieves "
- 4 19-21 — The Old-Javanese author attempts an independent summary of the teaching, but his words do not show that he really understood the general drift. Says he "In a few words when a man goes on to act, let him not be uncertain about the possibility of obtaining fruits Stick only to the right knowledge, when you are performing deeds, that its learning may be perfect and undisturbed " In a footnote Dr Gonda wonders whence this passage is taken obviously it is the outcome of the confused understanding of the text by the Old-Javanese author
- 5 1, 2 — Apparently the Old-Javanese author read योग च शसति as though it was योगसन्धासं, and so later he renders stanza 1 by "Karmasannyāsa and Yogasannyāsa bear both as fruit very high good. But if you weigh the importance of them both, Yogasannyāsa appears to be superior to Karmasannyāsa, for it happens that the man who proceeds to perform actions attains to sorrow, viz when Yoga does not assist him Even Gonda is compelled to say that the last clause appears to have been added by the Javanese author It in fact betrays a very poor understanding of the Gitā teaching
- 7 29<sup>i</sup> — For अध्यात्म कर्म चाखिलम् the Javanese text reads अन्यत्, but the paraphrase renders the sentence by "he has knowledge about what is called action and the supreme soul ( Karmādhyaṭmika or Karmādhyaṭma )" Obviously, the writer is innocent of the technical sense of 'Adhyātma' and 'Karman' as explained in the first few stanzas of the next chapter, which the Old-Javanese version conveniently omits!
- 9 1<sup>c</sup> — The Old-Javanese text erroneously reads ज्ञानविज्ञानरहित for ज्ञान विज्ञानसहित, and the Old-Javanese author, in blissful self-complacency, renders it thus "This most mysterious knowledge, which is void of knowledge and wisdom (!) "
- 10 37<sup>d</sup> — कवीनामुशना कवि — Our author translates this by "As for all sages, there I am called Wṛhaspati " Cf. 11 24<sup>ab</sup>, which is omitted in the Javanese text.
- 11 33 — The Old-Javanese author paraphrases this as follows "Not going under your own name you will kill your foes, but your name will be Kāla "

Presumably because they would not interest his audience, but—after the above exhibition of his learning—presumably also because he did not quite understand them, the Old-Javanese narrator, as will be presently seen, has omitted a number of technical passages This, however, compelled him to supply the joining links on either side of the omitted technical passages This was not always easy, and the result at times almost borders on the ludicrous, as the following cases will clearly demonstrate

2 4-6, 7<sup>1</sup>-10 — Having decided to omit these stanzas, our author makes Arjuna say “By your leave, Kṛṣṇa, great king, you are right in exhorting me this way, noble lord, but being encompassed by my mind’s compassion (kārpṇya),” etc And Kṛṣṇa is made to reply “Ah, Om, Om, noble Arjuna, my dear! What is the profit you derive from me, if you do not take to heart my admonitions that may lead to a good end?”

2 19<sup>1</sup> — नाय हन्ति न हन्यते — This is rendered unphilosophically enough by the words “For it happens that he that is said to be the conqueror, is subdued without having inflicted a scratch, and again he who is said to be defeated, it happens that he comes off victorious without a blow” Dr Gonda adds a footnote pointing out that these words are not found in the Sanskrit texts As if they could in this form ever belong to the Gītā! It is perhaps possible that the O-J read नाय हन्ति च हन्यते

2 48<sup>1</sup> — योगस्थ कुरु कर्माणि मङ्ग त्यक्त्वा धनञ्जय — The Old-Javanese paraphrase for this is “Hold fast to Yoga, cast off intercourse with men (सङ्ग!)”

2 54 — Not having understood how the previous discussion leads on to the topic of the svatprag and his characteristics, our author thus extemporizes “Ah, Om, Om! My father, great king Kṛṣṇa, I have understood this But noble lord, please to inform me of other things Teach me, my lord, that which they call the characteristics of a great man who in truth is great.” And Kṛṣṇa, in the same style, replies “Ah, is it this your wish, noble Arjuna? If so, I shall teach it you they are as follows.” — It is vain to inquire what the original Sanskrit was to correspond with this Old-Javanese rendering

2 70-72, 3 1, 3-10 — Having omitted the concluding part of chapter 2 and the introductory part of chapter 3, this is the Javanese transition to what follows “Om, Om, I pay homage to you Kṛṣṇa, great king! Very mysterious indeed is the truth of your information, my lord’ Make large my thoughts, if it is suitable to you to extend your instructions in dharma” Dr Gonda notes “Differs greatly from Bhag 3 1-2”. Of course it would’

§ 36 ff — Arjuna’s question and Kṛṣṇa’s reply to it being omitted, as transition to the teaching commencing from 4 5, the Old-Javanese writer presents us with the following delicious morsel “With your permission, my lord, be quick now I, Dhanañjaya, wish to question you once more, my noble lord, as in the beginning I beg your pardon, Sir, for having addressed you respectfully Your words, my lord, (that you have spoken) here, might seem to be incoherent and unintelligible speech. What were the prayers and of what kind were they, noble lord, that you are so well-trained in the whole truth about the principles of knowledge? Well then, please, let me know it, confer your favour upon me, inform me, my lord, of it with its commencement, its middle and its end, that I may know it.” Dr Gonda notes “This address of Arjuna agrees neither with Bhag 3 36 nor with Bhag 4 4” It is paying too much of a compliment to our Javanese author to suppose that he had any Sanskrit original for this to go by

5 11-29 — The Yogic technicalities at the end of chapter 5 and the early part of chapter 6 are omitted, as also Arjuna's query at the end of the latter chapter. The Old-Javanese writer, in their stead, offers a connecting link of his own making wherein it is worth noting in passing that while Arjuna's question in the Gītā was of a general nature, the Javanese version makes it purely personal. "With your favour, Kṛṣṇa, great king! Does there exist any possibility for me, Dhanañjaya, to attain to Jñānayoga, in consequence of your favour, my lord? Take pity on me, your servant, inform me of this too!" Dr Gonda once more meticulously notes "This address of Arjuna does not agree with the texts of the Sanskrit Bhagavadgītā."

Once in a while<sup>1</sup> the Old-Javanese writer attempts to give a summary of parts of the teaching in his own words, prefacing it by sentences like "The meaning of these words is this." If nothing corresponding to it is found in the Sanskrit text, that need not be supposed to create any textual problem at all.

Not rarely also the Old-Javanese writer alters an original simile or adds another of his own coinage. It would in fact have been remarkable if he had not done so at all. Only an instance or two should suffice. Thus 1 19<sup>ab</sup> — हृदयानि व्यदारयत् — he paraphrases thus "Then it was as if the hearts of the soldiers of the Kauravas were pierced with daggers." Also, after quoting and translating the simile in 13 32, and before quoting and translating the simile in 13 33, the Old-Javanese writer observes "This parable might have been used too," referring to the self's invisibility consequent upon its subtlety, although it is known to be present in all the bodies. Dr Gonda, thinking that this is a new (third) parable, notes that there is nothing corresponding to it in the Sanskrit text. The Old-Javanese, however, reads नोपलभ्यते for नोपलिप्यते and thereby gives a new turn to the simile meant to prove the taintlessness of the Ākāśa. Both the readings are accepted and, apparently, turned into two 'parables'.

These additions and expositions contributed by the Old-Javanese writer show neither cogency nor depth nor even a proper understanding of the philosophical import of the text that he has chosen to make available for his audience, which was probably quite innocent of any knowledge of Sanskrit.

Finally, let us tackle the question of the extensive omissions in the Old-Javanese 'version' of the Bhagavadgītā. If, according to Garbe, the "original" Gītā consisted of (700-172 =) 528 stanzas, and according to Rudolf Otto the Ur-text of the BG contained only 132 stanzas, the Old-Javanese text hardly covers 81 stanzas in Sanskrit, to which an uncertain quantum represented by the Old-Javanese paraphrase can be superadded. Nobody, however, ever cared or dared to claim that this Javanese Gītā was the "original" Gītā. The preserved portions have no characteristics pointing towards such a conclusion.

( iii ) Omissions of stanzas which, it is alleged, may have been really absent in the Gītā as known to the Old-Javanese narrator.<sup>1</sup> Amongst these may be mentioned

- 2 17 — This is regarded by Garbe as a Vedāntic interpolation objectively demonstrable as such owing to the sudden introduction of the neuter Itat in a context where, for " The Imperishable ", words in masc. gender alone are used. These arguments can be met<sup>2</sup> by pointing out, that the words asatah and satah in st. 2 16 are less than likely to be masculine, so that there is no necessarily masculine context preceding. The Old-Javanese omission is much more cogently explained on the ground that the stanza in question is repetitious.
- 7 12-15 — Amongst these four stanzas are included stanzas 14, 15 which, according to Garbe, break the prevailing " Sāṃkhya " context, and introduce the technical term " Māyā " in the specifically Vedāntic sense. All the four stanzas may have been omitted in the Old-Javanese merely by reason of their technical character. The Old-Javanese does refer to " Yogamāyā " in the immediate context, st. 25, which Garbe regards as interpolated.
- 8 1-4 — These four stanzas which introduce " Brahman " and the other Vedāntic technicalities are regarded by Garbe as amongst the later additions. But 8 1-4 are an elaboration of 7 29-33, and while Garbe omits 7 29 ( because of the word Brahman ) and 7 30, the Old-Javanese actually cites 7 29.
- 9 29 — After 9 19, Garbe singles out, from chapter 9, this stanza alone as Vedāntic interpolation. The Old-Javanese omits a whole lot of stanzas before and after, amongst which 9 29 happens to be one.
- 10 12-20, as also about 24 other stanzas up to the end of the chapter, are omitted in the Old-Javanese. Garbe has rejected the whole lot from 10 12 to 10 40 as being Vedāntic additions. That does not find support from what the Old-Javanese version actually gives in quotation or in paraphrase.

<sup>1</sup> Some of the omissions listed under ( i ) and ( ii ) may also belong to this category.

- 11 13, 16, 18, 19 — Garbe has singled out stanzas 7, 13, 15, 16, 18, 19, 37-40 from this chapter as Vedāntic interpolations. The Old-Javanese version, however, paraphrases 11 7 and 15, and quotes 11 39<sup>1</sup>-40<sup>2</sup>. Stanzas 11 7 and 15 do exhibit the Vedāntic character which Garbe bans from the "original" Gītā.
- 13 30 — This stanza which contains the word 'Brahman' is amongst the 15 from this chapter that Garbe dubs as Vedāntic interpolations. When the Old-Javanese has practically omitted the entire chapter, its authority cannot be cited either way. It is necessary, however, to mention that the Old-Javanese betrays knowledge of the main part of this chapter, as it cites st. 33 and paraphrases st. 34, which name the technical terms Kṣetra and Kṣetrasa, which the earlier parts of the chapter introduce and explain.
- 14 27 — This is omitted in the Old-Javanese, which, however, cites st. 26 for which st. 27 simply furnishes the reason. Garbe considers both 26 and 27 (because of their use of the word Brahman) as interpolated, and here the Old-Javanese version does not lend him any support.
- 15-18 — Of these four Adhyāyas the Old Javanese version has kept only two stanzas 18 66 (cited) and 73 (paraphrased). The rest is unaccountably missing. As early as 1826, Wilhelm von Humboldt had suggested that the entire portion of the BG after chapter 11, except 18 63-78, might be a later addition, and Jacobi, Oldenberg, Charpentier and others had expressed other views about the "original" Bhagavadgītā, but the Old-Javanese has retained several portions of the text after chapter 11, while it omits only the last four chapters. The Old-Javanese version must therefore be held to represent, according to the terminology of R. Otto, one of the subsequent stages of the Poem when, with the Ur-text, had been incorporated one or more "Tracts". Dr J. Gonda, the editor of the Old Javanese Bhīṣmaparvan, says "it is possible that they were not present in the Sanskrit manuscript of the Javanese author, but just as well that he has perceived their relative unimportance and therefore has passed them". The latter alternative is the only one that can be legitimately accepted.<sup>1</sup> Dr F. Otto Schrader (Rezensionen der Bhagavadgītā, Festschrift für M. Winternitz, Leipzig, 1933, p. 49) wants us, however, to accept the view that the missing portion was unknown to the Old-Javanese narrator, and so he opposes that favoured view of his with a very weak alternative, namely, that the Old-Javanese scribe got tired at the end! And for fear lest one would be prepared even to accept this alternative, he argues against it in a characteristic manner in a footnote. He says there that weariness is not a likely argument in view of the great reverence which people felt for the holy language of Sanskrit, and that it would be possible only if the scribes of the different MSS got tired at different stages, and not all alike at one and the same point. The Old-Javanese MSS show that the omitted parts are the same in all, and 'weariness' is hence out of the question. That it must be the scribes who (under the alternative) got wearied, and not the Old-Javanese translator Schrader is very careful to point out. All this appears unconvincing in the extreme.

It was thought necessary to undertake a detailed examination of the Old-

Javanese "version" of the Bhagavadgītā because of the claim made on its behalf that it either constitutes, or at any rate serves as an important finger-pointer on the trail of, a Third Recension of the Bhagavadgītā ( by the side of the two the Vulgate and the Kashmirian Recensions ) which, it was hoped, would one day come to light in its entirety. The age of the Old-Javanese version has no doubt invested it with a sense of dignity, but after studying in detail the actual character of the version and the calibre of the Old-Javanese writer, the only valid critical conclusion that one can reach is that neither for constituting the current text of the Bhagavadgītā, nor for determining the U1-text or the "original" Bhagavadgītā as conceived by Garbe, Otto and others, nor even for determining any of the "intervening forms assumed by the Poem" in the course of the process of textual elaboration that it might be supposed to have undergone, does the Old-Javanese version available in the actual Sanskrit quotations, taken together with the portions available in the Old-Javanese paraphrase, afford us much assistance.

THE ĀNDHRA MAHĀBHĀRATAMU

The Bhīṣmaparvan of this version is included in volume four of the seven-volume publication of the Āndhra Mahābhārata brought out by Vāvilla Rāmaswāmi Sāstrulu and Sons, Madras, 1929. The Bhīṣmaparvan is divided into three āśvāsas or cantos, and at the end of the parvan there is a colophon which reads

इति श्रीमदुभयकविमित्र-कोम्मनामात्यपुत्र-बुधाराधनविराजितिकास-तिकनसोमयाजिप्रणीत जयनश्रीमहाभारतं तु न मीप्स-
पर्वं वुनदु । आश्वाससु ॥ श्रीमदान्ध्रमहाभारतसु णंदलि । मीप्सपर्वसु समाप्तसु ॥

This Tikkana who is assigned to the thirteenth century completed the Telugu translation of the Mahābhārata begun by Nannaya Bhaṭṭa in the eleventh century. It is a fairly close rendering of the original, with certain details omitted or abridged in the interest of economy. The following is the result of a detailed comparison of the original with the translation.

(1) Matters omitted 6 1, 4-34, 2 22-33, 3 11-17, and 24-29 ( astronomical omens ), cosmographical account in chapters 6-9 much curtailed, only 18 rivers ( instead of over 160 ), and 60 countries and peoples ( instead of over 225 ) enumerated in chapter 11, chapter 12 practically omitted, no reference to gifts as in chapter 22 7-8. In BG 1, no reference to varnasamlāra as in st. 40-42, omits BG 2 37-10 42 and again 12. 1-18 66, no reference to the death of Uttara as in 45 30-42, Vyūha details of the second day abridged, in chapter 48 23 ff, names of warriors on the opposed sides generally correct, and even the number of arrows discharged by individual warriors, the latter being sometimes ( chap 58. 23-26 ) dropped altogether, chapters 63-64 from the Viśvopākhyāna omitted, chapter 72, enumerating characteristics of a good army, om ; 73 26-30 om, 75 33-55 om, chap 76 practically om., the details of the Vyūha in 83 6-13 om , the repetitious question of Dhrtarāṣṭra and Samjaya's reply to him in 85 1-13 om , past history of Irāvāt in 86 6-15 om , battle-description in chap 93 abridged, the omens in 108 4-13 curtailed, also details of the concluding fight in chapters 108-113

(ii) Additions The additions made by the Āndhīa Mahābhāratamu distinctly show its relation with the S recension. It translates the following star passages 201* (given by TG), 274*, 293*, and 307* (all the three given by S as a whole)

(iii) Original passages There are noticeable the following passages apparently original to the Āndhīa Mbh āśvāsa 1, 44 instead of समरादेय in 6 14 1<sup>b</sup>, we are told that, after relating the cosmography, Samjaya went to see the events of the war, studied them, and returned after a few days — Accordingly, in āśvāsa 1 74 Samjaya is made to say 'after taking my leave of you that night, I went to the camp of our army I duly entered your son's tent, and found him seated surrounded by Bhīṣma and the other Kauravas and kings I was well received by him', āśvāsa 1 134 we find Samjaya making the following observation 'the forces of some countries joined the Kauravas, some others joined the Pāṇḍavas, while some others became divided out of animosity and joined both', — To Duryodhana's address to ācārya Droṇa in the opening of the Gītā, the latter is made to reply (āśvāsa 1 174), 'Drona said certainly! Why should you say so much?' On hearing these words, the king was pleased

(iv) Poetic embellishments It is nothing uncommon if we find the Āndhīa Mahābhāratamu at times giving new similes of its own or attempts fuller elaborations of the metaphors in the original. Of the latter kind may be instanced the simile of Bhīṣma with the Man-lion (6 14. 9, āśvāsa 1 49), and of Bhīṣma with the cloud (6 15 24-25, āśvāsa 1 52). Of the former, we may mention the comparison of Bhīṣma to a pool of lotuses (āśvāsa 1 96, placed before 6 17 7), or the comparison of the mutilated bodies of elephants and horses killed in the battle to 'mutton kept ready for cooking' (āśvāsa 1 267, somewhere after 6 44 40), or of the wounded and blood-stained Kṛṣṇa to 'a fresh Pārijāta flower with bright tender leaves (āśvāsa 2 43, the original in 6 48 50 has सृप्य इव क्षुद्रक), or of Bhīṣma to a smokeless blazing fire (āśvāsa 3 332, in place of the orig तपन्तमिव भास्करम् in 6 105 34)

(v) Variant readings Turning finally to the variant readings that can be ascertained from the translation, the following is a select list 6 43 55<sup>b</sup> (āśvāsa 1 261) युधामन्यु (for सुतसोम, with S), 71 16 (āśvāsa 2 344) काम्बोजैरथ बाहिकै (for काम्बोजारुद्रबाहिकै, with S), 75 22<sup>b</sup> चित्रागश् (for चित्राक्षश्, with T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>4</sub>),

77. 25<sup>d</sup> and 79. 12<sup>e</sup> (āsvāsa 3. 10 and 32) दृगमन्त्रम् (for दृगमन्त्र, with Dn; D; : & T; G; : M, and S respectively), 77. 27<sup>b</sup> (āsvāsa 3. 10) दृगमन्त्र (for दृगमन्त्र with S), 77. 31<sup>d</sup> (āsvāsa 3. 10) नीमगेन (for नीमगेन, with K; & B Dn; D; : & T G), 95. 5<sup>e</sup> (āsvāsa 3. 188) जतिगतिमहत्तमि (for जतिगतिमहत्तमि, with S), 95. 27<sup>d</sup> (āsvāsa 3. 189) शत्रुघ्नैव (for शत्रुघ्नैव, unique Ś; D; : T; M; gave शत्रुघ्नैव). In all these variants, it will be seen that the Āndhra Mahābhārataṃ, where it does not fall in with the S recension as a whole, agrees with the Grantha version.

The absence from the Āndhra Mahābhārataṃ of Bhagavadgītā 2. 37 to 10. 42 and of 12. 1 to 18. 66 cannot be said to present a textual problem, looking to the date of this version, and the same should probably hold good of its omission of the last two chapters (63-64) from the Viśvopākhyāna. In 6. 68. 1<sup>a</sup> all our MSS read सिगदी, the Āndhra Mahābhārataṃ alone seems to have read (āsvāsa 2. 297) गार्गा, which obviously appears to be correct, seeing that the target of the joint attack is to be Bhīṣma Sātyaki's name does, however, appear in 68. 8<sup>e</sup>. The S recension as a whole has 284<sup>a</sup> after 68. 8<sup>e</sup>, which may have been a substitute for it. Anyhow, this is the only passage where the Āndhra Mahābhārataṃ offers something valuable. Its translating द्योते कथित in 6. 95. 11 by 'stated on the eve of the commencement of the battle' is also worth consideration. Except in such small points, the value of the Āndhra Mahābhārataṃ is not much beyond that of a good type of Grantha manuscript. It gives only a very small number of the peculiarly S insertions (p. LIII-LIV), but whether that is due to the passages not having been yet added, or—as is more likely—to the Āndhra version having deliberately omitted them for brevity, cannot now be ascertained. The Āndhra version does not give any of the peculiarly N insertions (p. XVII, XVIII).

THE VERSIONS, THEIR CHARACTERISTICS AND INTER-RELATIONS

(1) The Śāradā Version

The Śāradā version happens to be represented by only one MS (Ś;), and even that MS is not the best representative of its class, being presumably copied by one more familiar with the Devanāgarī than with the Śāradā. Further, as regards the Bhagavadgītā portion, the MS, as has been already seen (pp. LXXXIII-LXXXIV), shows a tendency towards the normalizing of grammar and syntax<sup>1</sup>, from which even the other parts of the parvan are not absolutely immune (cf. p. XCV, footnote). Nonetheless, the Śāradā version is free from all the late Northern additions listed on p. XVIII, to which MSS belonging to the K version have fallen a prey. After 6. 116. 3<sup>a</sup>, all editions and all MSS (except Ś; K; G; : s) have inserted 194<sup>a</sup>, which is obviously impossible, as the guls could not have actually and without permission presented the unguents and flower-garlands to Bhīṣma lying on the bed of arrows. Ś<sub>1</sub> (along with K<sub>0-2</sub>) also correctly omits 64*. All this shows the superiority of the Śārādā tradition.

Even the Śārādā version, nevertheless, shows once in a while a tendency towards padding. We may instance in this connection 25*, 35*, 67*, 140*, 141*, 287*, 312*, 417* and 455*, the Śārādā version being, in most of these extra passages, followed by some of the K and D MSS. In 316*, it is followed by the whole of S, but there is little doubt that the insertion is superfluous, inasmuch as no motive is really assignable for its omission in as many as sixteen other MSS. The most noteworthy instance of this, however, is 204*, a set of four Tīṣṭubh stanzas, elaborating the Kṛṣṇa-Bhīṣma encounter on the third day of the battle. This insertion is found only in Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>0-1</sub>.

The intrinsic superiority of the Ś version is best seen, however, in the variant readings that it offers. We give here only a small selection. In 55 29*, Ś<sub>1</sub> alone uses the word वृद्ध, in 6 3 8* (with K<sub>0-1</sub>), the rare word कुड्का, and in 116 47* (with K<sub>0-2</sub> D<sub>2-3</sub> M<sub>4</sub>), the word स्रष्टेय— the words being all appropriate to the context (cf. the Crit. Notes on the passages). In 6 22 13, Ś<sub>1</sub> (with K<sub>0-2</sub>) introduces द्वा (camels) stuck in the mire, in place of the familiar गा (cows) or गजा (elephants), and in 68 19*, Ś<sub>1</sub> (along with K<sub>2</sub>) does not flinch shy of रथसिंहासनव्याघ्रा, seeing that carved tiger-faces were occasional ornamental devices under the royal lion-seats on cars. One of the most happy readings of Ś<sub>1</sub> (shared with K<sub>0-2-3</sub>) is found in 6 55 103*, रजोविक्रीर्गन्धितपद्मनेत्रम् (for °पद्म- or °पद्म-), which correctly describes the slight closure of the eye-lids (पद्म) in the act of powerfully blowing the conch. Similarly too, in 6 103 52*, Ś<sub>1</sub> (along with K<sub>0-2</sub>) reads माधव (in place of भारत or °त), seeing that lines 52<sup>ab</sup>-52<sup>cd</sup> are correctly construed as the result of the deliberation, the sammantranū, arrived at by the Pāṇḍava brothers upon Kṛṣṇa's suggestion.

In the Bhagavadgītā, Ś<sub>1</sub> has on the whole fallen under the influence of the Kashmirian version of the poem. Nevertheless, some of its original readings — although not accepted in the present edition — deserve to be recorded. In 25 3* (BG 3 3*), it alone reads कर्मिणा (for योगिनाम्), in 26 42* (BG 4 42*), कृत्स्न (for हृत्स्थ), in 27 14* (BG 5 14*), नाकर्तृत्व न कर्तृत्व, in 35 17* (BG 13 17*), मध्यग (for विष्टितम्), in 40 18* (BG 18 18*), कर्मवेदना (for °चोदना), and, above all, in 33 11 and 14 (BG 11 11, 14), विष्णु (for देव). This should go to establish to some extent the independence and originality of the version even before it came under the Kashmirian influence.

The MSS of the other versions that Ś<sub>1</sub> (or some other MS of that version) has more less influenced are K<sub>0-1-2</sub> (in part), K<sub>2</sub> (in part) 2 2, K<sub>4</sub>, D<sub>2-3</sub>, D<sub>5</sub> 2, and M<sub>2-4</sub> 2 — in this descending order of the degree of their alliance.

(ii) The Kashmir Version

This version is represented by six MSS, the first three of which (K<sub>0</sub> 1, 2 [in part]), constituting the primary Kashmirian group, show very intimate relationship with the Śāladā version. Thus these MSS, besides giving, as we have seen, most of the characteristic Ś<sub>1</sub> readings, share with it over twenty omissions (p. xvi), about eight additional passages (p. xvii), and a couple of characteristic transpositions (p. xix). The remaining three MSS may be styled the late or secondary Kashmirian group, of which K<sub>4</sub> (which is written in Bengali characters) has come early and largely under the influence of the Bengali version, and so requires to be treated separately. As to the others, K<sub>3</sub> shares one omission (hapl.) with Ś<sub>1</sub> alone (p. xvi), two with K<sub>2</sub> alone (p. xxvi), and five with the majority of MSS from the primary Kashmirian group (p. xxvii). In the matter of additions shared with the primary Kashmirian group, K<sub>3</sub> and K<sub>5</sub> go together, and this is partly the case in the matter also of transpositions (p. xxvii). That K<sub>5</sub> does not give, following in this the ŚK group in general, nearly twenty of the characteristic Late-Northern additions (p. xxviii) shows that the MS, albeit a late comer, definitely belongs to this group.

This late Kashmirian group, however, does not exhibit any outstanding features, and the readings presented are often secondary.

Thus K<sub>3</sub> (with D<sub>2</sub>), by reading, in 41. 73<sup>a</sup>, अनुनीय in place of अनुमानये, and, in 61. 14<sup>d</sup> (with D<sub>2</sub> 8 c), माया तथाविधा in place of मायां तथाविधां, seeks to avoid the necessity of a three-line stanza. In 43. 55<sup>a</sup>, K<sub>3</sub> (with D<sub>2</sub> c) reads तत् कुद् in place of सुतस्तुम्य which exhibits the peculiar Epic use of the Dative case, in 103. 78<sup>d</sup>, K<sub>3</sub> (with D<sub>2</sub>) seeks to normalize the syntax by reading गृहीतेषु (locative) in place of गृहीतेषु, while K<sub>3</sub> s (with D<sub>1</sub> 2 c M<sub>1</sub>) seek, in 105. 14<sup>b</sup>, unnecessarily to do the same by reading स्वसैन्य in place of त्वत्सैन्य. Nor can K<sub>3</sub> s (with D<sub>2</sub> 8 c), reading, in 112. 13<sup>c</sup>, दारयां बहुधा चक्रे in place of बहुधा दारयां चक्रे, and, in 14<sup>c</sup>, विशदिर in place of the normal विशता, be seriously regarded as retaining an archaic usage. — Passing on from the form to the matter of the variant readings, we find that K<sub>3</sub> s (with D<sub>2</sub>), in 22. 8<sup>c</sup>, endeavour to avoid the appearance of gods as the recipients of gifts from Indra, by reading अङ्गुरेभ्य in place of अमरेभ्य and presumably understanding ययौ to mean 'attacked'. K<sub>3</sub>-s (with B<sub>1</sub> D<sub>2</sub> 8 c) substitute, in 75. 49<sup>a</sup>, व्यथित (in place of निहत) to make it clear that Duskarpa was merely struck down, wounded, and not killed. In 98. 36<sup>c</sup>, K<sub>3</sub> (with D<sub>3</sub>) considerably weakens the ऋनादद शोषितेन by the common place सिकाङ्गद शोषितेन †

As to K<sub>4</sub>, since this is the first time that a MS written in Bengali characters is placed under the K group (which generally designates more or less faithful

† In fairness it has to be added that, in 6. 64. 3<sup>r</sup> and in 103. 73<sup>c</sup>, as also in 67. 12<sup>d</sup>, I have accepted as text readings given by K<sub>3</sub>, K<sub>3</sub>p and K<sub>5</sub>. On the other hand, the addition of 20* by K<sub>5</sub> (with D<sub>2</sub>) is unnecessary in view of 6. 6. 6<sup>r</sup>. See Notes to the passages concerned.

Devanāgarī transcripts from Śāradā originals), the case deserves more particular attention. A priori, of course, there is nothing inherently impossible in a MS written in Bengali characters exhibiting the same relationship with the parent Śāradā version as does the MS written in Devanāgarī characters and classed under the Kashmir group namely, a basic agreement with the Śāradā version against the generality of the Devanāgarī (or Bengali) MSS, side by side with occasional and even frequent conflation with other MSS written in the same characters. Now, it is true that there are no omissions, additions or transpositions that K<sub>4</sub> exclusively shares with either Ś<sub>1</sub>, K<sub>0</sub> or K<sub>2</sub>, but we have already given (p. xxix) several instances of additions common to the B version, but absent in K<sub>4</sub> and the ŚK group generally, as well as of additions belonging to K<sub>4</sub> and the ŚK group, but absent in the B group. But this peculiarity of the relationship becomes at once evident when we consider a few typical cases of the individual variants. In the following cases, K<sub>4</sub> sides with ŚK generally against the B version

6 14 5<sup>d</sup>, मीमा गाण्डीवपन्ना (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-1 D<sub>1</sub>) in place of मध्ये मीम शिगण्डिना, 17 10<sup>b</sup>, नृप (Ś<sub>1</sub> K Dn D<sub>0</sub> s) in place of the proper name नृ, 42 7<sup>e</sup>, घोरस्तुमु (Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>4</sub> D<sub>1</sub> G<sub>2</sub>), taking तुमु as a masc noun, in place of घोस्तुमु, 55 2<sup>b</sup>, भारत (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ks-s D<sub>2</sub> s) in place of मज्ज — an agreement in error (1), 55 97<sup>a</sup>, नमादिदेवो (Ś<sub>1</sub> K D<sub>2</sub> s G<sub>1-2</sub> M<sub>2</sub> s), lect fac, in place of नमादिदेवो, 60 50<sup>a</sup>, वेगवण (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-1 D<sub>2</sub> s s), the normal spelling of the K version, in place of वेरावण, 66 22<sup>d</sup>, ततो दुद्धमवतत (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-1 D<sub>3</sub>), the normal chapter-ending, in place of रणे रममवाहना, 79 27<sup>a</sup>, छुडा (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-2 s M<sub>1</sub>), avoiding repetition, in place of गक्र, 80 38<sup>b</sup>, दुर्वाधनम् (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-2 s) in place of दुमपणम्; 85 18<sup>c</sup>, कौरव्य (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-2 s) in place of सकुद्धस्, 85 33<sup>a</sup>, हयै (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-2 s D<sub>3</sub>), incongruous with the following छिने, in place of खजे, 86 16<sup>b</sup>, महाजवा (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-2 s) in place of the more appropriate मनोजवा, 86 67<sup>d</sup>, वेगवान् (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-2 s) in place of the more appropriate मोगान्, 90 16<sup>d</sup>, प्राणुषीव (Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>4</sub> Dn<sub>2</sub> D<sub>2</sub> s T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>2</sub> M<sub>1</sub>) in place of ग्रन्थीव (cf. Note on 89 4<sup>ed</sup>), 90 40<sup>e</sup>, समदृश्यन्त (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-2 s D<sub>1</sub> s M<sub>1-2</sub> s) in place of the syntactically more suited समपश्यन्त, 91 33<sup>d</sup>, पुग्दर (Ko-2 s), tautologous, in place of वारिधारा, 93 27<sup>e</sup>, पीन (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko-2 s D<sub>2</sub> s), a lect fac, in place of शैथ, 99 34<sup>a</sup>, असिसन्वयसघाता (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko s s D<sub>1</sub> s s), tautologous lect fac, in place of सघाता, 108 38<sup>a</sup>, महेंद्रमद्वज (Ś<sub>1</sub> Ko 1 s D<sub>1</sub> s), in place of the better suited ड्येन्द्र

In a very large number of cases, however, K<sub>4</sub> has succumbed to the influence of the Bengali version. We give below a select list

6 2 6<sup>b</sup>, प्तान् (K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> s s), referring to पुत्रान्, in place of पुत्र, which refers to वाल्मयाय, 2 29<sup>a</sup>, गृहीनक्षत्रा क्रोशन्ति (K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> s s) in place of गृहीनक्षत्राभरण, which qualifies शाल्मय, 3 20<sup>a</sup>, नयिषथापात् (K<sub>4</sub> B Da<sub>2</sub> Dn D<sub>1</sub>-s m s), lect fac, in place of अपिधानेभ्य, 3 24<sup>ab</sup>, ग्रन्थाणि चैव राज्ञश्च प्रज्वलन्तीव (K<sub>4</sub> B Da<sub>2</sub> Dn D<sub>1</sub> s s) in place of the astronomical phenomenon in the accepted text, 3 29<sup>b</sup>, एकपक्षे (K<sub>4</sub> B Da D<sub>2</sub>) in place of एकमात्रे, 3 36<sup>d</sup>, वसुधरा (K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> s s) in place of पुन पुन, betraying a misunderstanding of the context, 3 42<sup>b</sup>, चालान् (K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> s s Co), involving repetition with मातङ्गा, in place of बालान्, distinguishing between the द्वापर length of human life (2,000 years) and the present length (100 years) of the same, 18 47<sup>a</sup>, यथोद्दिष्ट, a deliberate improvement, (K<sub>4</sub> B D [except ( iii ) The Bengali Version

As to additions, the Kātyāyanīstava is given by the entire B version, while the Śveta episode is omitted by B<sub>1</sub> 2, but found in B<sub>2</sub> 4. The other additions belong either to the N recension as a whole, or to the usual group of Late-Northern MSS (p xxx). Only two omissions can be said to be exclusive to the version, namely, 6 10 50<sup>c</sup>-51<sup>b</sup> and 88 37<sup>c</sup>-38<sup>b</sup>, but they are not of much consequence. It is the variant readings offered by the B version that indicate its individuality. For instance

In 6 1 27<sup>c</sup>, B reads (with D<sub>1</sub> m) यथावत् in place of the unusual यथापुनः in the sense of यथा पुरा, in 4 12<sup>d</sup>, it reads (with Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> s s) the lect fac न चाधर्मं कर्तुं in place of न कल्पय कर्तुं. In the chapter of omens, in 3 11<sup>b</sup>, it reads (with Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> s s) उदैति च in place of अथाग्रस्तत् which mentions a solar eclipse, in 3 16<sup>b</sup>, समाक्रम्य is the version's exclusive reading in place अपसव्य, which refers to the retrograde motion of the Dhruva star, and in 28<sup>b</sup> (with Da D<sub>1</sub>), कदाचिन्पि, for भूतपूर्वा च. It offers certain variants for proper names such as, in 10 43<sup>a</sup>, कुशुद्राश्च in place of कुशुद्राश्च, in 23 8<sup>d</sup> (with G<sub>1</sub> Cn), जवद्रथ in place of तथैव च, and in 46 51<sup>a</sup> (with Da Dn<sub>1</sub> D<sub>1</sub>), तुहुदाश्च in place of जगत्तुण्डा. Also in 7 53<sup>a</sup>, the version unanimously but erroneously reads ताम्रवर्णशिलो in place of ताम्रवर्ण शिरो, and it falls in a line with D (except D<sub>2</sub> s s) S in reading ससुद्रे in place of पवने. The variant आनर्हत् given by the version in 86 36<sup>c</sup> in place of अगन्तव्य may deserve some consideration as a lect diff, but it has not been supported by the best manuscript authority.

Reference may also be made to the variants given on pp cvii-cviii above, showing the agreements and divergences between K<sub>4</sub> and B. For the rest, the version generally goes with the Late-Northern group. It remains to be pointed out, however, that the MS B<sub>2</sub> from this version shows a more pronounced affinity with the Kashmirian version than the other MSS. See p xxxii above.

( iv ) The Devanāgarī Version

This is not a unitary version. That part of it which is designated Da is expected to give the version of the Bhīṣma upon which Arjunamīśra wrote his Bhāratārthadīpikā and, in the main, the Dīpikā agrees with the Bengali version. This fact, however, becomes manifest not so much from a consideration of the additions, omissions and transpositions that have been detailed on pp xxxiii-xxxiv above, as by a consideration of the common variants. A selection of these was already exhibited when we considered the agreements between K<sub>4</sub> and B. The examples given there abundantly prove the close affinity of Da with B. The point does not need further elucidation.

Dn represents the Vulgate. Nilakantha's text is frankly eclectic, but the MSS the commentator mainly relies upon are Late-Northern, constituting the group K<sub>4</sub> B Da Dn D<sub>1</sub> s s. The frequency with which these MSS in the above sequence recur in the lists of variants cited on pp cvii-cviii is itself an evidence of it. The readings adopted by Nilakantha are mostly secondary. We have, on p xviii, already given a long list of Late-Northern additions which all appear in Dn as well as Da

The composite group of the eight Devanāgarī MSS (other than Da Dn) falls into three sub-groups. The first group is represented by D<sub>1</sub> alone, which, as already pointed out (p xxxvii), shows considerable independence both in its omissions as well as additions. The Kātyāyanīstava and the Śveta episode are both absent from the MS

The second sub-group is represented mainly by MSS. D<sub>2</sub> and D<sub>3</sub> and D<sub>6</sub> (in part). The relation of this group with the late Kashmirian group of MSS has been already illustrated on p xxxix and cvi above. The MSS give neither the Kātyāyanīstava nor the Śveta episode, and thus establish their independence of the Late-Northern tradition. It has to be noted, however, that alliance with the Kashmirian group does not imply the acceptance of the "Kashmirian version" of the Bhagavad-gītā. D<sub>2</sub> alone of the MSS belonging to this sub-group shows this Kashmirian influence in the matter of the text of the BG (see p xi above)

The third sub-group is represented by D<sub>4</sub> alone, which gives both the Kātyāyanīstava and the Śveta episode. The MSS D<sub>5</sub>, while agreeing with D<sub>4</sub> in the main, shows traces of contact with the S recension. It omits the Kātyāyanīstava, but finds place for the Śveta episode. D<sub>7</sub> and D<sub>8</sub> betray sporadic K influence as well as occasional conflation with the S recension (see pp xliii-xliv). They both give the Kātyāyanīstava but omit the Śveta episode

(v) The Telugu Version

T<sub>1</sub> and T<sub>2</sub> represent this version, the first MS showing in places very close affinity with G<sub>4</sub>, just as the second MS has affinity with the M version generally (cf. the variants cited under the M version). As a consequence, neither in the matter of added, omitted and transposed passages (p xlv-xlvi, also p xlviii-xlix) nor in their variant readings, has it been possible to treat the Telugu version as such as distinct from the Grantha version. This will also be seen from the following cases of variant readings given by the TG versions together (with a sporadic MS. or two of the other versions)

6 3 9<sup>a</sup>, उप (or °पा)नर्दति in place of उपरुन्धन्ति, 4 31<sup>a</sup>, सहस्र (with B<sub>1</sub>) in place of समृत्य, 5 15<sup>a</sup>, सप्ता in place of यप्ता, 7 29<sup>a</sup>, सागरोपम in place of नन्दनोपम, 7 41<sup>a</sup>, गत्वा in place of वृद्धा, 7 51<sup>a</sup>, वृत्तिर् (with M<sub>4</sub>) in place of ऋद्धिर्, 8 18<sup>a</sup>, मेरोस्तु (with M<sub>4</sub>) in place of नीलस्य, 12 3<sup>a</sup>, शाकदीप च मे ब्रूहि (with M<sub>2</sub>) in place of ब्रूहि नावलगणे मयि, 12 25<sup>a</sup>, कौच (G<sub>2</sub> शाक)दीपस्य in place of जम्बूदीपेन, 15 72<sup>a</sup>, तथा ग्रस्तानि in place of श्रोष्यामि तानि, 17 2<sup>b</sup>, स्तनित (with M<sub>4</sub>) in place of तदिन, 19 44<sup>a</sup>, आसक्षलतो in place of ससन्त इव, 20 12<sup>a</sup>, वार्धक्षत्र in place of °क्षत्रि, 22 13<sup>b</sup>, यथा गौ (with D<sub>6</sub>) in place of इवोद्गा, 41 22<sup>a</sup>, उपागत in place of प्रयाचक, 42 16<sup>b</sup>, वृषसेनो

† D<sub>2</sub> knows the Stava, which it deliberately rejects, after quoting its first few stanzas

( with M<sub>1</sub> ) in place of विकर्णश्च , 43 38<sup>b</sup>, चेतुश्च in place of नर्दन्तौ च , 44 42<sup>c</sup>, निक्क्रिया in place of निष्क्रुजा , 45 26<sup>d</sup>, अमि( G<sub>3</sub> 'पि )गालयन् in place of 'हर्षयन् , 46 8<sup>d</sup>, भीष्मेणाय जयेप्सुना in place of भीष्माणायजलेऽपुव , 50 54<sup>a</sup>, चित्राणि in place of चर्माणि , 51 30<sup>d</sup>, मयुरे in place of भूतले , 53 22<sup>a</sup>, वोर in place of मौम , 54 3<sup>b</sup>, मुमलै in place of परिष्वै , 61 48<sup>a</sup>, व्यक्ताव्यक्तस्थितस्थाने in place of 'व्यक्तामितस्थान , 72 6<sup>a</sup>, कण्ठेषु in place of कम्पनेषु , 75 34<sup>a</sup>, बाणै in place of जालै , 81 11<sup>c</sup>, यशस्वी in place of मनस्वी , 85 13<sup>b</sup>, हि नजये ( an obvious error ' ) in place of विशा पते , 92 27<sup>d</sup>, किशुका पातिता इव in place of चूता प्रपतिता इव , 92 65<sup>b</sup>, शोणितोद्भित्ति in place of विवभौ नही , 102 76<sup>c</sup>, यथा पङ्कथा in place of इव धुण्णा , 108 35<sup>c</sup>, पादवदयाद in place of पाञ्चाल , 109 35<sup>b</sup>, पट्टम चैव नात्वन in place of पट्टिश्च च महामुन , 117 27<sup>b</sup>, युद्धात् धृतमानस in place of युद्धे प्रीतमना सदा

The version, as belonging to the borderland between the N and the S recensions, shows frequent admixture of both, and offers little that is distinctive or valuable

( vi ) The Grantha Version

The first three of the four MSS that have been selected to represent the Grantha version often go together, as is seen from the number of their common omissions ( p XLVII ) G<sub>4</sub>, where it departs from the Grantha version, is generally seen to ally itself with T<sub>1</sub> ( cf p XLV ) The versions TG together share almost all the characteristics of the S recension as a whole in the matter of omissions, additions and transpositions ( p LIII-LIV ), only T<sub>1</sub>, T<sub>2</sub> and G<sub>4</sub>, both severally as well as jointly, occasionally striking a divergent note As compared with the M version, the joint TG version is distinctly inferior We have already illustrated the relationship of this version with the Āndhra Mahābhārata ( p CIII- CIV )

( vii ) The Malayālam Version

The Malayālam is the primary Southern version Of the five MSS chosen to represent this version, M<sub>3-5</sub> seem to have undergone, in parts, conflation with some Late-Northern MSS , seeing that they all give the Śveta episode. M<sub>1,4</sub> are the rebels of the version they often figure as the exceptions to the lists of omissions and additions found in the entire version ( p XLIX-L ). These are also exactly the MSS which show the ŚK influence ( p. LI-LII ), which is also shown, to a smaller extent, by M<sub>2</sub> ( p LIII ) We have collected a list of over a hundred variant readings peculiar to the Malayālam version which are occasionally shared by T<sub>2</sub> and G<sub>3</sub> but wherein, not infrequently, M<sub>2</sub> and M<sub>4</sub> figure by their absence A section of these readings are variations in geographical names as also in the names of men, animals and weapons etc

Thus, in 6 2 17<sup>b</sup>, M reads कङ्गा in place of कङ्का , in 7 2<sup>c</sup>, समुद्रे पूर्वपश्चिमे in place of समुद्रौ पूर्वपश्चिमौ , in 7 11<sup>a</sup>, वर्षाश्च in place of द्वीपाश्च , in 7 53<sup>a</sup>, ताम्रवर्णा ( or 'णि )शिरोजश्च ( with G<sub>1</sub> ) in place of ताम्रवर्ण शिरो , in 10 20<sup>c</sup>, मिदां in place of मिन्नु , in 10 20<sup>d</sup>, वारिजा in place of वाजिनी , in 10 21<sup>b</sup>, वेण्णा वेगवतीमपि ( without M<sub>3</sub> ) in place of भीमामोघवती तथा , in 10 23<sup>d</sup>, कुधावारां , in place of कुशवारां , in 10 47<sup>a</sup>, बत्सवृद्धा उपावृद्धा in place of उपावृद्धानुपावृद्ध- , in 41 2<sup>a</sup>, पाचाला केकयाश्चैव in place of

पाण्डवा सोमकाक्षैव, in 46 49°, मरुतो (M<sub>3</sub> s °त्तो) in place of मरुका, in 53 18<sup>d</sup>, कणयै कर्णैस्तथा in place of परिधै कर्णनैस्तथा, in 61 51°, मद्भावन in place of उद्भावन, in 74 24<sup>d</sup>, मैनाकमिव पर्वत (with T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>1</sub>) in place of वाष्णिर्मेरुरिवाचलः, in 86 81<sup>d</sup>, सत्यकस्य (without M<sub>2</sub>) in place of मात्वतस्य, in 97 21<sup>ab</sup>, आश्चर्यश्रृंगिस्ततो राजन्वध्यमानो in place of विमुख च ततो रक्षो वध्यमान, in 98 4<sup>d</sup>, द्रोणोयुध्यत पाटव (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of पार्थो वा गुरुमाहवे, in 98 26<sup>a</sup>, सोमदत्त in place of शलक्षैव, in 101 12<sup>b</sup>, मरुद्भिरिव सयुगे (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of गरुत्मद्भिरिवाहवे, in 104 14<sup>d</sup>, कौमल्यश् (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of मौल्यश्, in 106 10<sup>d</sup>, कृतवर्माभ्यवारयत् in place of सौमद्रस्तिर्न्यवारयत्, in 109 41<sup>d</sup>, भीष्म (with T<sub>2</sub>, without M<sub>2</sub>) in place of भीम

Some of the other M variants worth noting are

In 6 2 18<sup>a</sup>, अत्र चानुभविष्यति in place of अत्युग्र च प्रपश्यन्ति, in 3 23<sup>b</sup>, दिवि in place of निर्दिश, in 4 6<sup>b</sup>, कुलधर्मात् (with T<sub>2</sub> G<sub>2</sub>) in place of °धर्म, in 4 8<sup>a</sup>, सुतेनासि (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of परेणासि, in 5 17<sup>a</sup>, औद्भिदा in place of उद्भिजा, in 7 4<sup>d</sup>, नवसाहस्र उच्यते (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of योजनानि सहस्रश, in 7 50<sup>b</sup>, नव वर्षाणि (without M<sub>3</sub>) in place of सप्त वर्षाणि, in 7 50<sup>a</sup>, भूतैरुपनिविष्टानि (without M<sub>1</sub>), simplified syntax, in place of भूतान्युप°, in 9 20°, लोकान् in place of सर्व, in 10 35<sup>d</sup>, महानला (with G<sub>2</sub>), said of rivers, in place of °वला, in 13. 35°, अविच्छिन्ना, a lect fac, in place of असबाधा, in 14 12<sup>a</sup>, समुद्र in place of स शक्र, in 15 57<sup>b</sup>, युद्धार्णवविमोक्षण (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of महद्दुःखमचिन्तयन्, in 19 4°, सहतान्योषयेत् (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of महतान्योषयेत्, in 19 44<sup>a</sup>, चचाल हृदय चैव (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of ससन्त इव मज्जानो, in 22 13<sup>b</sup>, यथा गजा (with K<sub>4</sub>) in place of श्वोष्ट्रा, in 38 11<sup>b</sup>, अपाश्रिता (with D<sub>2</sub> G<sub>2</sub>, without M<sub>2</sub>) in place of उपाश्रिता, in 41 70<sup>d</sup>, गच्छ युध्यस्व शशुभि in place of सत्यमेतद्भवीमि ते, in 43 38<sup>a</sup>, हृष्टौ (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of क्रुद्धौ, in 45 52<sup>b</sup>, विद्वत् (M<sub>1</sub> °त) in place of विद्वत्, in 47 27<sup>a</sup>, विनात (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of शैव्यक्ष, in 50 55<sup>b</sup>, रथचक्राणि चाभिभू in place of शस्त्रैश्च विमलैस्तथा, in 50 73<sup>b</sup>, शस्त्रवृष्टिं दुरासदा in place of शस्त्रवृष्टिं समुत्थिताम्, in 52 22<sup>d</sup>, रौद्रमासीत्तदा वपु (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of तव तेषा च भारत, in 56 8<sup>d</sup>, शत्रुवरूथिनीना (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of सर्वसपत्नयूनाम्, in 58 9<sup>a</sup>, पर चक्रे (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of अपश्याम, in 59 22<sup>a</sup>, नैमिषोपेण in place of मेघ°, in 60 62<sup>d</sup>, ऊर्जिता in place of अच्युता, in 67 1<sup>b</sup>, पाण्डवान् (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of पार्थिवान्; in 68 18<sup>c</sup>, तथासौ रथिना गण in place of तत्र तत्र रणाङ्गणम्, in 75 24<sup>c</sup>, विवि (M<sub>2</sub> °व्या) धायुधनिस्वनै in place of विचित्रायुधनिस्स्रुतै, in 76 2<sup>b</sup>, भोजयित्वा (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of पूज°, in 79. 19°, सुधामन्युरथ (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of दिवाकरपथ, in 79 44<sup>d</sup>, भ्रातृकारणात् (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of मातृकारणात्, in 81 33<sup>b</sup>, समरे त जघान (the last two words with K<sub>5</sub> D<sub>2</sub>, without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of गदया तर्जमान, in 88 12<sup>c</sup>, चक्रमणे in place of [अ]पक्रमणे, in 90 37°, तेमवन्विमुखा राजन् in place of येऽभवन्नग्रत क्रुद्धा, in 91 27°, विरेदुर्, a very appropriate verb, in place of विभिदुर्, in 91 32<sup>b</sup>, स त्रिधा (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of सप्तधा; in 92 15<sup>d</sup>, वा (M<sub>2</sub> s व) सव दानवो यथा in place of वसवो वासव यथा, in 92 24<sup>a</sup>, लब्धसशस्ततोत्थाय in place of तत सुनिशितान्पीतान्, in 92 72<sup>a</sup>, नृपतिच्छत्रै (with G<sub>2</sub>) in place of अर्धचन्द्रैश्च, in 97 10<sup>d</sup>, धोरूपौ दुरासदौ (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of यथा वै देवदानवौ, in 99 1<sup>a</sup>, पूर्वदि (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of मध्याह्ने, in 101. 33<sup>d</sup>, लब्धमाने (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of द्योतमाने, in 103 33°, स्थालकृत्य (sio) प्रदास्येह in place of मासान्युत्कृत्य वै दद्याम्, in 104 40°, अनावलोकयन्क्रुद्ध in place of अनिच्छन्नपि मक्रुद्ध, in 107 54°, यायात् (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of हन्यात्, in 110 15°, कीर्णै (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of मयै, in 112 57<sup>b</sup>, पर्वतप्रमम् (with T<sub>2</sub>) in place of रजतोपमम्, in 112 111<sup>d</sup>, प्रससार (without M<sub>1</sub>) in place of प्रसथाय, in 117 7<sup>a</sup>, राधेय जिष्णुरहिते in place of रहित शिष्यमालोक्य, in 117 33°, शक्ति, lect fac, (with D<sub>2</sub>) in place of शक्ति

Although not many of these M variants are as distinctive and significant as that in 91 15*, still, in their mass, they are evidence enough to prove that M has a textual tradition of its own, which shows little alliance with TG and not very much with N

THE RECENSIONS OF THE BHĪSMAPARVAN

The seven versions of the text-tradition of the Bhīsmaparvan that we have thus far studied group themselves into two main recensions—the Northern consisting of the first four versions and the Southern including the last three. As we did not have any MSS written in the Nepālī<sup>1</sup> and Maithilī scripts, there was not—as there was in the case of the Sabhāparvan—any group of versions to be designated the North-eastern as contrasted with the North-western including the Śāradā and the Kashmirian versions. But as the Bengali forms an important version of the North-eastern group, if one were to judge by the showing of the Bengali version of the Bhīsmaparvan, —which is a Late-Northern version—it can be said that, so far as the present parvan is concerned, the main recensions are only two, and not three, as was assumed for the Sabhāparvan.

There are some thirty-two additional passages (a total of 64 lines) presented by the entire Northern recension (omitting the Bhagavadgītā), with the exclusion or inclusion of a few sporadic MSS

163*, 166*, 176*, 191*, 196*, 197* (not in B<sub>1-3</sub> D<sub>1</sub>), 209*, 210*, 215*, 227*, 229*, 233*, 239*, 241*, 246*, 247*, 273*, 275*, 276*, 277*, 279*, 285*, 314*, 338*, 339*, 341*, 345*, 346*, 348*, 378*, 380* (not in B<sub>1-2-4</sub> D<sub>1</sub> & 7, present in T<sub>1</sub> G), 433*, 505* (both with TG)

The Early-Northern group gives fifteen extra passages (a total of 35 lines)

25*, 35*, 36*, 67*, 69*, 140*, 141*, 202*, 204*, 287*, 312*, 316*, 417*, 455*, 508*, while the Late-Northern group as a whole gives—besides the two major additions of the Kātyāyanīstava and the Śveta episode (Appendix I, Nos 1 and 4)—thirty-two added passages (a total of 43½ lines)

10*, 11*, 12*, 39*, 40*, 43*, 44*, 51*, 52*, 53*, 55*, 73*, 84*, 142*, 187* (with M), 222*, 228*, 294*, 318*, 343*, 447*, 457*, 465* (with TG), 467* (with M), 469*, 482*, 490*, 503*, 504*, 507*, 509*, 510*

The additions presented by the M version are listed on p LIX, and they are responsible for not more than 24 lines, of which only passage 459* of eight extra lines describing Bhīma's exploits on the battlefield is of some consequence. Those presented by TG generally are listed on p XLVIII, and they would add a total of 60

<sup>1</sup> There was indeed a good Nepālī MS for the Bhagavadgītā, but the Gītā has a peculiar text tradition of its own, and we cannot generalize from it about the parvan as a whole lines in all. The additions by the S recension as a whole is a formidable list (pp LIII-LIV) of no less than 260 lines. The added stuff is mainly repetitious. Some of the added lines are substitute lines, but allowing for them and for the genuine omissions found in the entire S recension (which cover about 24 lines), the recension, as is clear, betrays a tendency towards inflation, which, in the other recension, is much subdued.

The transposition, in the S recension, of the guru-abhigamana chapter (41) placed in the N recension after the Bhagavadgītā, to the position immediately preceding the Bhagavadgītā is worth noting. This change of place cannot of course be construed as an argument against the originality and authenticity of the Bhagavadgītā as an integral part of the present Mahābhārata. The battle in fact could only commence after Arjuna's doubts had been satisfied. There could therefore be no battle—and consequently no approach to the gurus to ask for their permission and blessings—until after the Bhagavadgītā. This is the line of argument in favour of the position of chapter 41 as in the N recension. This presupposes, however, that Yudhiṣṭhira, who initiates the guru-abhigamana, may have had a dim foreboding of Arjuna's being invaded by scruples. To avoid such a contingency, which would however go against 6.21.1-11, the guru-abhigamana could have been placed in the S recension before the Bhagavadgītā. It must nevertheless be noted that the opening stanzas of the Bhagavadgītā would hardly fit in after the successful termination of the episode in chapter 41.

Most of the cases where the Southern recension uniformly gives a variant reading differing from that of the Northern are normally indicated in the text by the convenient device of the wavy line. It would be easy, therefore, to see how the accepted text, in a large number of cases, is intrinsically superior to the rejected readings.

The complicated inter-relations between the versions, recensions and individual MSS that we have given in detail so far are graphically illustrated in the following Pedigree, where it will be noticed that the actual MSS have subscript numbers (Ś<sub>1</sub> K<sub>2</sub> B<sub>3</sub> D<sub>4</sub> M<sub>5</sub> Da<sub>1</sub> Dn<sub>2</sub>), while their hypothetical ancestors have subscript letters (Ś<sub>B</sub> Ś<sub>D</sub> Ś<sub>M</sub> D<sub>S</sub> M<sub>S</sub>), where the secondary letters denote the versions with which the major version is secondarily related. The connecting dotted lines indicate the direction of conflation. The upper or lower position assigned to the MSS and to the versions in the chart has a rough chronological bearing. The Pedigree begins with the Bhārata of Vyāsa-Vaisampāyana (1.1.9, 57, 61) of 24,000 stanzas (उपाख्यानं विना) — That Vyāsa's original work was called the Jaya is only a surmise. Between Sūta's (or Sauti's) Mahābhārata शतसाहस्री सहित<sup>1</sup> and the Ur-Mahābhārata — the hypothetical ancestor of the present-day Mbh MSS — the poem must have undergone, in the course of oral transmission, a few further modifications and additions. All this uncertainty of text-transmission is indicated by the dotted-cum-wavy lines.

<sup>1</sup> Attributed honoris causa to Vyāsa himself. It took three years in composition (1.56.13, 32).

THE PARVASAMGRAHA DATA FOR THE BHĪSMAPARVAN

In the Ādiparvan, 2. 154-159, the following are enumerated as the contents of the Bhīmaparvan

अत ऊर्ध्वं विचित्रार्थं भीष्मपर्वं प्रचक्षते ।
 जम्बूखण्डविनिर्माणं यत्रोक्तं सजयेन ह ॥ १५४
 यत्र युद्धसम्भूदोरे दशाहान्यतिदारुणम् ।
 यत्र यौधिष्ठिरं मन्य विपादमगमत्परम् ॥ १५५
 कश्मलं यत्र पार्थस्य वासुदेवो महामतिः ।
 मोहजं नाशयामास हेतुभिसोक्षदर्शनं ॥ १५६
 शिखण्डिनं पुरस्कृत्य यत्र पार्थो महाधनुः ।
 विनिघ्नञ्जिशितैर्नागै रथाद्भीष्ममपातयत् ॥ १५७
 पृथमेतन्महापर्वं भारते परिकीर्तितम् ।
 अत्रायानां शतं प्रोक्तं सप्त[५] अष्टा[८] दश तथापरे ॥ १५८
 पञ्च श्लोकसहस्राणि सख्ययाष्टौ शतानि च ।
 श्लोकाश्च चतुराशीति पर्वण्यस्मिन्प्रकीर्तिताः ।
 व्यासेन वेदविदुषा सख्याता भीष्मपर्वणि ॥ १५९

After st 156 above, the following additional stanzas are found in some MSS .

142* समीक्ष्याधोक्षजं क्षिप्रं युधिष्ठिरहिते रतः ।
 रथादासुत्य वेगेन स्वयं कृष्ण उदारधीः ।
 प्रतोदपाणिराधावद्भीष्मं हन्तुं व्यपेतमी ।
 वाक्यप्रतोदाभिहतो यत्र कृष्णेन पाण्डवः ।
 गाण्डीवधन्वा समरे सर्वशस्त्रभृतां वरः ।

As to this addition, it will be noted that the passage refers to the Kṛṣṇa-Bhīṣma encounter on the ninth day of the battle (chapter 102 30-70), and not to its later more ornate reduplication on the third day (55 63-102). It is also worth noting that there is no reference in the above Parvasamgraha extract to the Bhīṣmapर्व (chapters 12-13), which might have been intended to be subsumed under the जम्बूखण्डविनिर्माणपर्व.

Earlier, in the Parvasamgraha list of one hundred topics, we have the following items (2 54<sup>a</sup>-56<sup>a</sup>)

[ अम्बोपाख्यानमपि च पर्वं ज्ञेयमतः परम् । ]
भीष्माभिषेचनं पर्वं ज्ञेयमद्भुतकारणम् ॥ ५४
 जम्बूखण्डविनिर्माणं पूर्वोक्तं तदनन्तरम् ।
 भूषिपर्वं ततो ज्ञेयं द्वीपविस्तरकीर्तनम् ॥ ५५
 पूर्वोक्तं भगवद्गीता पर्वं भीष्मवधस्ततः ।
 [ श्रेणाभिषेकं पूर्वोक्तं सशप्तकवधस्ततः ॥ ५६ ]

This enumeration, it will be observed, includes the Bhūmaparvan, which we actually find in the current text, but which the subsequent and more detailed list altogether ignores, but it also includes the Bhismābhisekana of which there is no trace in any extant MSS of the Bhīṣmaparvan. It would accordingly seem that, if this sub-parvan ever existed, the MSS G<sub>1</sub> 3, M<sub>1</sub> 4, T<sub>1</sub> G<sub>1</sub> (which read this sub-parvan amongst the contents of the Udyogaparvan) are, on the whole, more correct, as the appointment of the first Senāpati really belongs to the Udyoga stage of the war.<sup>1</sup>

We are, however, more interested in the total of chapters (117 or 118) and of stanzas (5,884) stated as constituting the full extent of the Bhīṣmaparvan. "Officially", an Anuṣṭubh (as also a Tristubh or any other) stanza of two or four or even six pādas, — whether the pādas are regular, hypermetric or sub-metric — counts as one stanza. If, however, a group of thirty-two syllables is held to be the mathematical equivalent of a stanza, and if, not only the prose portions of the epic, but even the 'uvāca' references and the colophons at the end of the chapters are to be included in this mathematical pool, it is obvious that there would be considerable discrepancy between the 'official' and the 'mathematical' total of the stanzas comprised within a parvan.

In an interesting paper contributed to the Journal of the American Oriental Society, Vol 66 (1946), No 2, pp 110-117, Dr D D Kosambi puts forth the view that the Parvasamgraha total was arrived at by a careful computation of the entire extent of the epic as it was then actually available into "mathematical" stanzas. I have fully discussed the pros and cons of the view in another place<sup>2</sup>, and have come to the conclusion that no case is really made out for the supposition that the Parvasamgraha totals were based upon any method of count other than the official. The Parvasamgraha totals of chapters and stanzas are in fact attested to by three independent sources, which date from 950 A D to 1150 A D, namely, (1) the Old-Javanese Parvasamgraha as given by Juynboll's Ādiparvan, Oudjavaansche prozageschryft, 1906, where the introductory Sanskrit stanza enumerates 18 books<sup>3</sup>, but where the actual adhyāya and the stanza totals are given (p 5-6) for only 17 books (omitting the Śānti), (2) the Āndhra Mahābhārataṃ, which lists the nominal 18 parvans with slightly varying śloka-totals for each, and (3) Devabodha's commentary on the Ādiparvan, which is generally confirmatory of the traditional data except in the case of the Anuśāsana, for which only 1,506 ślokas are mentioned. To these three, the Bhāratamañjarī of Ksemendra (which, however, does not give the totals for adhyāyas and ślokas) can be added as a supplementary source. As far as the Bhīṣmaparvan is concerned, all these sources give 117 as the number of adhyāyas and 5,884 as the number of "official" stanzas. The Critical Edition actually gives 117 chapters and 5,406 "official" stanzas. By Professor Kosambi's method, the (mathematical) stanzas would be 5,828.09<sup>1</sup>, but, as I have tried to show in the paper cited above, there does not appear to be much justification for importing this mathematical finesse into the Parvasaṃgraha stanza-totals.

CONTENTS OF THE BHĪSMAPARVAN

The Bhīsmaparvan is the first of the six war-books of the epic, recording the events of the first ten out of the eighteen days of the fight, under the lead of Bhīṣma, the Generalissimo of the Kauravas, after whom the book gets its name. The happenings of the several fighting days are here tabulated for easy reference.

First Day Adhy 16-45

Samjaya describes the disposition of the forces on both sides. The sight of the outnumbering Kaurava army fills Yudhiṣṭhira with a sense of dejection. Arjuna revives Yudhiṣṭhira's drooping spirits by emphasizing the righteousness of their own cause (6 21-17). Later, Arjuna is himself invaded by doubts which Kṛṣṇa dispels by the well-known philosophical poem, the Bhagavadgītā (6 23-40).

Before commencing fighting, the Pāṇdavas proceed to ask permission and blessings from Bhīṣma, Drona and other elders (6 41). Yuyutsu comes over to the Pāṇdava side.

The fighting commences. The Pāṇdavas adopt the वज्रव्यूह formation to oppose the Kaurava vyūha which has not been specifically named. The pent-up emotions on both sides express themselves in thousands of duel-fights (6 43) followed by an all-in indiscriminate fighting (सकुल्युद्ध, 6 44). In the afternoon, Śalya kills Uttara, the Virāṭa prince, Abhimanyu engages Bhīṣma, Kṛpa, Kṛtavarma and others, but the honours of the day indisputably remain with the Kauravas.

Second Day Adhy 46-51

The Pāṇdavas, taken aback, plan their attack in a कौब्र or कौब्राण vyūha, which the Kauravas oppose by a महाव्यूह. Arjuna and Bhīṣma fight on equal terms (6 48). Also encounters between Drona and Dhrīṣṭadyumna, between Bhīma and Śrutāyu the Kalinga king, whose son, Śakīadeva, is killed by Bhīma, and later the Kalinga king himself, and between other opponents (6 50). The day on the whole goes well with the Pāṇdavas.

Third Day Adhy 52-55

The Kauravas arrange their forces in a गरुडव्यूह, the Pāṇdavas in an अर्धचन्द्रव्यूह, and a fierce and bloody battle ensues. Bhīma wounds Duryodhana with an arrow which throws him into a swoon, the charioteer quickly taking Duryodhana off the battlefield.

There ensues a general rout in the Kaurava army, Abhimanyu, Sātyaki and Arjuna causing a great havoc. Duryodhana recovers and tries to restore order, and blames Bhīma for his apathy. Bhīma replies that the Pāṇḍavas are really invincible, but he will try his best. Bhīma proves true to his word, and the battle goes very much adversely for the Pāṇḍavas. It is now Kṛṣṇa's turn to rate Arjuna for his lukewarm fighting. Arjuna makes a spirited display for a while, but is unable to give an effective opposition to Bhīma. Thereupon Kṛṣṇa leaps down from the chariot and, with the discus Sudarśana in hand, rushes towards Bhīma, who, in reverence, welcomes Kṛṣṇa's move. In the meanwhile, Arjuna leaps down and runs after Kṛṣṇa and, promising to mend matters, forces Kṛṣṇa to return to the charioteer's seat. Arjuna keeps his promise and things again fare worse for the Kauravas. The armies withdraw for the night, leaving the honours of the day with the Pāṇḍava side.

Fourth Day Adhy 56-64

The previous day's fight continues with the same disposition of forces. There ensues a द्वैत or duel-fight from chariots between Bhīma and Arjuna on more or less equal terms (cf 6 48). The hero of the day, however, is Bhīma, who, though wounded by Duryodhana and for a while thrown into a swoon, quickly recovers and, mace in hand and ably seconded by Sātyaki, smites down the elephant-force of Bhagadatta, and kills eight of the fourteen sons of Dhṛtarāṣṭra pitted against him—namely, Senāpati, Susena, Jalaśamdhā, Sulocana, Ugra, Bhīmaratha, Bhīma and Bhīmabāhu. The Kaurava forces try to concentrate their attack upon Bhīma, but his son Ghatotkaca with his demoniac Mōyā throws the Kauravas into utter confusion, waxing stronger with the approaching dusk, so that Bhīma had to order cessation of fighting for the day.

During the night Duryodhana demands of Bhīma an explanation for the happenings of the day. Bhīma replies by narrating the Vīśvopākhyāna, and proclaiming Arjuna and Kṛṣṇa as incarnations of Nara and Nārāyaṇa. Further inquiries (adhy 63) by Duryodhana as to the nature of Vāsudeva, which Bhīma satisfies, concluding with a special eulogy of Vāsudeva (adhy 64), and suggesting peace with the Pāṇḍavas.

Fifth Day Adhy 65-70

Bhīma arranges the Kaurava forces in a सकम्बूह, to which the Pāṇḍavas reply by a द्वेनम्बूह. Duryodhana now approaches Drona for advice and assistance. Numerous duels, amongst them, the following

|                             |                             |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------------|
| Bhīma v Bhīma'       | Vikarna v Sahadeva   |
| Drona v Sātyaki      | Aśvatthāman v Arjuna |
| Jayadratha v Bhīma   | Lakṣmana v Abhimanyu |
| Sālyā v Yudhishthira | Bhūmśravas v Sātyaki |

The ten sons of Sātyaki are slain by Bhūmśravas. At one time Śikhandin tries to engage Bhīma, but the latter declines to fight with him. Stereotyped accounts of further fighting.

Sixth Day Adhy 71-75

This day the Pāṇḍavas adopt the सकम्बूह with which the Kauravas had fought successfully the day before. The Kauravas oppose it by the सङ्घात which had brought victory to the Pāṇḍavas on the second day. Each side succeeds in routing the vyūha of the opponent, but neither makes much headway. Bhīma, however, penetrates deeper into the Kaurava army, assisted by Dhr̥ṣṭadyumna, who uses the प्रमोहनास्त्र and throws the enemy into stupor, from which they are rescued by Drona's प्रणय. There ensues a fight between Drona and Dhr̥ṣṭadyumna which is followed by those between Abhimanyu and his brothers on one side, and, on the other, their opponents of the same age and status in the Kaurava army (75-22) including also some sons of Dhṛtarāṣṭra. There are numerous minor incidents and casualties.

Seventh Day Adhy 76-82

Before the commencement of the day's battle, Duryodhana again expostulates with Bhīma and urges him to fight more effectively. Bhīma agrees to do his best, but again reminds Duryodhana of the invincibility of the Pāṇḍavas.

Bhīma arranges the सङ्घात for the Kauravas which the Pāṇḍavas oppose by the वज्रव्यूह. There ensue encounters between—

Drona v Virāṭa (resulting in the death of Śaṅkha, the son of Virāṭa)

Aśvatthāman v Śikhandin (Śikhandin worsted),

Alambusa v Sātyaki (Sātyaki uses the रथनाश and destroys Alambusa's Māyā and forces him to fly away),

Duryodhana v Dhr̥ṣṭadyumna (Duryodhana overwhelmed)

Kṛtavarman v Bhīma (Bhīma triumphant)

Vinda-Anuvinda v Irāvāt (Irāvāt victorious),

Bhagadatta v Ghaṭotkaca (Ghaṭotkaca defeated),

Śalya v Nakula-Sihadeva (Śalya faints away),

Śrutāyus v Yudhishthira (Yudhishthira triumphant),

Kṛpa v Cekitāna (equal),

Bhūmishravas v Dhṛṣṭaketu (equal)

Finally, Abhimanyu overwhelms a number of Dhṛtarāṣṭra's sons who concentrate their attacks against Abhimanyu. Arjuna goes to his son's help. Bhīma appears on the scene, assisted by Duryodhana and others. Yudhishthira blames Śikhandin for not yet attempting to carry out his declared intention of killing Bhīma. There ensues fighting between Bhīma and Yudhishthira, in which the latter is worsted, so that the fortunes of the day seem to favour now the one side and now the other.

Eighth Day Adhy 83-94

Bhīma arranges for the day an ocean-resembling सङ्घात, to which the Pāṇḍavas reply with a सङ्घात. Bhīma kills many Somaka and Sr̥ṅjaya warriors. Bhīma kills Bhīma's charioteer and slays in battle eight brothers of Duryodhana named Sunūbha, Aparājita, Kundadhara, Panditaka, Viśālākṣa, Mahodara, Ādityaketu, and Bahvāsini. Duryodhana again makes complaint to Bhīma, who replies as before. An element of the miraculous is introduced by Irāvāt, Arjuna's son born of a Nāga princess, who uses a team of flying horses, engages with and kills five of the six sons of Śakuni, for a while resists the wily Āśyaśrīṅgi, but ultimately perishes at the latter's hand. Thereupon Ghatotkaca appears on the scene and causes by his Māyā considerable havoc in the Kaurava forces. Duryodhana rushes against Ghatotkaca, and succeeds in killing Vidyujihva, one of the lieutenants of Ghatotkaca. At Bhīma's and Drona's instance, assistance is rushed to Duryodhana now engaged in a fierce combat with Ghatotkaca, while Bhīma backs his son. Again the Kaurava forces lose ground and Duryodhana expresses his bitter disappointment to Bhīma, who advises Duryodhana not to endanger his own person. Bhagadatta is now set against Ghatotkaca. Arjuna appears on the scene and learns of the death of Irāvāt.<sup>1</sup> Bhīma, however, ably seconds Ghatotkaca. Duryodhana for a time stoutly resists Bhīma, wounding him deeply. Drona urges assistance to Duryodhana, but is himself wounded and swoons away. Aśvatthāman and Abhimanyu rush in to help their respective sides, but the Pāndavas still continue to be the masters. Bhagadatta with his troop-elephants comes in to the rescue, but is beaten back by Ghatotkaca. Bhīma succeeds in killing nine more sons of Dhṛtarāṣṭra: Vyūdhirāṣa, Kundalin, Anādhṛsti, Kundabhedā, Vairāta, Dīrghalocana, Dīrghabāhu, Subāhu and Kanakadhvaja. The battle rages fiercely on both the sides and was not concluded when withdrawal of the troops for the day was ordered.

There follows a night-conference between Duryodhana, Śakuni, Karna and Duḥśāsana, at which Karna suggests that Bhīma might be asked to give place to Karna. Duryodhana with his brothers visits Bhīma's camp and gives Bhīma the ultimatum. Bhīma replies that the Pāndavas have already proved their invincibility on several occasions. Nevertheless, he would exert his utmost the next day, fighting all except Śikhandin, the woman changed into man.

Ninth Day Adhy 95-103

The Kauravas arrange their forces into the सर्वतोमद्रव्यूह, the Pāndavas, the invincible महाव्यूह, the former concentrating all efforts upon protecting Bhīma. Abhimanyu and the five sons of Draupadī open the attack, which is met by Āśyaśrīṅgi, the wily Raksas. The wives of the demon are opposed by the celestial weapons of Arjuna's son, who triumphs in the end. Bhīma joins the fray, being opposed by Arjuna. An astra-fight between Arjuna and Drona. Other fighters include Sātyaki versus Aśvatthāman, Bhīma versus the Bāhlika king, Yudhiṣṭhira versus Śaiya. Bhīma kills 14,000 warriors and causes great havoc. Kṛṣṇa urges Arjuna not to slacken his efforts, but Arjuna not responding properly, Kṛṣṇa leaps from the chariot, the charioteer's whip in hand, and rushes upon Bhīma, who welcomes Kṛṣṇa. Once more, as on the third day, Arjuna runs after Kṛṣṇa and compels him to resume the charioteer's seat. All concentrate the attack against Bhīma, who gives an effective reply to all except Śikhandin, whom he ignores altogether howsoever provoked. Arjuna does not, however, fare well after his promise to Kṛṣṇa, as he does on the third day. Withdrawal of the forces for the day.

<sup>1</sup> There is interposed here (6.92.1-12) a conversation between Arjuna and Kṛṣṇa somewhat reminiscent of the Bhagavadgītā 1.28-2.37.

Early next morning, princes and people gather to minister to Bhīṣma's convenience. Bhīṣma spurns all ministrations to his bodily comfort and only asks for suitable water to drink. He, however, rejects ordinary water, whereupon Arjuna causes water to spring up from the earth by means of an arrow-shot. This gladdens Bhīṣma, who warmly praises Arjuna for his prowess. Finally, he calls upon Duryodhana to cease hostilities and make his peace with the Pāṇdavas. Then he becomes silent, and those that had assembled there return to their respective camps.

The next visitor of Bhīṣma is Karna, who comes to solicit Bhīṣma's permission to carry on the fight. Bhīṣma is touched, asks Karna to join the Pāṇdavas who were really his brothers. But on Karna not relishing the proposal, Bhīṣma permits him to fight. Karna thereupon returns to Duryodhana.

SAMJAYA'S DIVYA-DRṢṬI

The above account of the Bhāratā war is narrated to the blind old Dhṛtarāṣṭra by Samjaya, whom sage Vyāsa had specifically endowed for the purpose with the divya-drṣṭi or "eye divine" in order to ensure the correctness of his observation and narration (6.2.9-12). This does not mean—as is apt to be imagined—that Samjaya could dispense with an actual visit to the battlefield. There is ample evidence to show that Samjaya took part in the actual day-to-day fighting and war-councils. The divya-drṣṭi only enabled the onlooker, once his physical eye alighted upon a given object, to discover, by concentration upon the object, all the secrets connected with it. The narration to Dhṛtarāṣṭra must have taken place normally after Samjaya's return upon the conclusion of each day's happenings.

In chapter 14 of the Bhīṣmaparvan, we are, however, told that Samjaya comes back from the battlefield only after the fall of Bhīṣma, there being absolutely no news of the battle for Dhṛtarāṣṭra during the first ten days. There ensues a similar gap in war-news for the poor old king from the beginning of the eleventh day to the end of the fifteenth day, and once again from the beginning of the sixteenth day to the end of the seventeenth day. This in itself is very improbable, and is glaringly contradicted by a statement in the Dronaparvan (B. 7.85.5-20) where, in the course of a narration supposedly made by Samjaya in the night of the fifteenth day of the battle, Dhṛtarāṣṭra is made to inquire, why "to-day" in the morning, i.e., the fourteenth day of the battle, he heard sounds of grief in the night-camps of certain Kaurava-warriors. I have discussed this and other allied questions connected with Samjaya's divya-drṣṭi in a paper contributed to the Annals of the B. O. R. I., Vol. xxvii, pages 310-331, where I have come to the conclusion that Bhīṣmaparvan chapters 14-15, Dronaparvan chapters 8-11 (B), and Karnaparvan chapters 1-9 (B), which seriously upset the sequential narration of the war-events, embody a narration-trick superimposed by some latter-day Vyāsaid upon the original day-to-day war accounts of Samjaya, and are therefore best treated as hors d'œuvre.

BHĪṢMAPARVAN COSMOGRAPHY

Samjaya's account of the war-events is preceded by a description of the traditional Cosmography of the Earth's seven dvīpas or continents namely, Sudaiśanadvīpa alias Jambūkhanda ( 6 6 12-16 ), Śākadvīpa ( 6 12 8-37 ), Kuśadvīpa ( 6 13 9-15 ), Krauñcadvīpa ( 6 13 17 ), Śālmadvīpa ( 6 13 6 ), Gomanda ( 6 13 6 ), and Puskaradvīpa ( 6 13 24 ), of the oceans bounding and separating the dvīpas namely, Lavana ( 6 12 6 ), Ksira ( 6 12 9 ), Ghrta ( 6 13 2<sup>a</sup> ), Dadhimanda ( 6 13 2' ), Surā ( 6 13 2<sup>c</sup> ), and Gharma ( 6 13 2' )—no seventh ocean being named, since the outermost dvīpa is bounded by a vast plain ( samā ), where the four elephant guardians of the quarters are stationed ( 6 13 32-37 ), of the vaiśa-making mountains in each dvīpa namely, Himavat, Hemakūṭa, Nisadha, Nila, Śveta and Śingavat ( six only ) as belonging to the Jambūdvīpa ( all enumerated in 6 7 3 )—Meru, Malaya, Jaladhāra, Raivataka, Śyāma, Durga and Kesari as belonging to the Śākadvīpa ( 6 12 13-21 )—Sudhāman, Hema, Dyutimat, Puspavat, Kuśeśaya and Hari ( six only ) as belonging to Kuśadvīpa ( 6 13 9-11 )—Krauñca, Vāmanaka, Andhakāraka, Maināka, Govinda and Nibida ( six only ) as belonging to the Krauñcadvīpa ( 6 13 17-19 )—there being no mountains enumerated for Śālmā and Gomanda dvīpas, and only one mountain, the Puskarā, for the seventh dvīpa of the same name, of the vaiśas or countries situated between the mountains, with a somewhat legendary description of their inhabitants namely, Bhārata, Haimavata, Haimvaiśa ( all three in 6 7 6 ), Ilāvṛta ( 6 7 36 ), Ramanaka<sup>1</sup> ( 6 9 2 ), Haimavata ( 6 9 5 ), Anāvata ( 6 9 10 ), the S recension, following the Purāṇas, introducing Bhadrāśva, Hiranmaya and Kuruvarśa of 30*, 38*

The vaiśa with which man is directly associated is the Bhāratavaiśa, whose seven " kulaparvatas " or main mountain-ranges as also 161 rivers and 228 peoples are enumerated at a stretch ( 6 10 10, 13-34, 37-68 ), without any attempt to arrange and classify the latter by the direction of their flow or locating them by quarters. All this comprehends the Earth. Then there are the planets, the only ones mentioned being

Svaibhānu or Rāhu ( 6 13 39ff ), the Moon ( 6 13 42 ), the Sun ( 6 13 43-44 )

All this description is marked by occasional lacunæ, is rather confused and exhibits no logical or orderly sequence, contrasting in that respect somewhat unfavourably with the accounts in the Purāṇas like the Brahmandā, Vāyu, Matsya, Varāha and others, to which parallel references are given in the Critical Apparatus. W. Kufel, in his pioneering work, Die Kosmographie der Inder ( 1920 ) and in Bhāratavarśa ( 1931 )

would seem to imply the conclusion, which is directly formulated by his pupil, L Hilgenberg in her dissertation Die Kosmographische Episode im Mahābhārata und Padmapurāṇa, to the effect that the Mahābhārata cosmographical account is a post-Purāṇic fabrication. As far as the Padmapurāṇa is concerned, the allegation has been definitely disproved by me in a paper contributed to the Festschrift F W Thomas (Poona, 1939), pp 19-22. And since the Purāṇika compilations must have derived their material from some older source-book or source-books—which need not necessarily have been the same as those upon which the Mahābhārata has based its account—we cannot, from a comparison of the present text of the Purāṇas and the Mahābhārata, logically arrive at specific relations between the two. If any conclusion is at all warranted, it would, I think, be in favour of regarding the Mbh Cosmography as earlier than that of the more systematized Purāṇas, particularly in view of the fact that, here and there, the statements made in the Bhīṣmaparvan show, in details and in terminology, a few “fossilized remnants” from a pre-Purāṇic stage in the evolution of Ancient Indian Cosmography.<sup>1</sup>

SPECIAL FEATURES OF THE PRESENT EDITION

The present edition of the Bhīṣmaparvan is based upon 34 MSS, 23 belonging to the Northern recension, and 11 to the Southern. There were also available five commentaries, including that of Devabodha, the oldest of them all, as well as the Old-Japanese translation-cum-paraphrase, and the Telugu version called the Āndhra Mahābhārataṃ, which I have tried to compare systematically with the constituted text. The above Critical Apparatus was further, in the Bhagavadgītā portion, augmented by the addition of seven more MSS of the text and nine commentaries. In classifying these MSS and estimating their relative importance, and in arriving at the constituted text, I have had the advantage of discussing debatable points with Dr V S Sukthankar, and I did not find any reason to depart from the rules and procedure for text-constitution as adopted in the volumes of the Critical Edition already published.

As against the Parvasamgraha total of 5,884 “official” slokas for the Bhīṣmaparvan, the constituted text gives 5,406 “official” stanzas or 11,739 “official” lines or ślokaśrīdhars. The additional passages presented by the various MSS total 1,548 ślokaśrīdhars, thus giving a percentage of 13.2 added lines. Seeing that this percentage

<sup>1</sup> As such, Schubring, in his review of Kirfel's book in the Z D M G (Band 75 [1921], pp 254 ff, particularly p 272), refers to the use of parvata as an equivalent for dvīpa in 6.12.5* (Cn जम्बूद्वीपस्य पर्वताकृतित्वाग्निमुपयन इत्युच्यते) and also in 6.12.7, and the enumeration, in some Dvīpas, of only six varṣas instead of the stereotyped seven of the Purāṇas, thereby pointing to an original two-sided, South-North viewpoint of the world, in place of the concentric ring formations of later texts. Dvīpa etymologically signifies water on two sides only. See also, Kirfel, p 16*

Ādi-parvan 67·7, Sabhā-parvan 95·3, Āraṇyakaparvan 19·7, Virāṭaparvan 121·8, and Udyogaparvan 13·6—

it is evident that the Bhīṣma has suffered least at the hands of provincial interpolators. The proximity of the Bhagavadgītā, which was read and adopted as a philosophical text-book throughout India, probably acted as a sort of wholesome check upon the latter-day Vyāsais, so that the text of the parvan (with the two or three exceptions to be presently noted) assumed a more or less stereotyped form.

The exceptions I refer to are [1] the Durgāstotra otherwise known as the Kātyāyanīstava which precedes the Bhagavadgītā (Bombay ed. chapter 23), [2] the Śveta episode (ibid chap. 47, st. 44 to chap. 49, st. 25) placed towards the end of the first day of the battle. The former of these is obviously a creation of the votaries of the goddess Kālī. It is found in the Bengali and the majority of the Devanāgarī MSS, but is absent in the Śāradā-Kashmirian version (with the exception of K<sub>2</sub> 4) and the entire Southern recension. Such sectarian additions were by no means uncommon in the epic, but had naturally a limited vogue. The Bhīsmaparvan itself presents four other characteristic additions (74*, 159*, 184* and 451*) describing the ape on the banner of Arjuna as the god Hanūmat himself, who strikes terror into the hearts of the opposing warriors by his shouts and snarls and grimaces. The motive for the insertion of the Śveta episode is not obvious. It seems, however, to have got into the epic at a very early period, seeing that, besides a couple of Bengali and six Devanāgarī MSS, it is met with in three Malayālam MSS (whose pedigree is somewhat erratic) as well as in the Old-Javanese version. The third instance is afforded by [3] the additions made to the Bhagavadgītā in the Kashmirian version. These last I have already described and discussed in the earlier sections of this Introduction (pp. LXXVIII–LXXXIV). That the critical text of the Bhagavadgītā that has emerged after the application of the accepted canons of text-criticism to the vast mass of critical apparatus available for the poem is, in the main, the text to which the great Vedāntic commentator, Ācārya Śaṅkara, gave the weight of his authority is another proof of the early fixation of the text of this parvan.

There are also three pieces in the Bhīṣma which one would have gladly seen out of the parvan, but which had to be retained as they were found in all available <sup>1</sup> This was worked out, under my direction, by Mr V. C. Devadhar of the Mahābhārata Department. The above figures naturally ignore the substituted passages, and (for convenience), in the case of the Ādi, Āraṇyaka and Virāṭa parvas, the 18, 8 and 1 prose passages (respectively). If the prose passages are taken into the account, their percentages would be slightly higher. In the case of the Āraṇyakaparvan, it includes GK adhy. 200, which was, by sheer oversight, not included in the edition, it is now issued as App. I, No. 21 A, as a supplement to that parvan.

MSS The first of them is [1] the lament of Dhṛtarāṣṭra in our chapter 15. The critical questions arising out of this I have discussed separately in my paper on Samjaya's "Eye Divine" published in the Annals, B O R I, Vol xxvii, pp 310-331. The second is [2] the Viśvopākṣhāna (chap 61 30 to 64 18), which is, both poetically and philosophically, not on a par with the Bhagavadgītā, and introduces the "caturvyūha" doctrine as yet unknown to that poem. The third is [3] the reduplication of the "Bhīma-pratyūṣā" episode, once on the third day of the battle, when Kṛṣṇa rushes towards Bhīma with the Sudarśana in his hand, and again on the ninth day of the battle, when Kṛṣṇa carries only the charioteer's piatoda. Several lines in the two episodes are identically worded. It is quite obvious that we do not want the incident to occur twice. The ninth or the penultimate day of Bhīma's generalship is the most appropriate occasion for it. But all MSS and even the Old-Javanese version has the reduplication. A critical comparison of the two passages is likely to suggest important questions concerning the evolution of the present form of the epic story<sup>1</sup>. But the discussion is likely to lift us into the somewhat giddy heights of Higher Criticism, which the present edition has very wisely decided to keep at an arm's length—at any rate until the edition according to the present plans is completed.

The transfer of the "Guru-abhigamana" chapter, from its position, in the Northern recension, subsequent to the Bhagavadgītā episode, to the position preceding the poem, as given by the Southern recension, has been already commented upon (p cxrv). Apart from wholesale omissions, additions and transpositions of the kind above referred to, the bulk of the Bhīmaparvan in the constituted text—ignoring the few tautologous passages in the war-descriptions—reads remarkably smooth. The present edition, it has been computed, has resulted in giving a better (i.e., more authentic) text for some three out of every thirty stanzas. But, on this point, the reader is entitled to form his own opinion. Next, as to outright emendations, I have allowed myself only eight of them.

Most of them are discussed in the Critical Notes. Of these, I am not quite satisfied with the make-shift reading proposed in 6 55 16<sup>b</sup>, while that in 6 51 1<sup>a</sup> is not objectively as probable as it is subjectively convincing. Those in 6 59 11<sup>d</sup> and 6 86 86<sup>a</sup> are obvious corrections of scribal errors.

As to the “uvāca” references, where the text itself uses a word like अववाच, the reference can be legitimately dispensed with, and I found that the best MSS.—although not always and consistently—obey the rule. I have invariably adopted this as the guiding principle, and I have, in practically every instance, found some MSS to support me. The only exceptions are 6 24 2 and 6 24 11 where, in spite of the word अववाच in 6 24 1 and 24 10, no MS omits the reference श्रीभगवानुवाच preceding stanzas 2 and 11. I have allowed these exceptions as indicating the traditional belief that Kṛṣṇa’s actual words are given in 6 24 2-3, and from 6 24 11 onwards.

The Bhagavadgītā has received a special attention in this edition both in the Introduction and in the varia lectiones at the foot of the text, where an attempt is made to cite parallel-references from the rest of the epic to the BG stanzas, half-stanzas and quarters. It is very probable that a few such references have escaped attention, but those actually listed are numerous enough to show the dominating influence of the BG phrases and sentiments over the rest of the epic. In the Critical Notes at the end also, the Bhagavadgītā portion occupies eighteen pages (including three pages of Bibliography), while the rest of the Bhīṣmaparvan occupies only twentyfour pages. This was inevitable. Purely exegetical notes are, of course, avoided as far as possible.

The Telugu translation of the Mahābhārata, which had not received sufficient attention in the earlier volumes of this edition, has been treated at some length (Introduction, pp cii-civ), although, being a mere translation, it could not be of use in settling the original text proper. Nor is it everywhere a faithful translation: over sixteen out of the eighteen adhyāyas of the Bhagavadgītā, for instance, are passed over by it in silence (!)

The Javanese version of the Bhīṣmaparvan has been more useful, as it embodies occasional Sanskrit quotations, which are all culled together in Appendix II. Of the 700 stanzas of the Bhagavadgītā, the O-J version betrays knowledge of less than 140, and as it was urged on its behalf that it probably represents, or is a finger-pointer to, an earlier and less elaborated form of the BG, I have submitted the O-J version of the BG—if version it can at all be called—to a searching examination (ante, pp xcii-ciii), resulting in a downright negation of that claim. The introduction of a portion of Bhīṣma’s instructions to Yudhiṣṭhira as regards royal duties (containing actual stanzas from the Śāntiparvan, GK chapter 71) cannot be taken to imply that the author of the Old-Javanese version did not know the Śāntiparvan at all, seeing that in the Old-Javanese Ādiparvan, a Śāntiparvan of 333 chapters giving 14,525 stanzas is actually mentioned<sup>1</sup>. The O-J version also knows Bhīṣma’s awaiting the Uttaraṃyana.

The elaborate concordance of the Critical Edition with the Bombay, Calcutta, and Madras editions given at the end of this Introduction is a somewhat improved form of a similar concordance supplied by Prof F Edgerton in his edition of the Sabbā-parvan. The concordance enables the reader, having any edition of the epic before him, not only to find out corresponding reference to the other editions, but also to find out what stanzas are omitted, what are substituted and what are extra in the several editions. It is desirable that similar concordances be prepared not only for the remaining volumes of the Critical Edition, but also for the volumes already published, which do not contain this useful feature.

Attention, finally, has to be drawn to the beautiful illustrations, prepared under the direction of Shrimant Rajasaheb of Aundh, which adorn this edition. The pictures for the entire edition cannot unfortunately be painted in advance unless and until the text which they are meant to illustrate is critically established. The Rajasaheb had, for instance, already painted the Bhīsmaparijñā picture sometime ago, but a new picture on the theme had to be prepared for the present edition on the basis of the motif and the general outline and background now supplied ( see illustration facing p 583 ), and the result is ever so much more satisfactory. We have, therefore, to accept the fact that the preparation of neither the Critical Edition nor the illustrations can be unduly hustled.

Although intimately connected with the working of the Mahābhārata Department from its inception, it was only in August 1935 that I decided to edit a parvan for the Critical Edition. My choice fell naturally upon the Bhīsmaparvan, embodying as it does the world-famous Bhagavadgītā, to which I was attracted since my own college days and of which I have been a close student ever since.

The resolution of the Regulating Council of the B O R Institute entrusting me with the work of editing the Bhīsmaparvan was communicated to me in August 1935, when I was working as the University Professor of Sanskrit at the Benares Hindu University. Such time as I could then spare while the University was in session, and particularly during the summer vacations, I devoted to a preliminary study of the parvan with the help of the printed editions and of the copies of select collations of certain chapters of the parvan that were, at my desire and expense, prepared and supplied to me. I was able to complete the first draft of the constituted text of the Bhīsmaparvan in July 1939. The writing out of the Critical Apparatus on the basis of the constituted text was soon taken in hand, and the work kept such collation staff of the Mbh Department as could be spared for the purpose fully engaged for the next year and a half. Thereafter, availing myself of privilege leave for a couple of months in conjunction with the summer vacation, I was able to go through the Critical Apparatus and complete in its light my revision of the first draft of the constituted text and submit it to the General Editor on 1-2-1941. This was in due course approved by the Editorial Committee, but before any funds could be set aside and arrangements for the printing thought of, Dr V S Sukthankar, the General Editor, passed away (Jan 21, 1943), so that the present volume had to forego the great advantage of Dr Sukthankar's vigilant eye and paternal solicitude in the matter not only of the final approval of the proofs, but of the final shaping of the Introduction, in which, with his consent and approval, I had decided to give a full critical account of the individual MSS, with a view to arrive at a more detailed picture of their complex textual inheritance (see the Pedigree on p. cxv). Sukthankar had also suggested to me to undertake a thorough examination of the problem of the Kashmir recension of the Bhagavadgītā, which, he felt, deserved a fresh scrutiny in view of the circumstance that the Śāradā and the Kashmirian versions, which had been regarded as of primary importance in the Mahābhārata text-constitution, seemed to endorse that recension. My tentative conclusions in the matter had met with Sukthankar's approval, but that he should not have been spared to assist in the final shaping of them in the Introduction is a circumstance that I regret most of all.

The B. O. R. Institute has thought fit, in succession to Dr Sukthankar, to entrust the great and onerous task of the General Editor of the Critical Edition of the Mahābhārata to me, Sukthankar's senior by several years, and while I have—not without some hesitation—accepted the task, by which Sukthankar brought international recognition to the Institute's work on the Great Epic of India, in all humility and purely as a call of duty, I must not fail to record here my appreciation of the friendly advice and cooperation that I received from Dr Sukthankar, not only while I was engaged on this edition of the Bhīṣmaparvan, but throughout the period of some eighteen years that we had been jointly working together in the cause of the Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute in general, and of the Critical Edition of the epic in particular.

The present volume is the first volume of the Critical Edition of the Mahābhārata to be set in type in the Institute's own composing rooms. Since, however, the Institute has not yet been able to possess a printing machine of its own, we have to seek the cooperation of our ever-obliging neighbour—the Aiyabhushan Press of the Servants of India Society—as far as the printing of the composed and corrected forms was concerned. The type used in the volume was procured from the well-known type-foundry of the Nanyang Sagai Press of Bombay, who have been very prompt and obliging in executing, at short notice, the numerous demands for different varieties of types that the edition had to use. The paper on which the volume is printed was specially manufactured for the Critical Edition by the Mysore Paper Mills at Bhadivatī which—at a time when paper was scarce and costly—met all our demands with promptness and care. Thanks are also due to the Paper-controlling Officers of the Central and Provincial Governments who gave for the Institute's work the maximum concession allowable within the letter of the law.

While the externals of the present volume are thus the result of the combined goodwill and assistance of the agencies just enumerated, in the preparation of this edition, the Editor has received assistance from (1) the staff of collators working under the direction of Mr S N Tadpatīkar, M A, the Supervisor for collations, who was also responsible for supplying variants and citations from the commentaries. The staff, it is sad to report, suffered, during the progress of the work on the Bhīṣmaparvan, a very heavy loss by the deaths of Shankar Shastī Bhīlavadīkar, an expert in reading Śāradā MSS, and of Pandit R J Joshi, soon after his retirement. Next, I have to mention (2) the writers of Critical Apparatus, amongst whom special mention is due to Mr D V Naravane, who was a past-master in the complicated technique of Apparatus-writing, but who never enjoyed an enviable health, his sole ambition during his last illness being to complete the final revision of the Bhīṣmaparvan, Text and Apparatus, under my supervision before giving it to the printers—an ambition which he just managed to fulfil about a month prior to his untimely death. Words fall short to adequately express one's appreciation of such devoted service. Thirdly, I have to mention the proof-readers, Mr M V Vaidya, M A, and Pandit K V Kṛishnamurty, who both of them possess a rare instinct for sensing errors and detecting misprints. I have to add that Mr Kṛishnamurty also rendered invaluable assistance in preparing for me tabulated statements for each manuscript serially, giving their omissions, additions and transpositions, which have much lightened my labours in compiling the detailed account of the MSS in the Introduction. Finally (4), I must not fail to record the exemplary patience, accuracy and diligence of Mr S B Mahabaleshwaikar, the head compositor of the Mahābhārata section of the Press, and of his band of co-workers, which alone prevented the task of proof-reading, at my age, from being the irksome imposition that it might otherwise have been. It is the willing and cheerful cooperation of all these persons that alone has enabled me to discharge the joint and taxing duty of the General Editor as well as of a sort of a manager-and-foreman for the Press.

It may be added that the actual printing of the Bhīṣmaparvan volume extended over forty months, giving an average of about 25 pages per month. This average has been bettered only by the Āiānyakaparvan (printed at the Āryabhātī Press, Lahore) printing 31 pages per month. The other parvans were much more slow, the Ādi giving an average of 16 pages per month, the Sabhā also 16, the Virāta only 12 pages per month, while the Udyoga reached the average of 20 pages per month. I may here express the hope, now that the Institute's Press is fully equipped with the required varieties and quantities of type, that in the coming years — assuming that we have a printing machine of our own — the Institute's Press will be able to give a much quicker out-turn, thereby materially shortening the time required for the completion of this great and national undertaking

This edition of the Bhishmaparvan, completed by me after nearly twelve years' labour, is now offered, as a sort of a vānmayā-śrāddha, to the revered memory of Ramakrishna Gopal Bhandarkar on the occasion of his twenty-second death-anniversary. May it be regarded as a tribute worthy of that great śaṅkṛ, and may it also be, in accordance with BG 18.70, acceptable to Lord Kṛṣṇa as a proper istī of the Jñānāyājñā that is to redound to His Glory!

Postscript Between the formal publication of the present volume on the last Rṣipaṇcamī day and its being placed on the market in proper binding, some time had necessarily to intervene. That interval brought us the great national calamity in the passing away of Mahatma Gandhi, the Inspired Architect of India's Freedom, who had seen this volume and blessed it during its preparation, and who was anxious to see it when complete. Following the timely suggestion of some kind friends, it has been decided to collect, in revered memory of the Mahatma whose favourite text, the Bhagavadgītā, is contained in this volume, anonymous donations to cover the actual printing cost of the volume. A few thousands have been already collected, and the list will be kept open until the sum of Rupees thirty-two thousand is realised. A facsimile of the letter of Mahatma Gandhi relating to this volume is given on the opposite page.
